NEWTON.

—Pianos, Farley, 433 Washington St., N.
—Mrs. Margaret Magoley has been granted a widow's pension.

—Mr. Walter U. Lawson has returned from Baltimore, where he went on a short trip.

—A recent engagement is that of Miss Alice Gilman and Mr. Atherton Clark, both of this city.

—Mr. E. S. Hamblen and Mr. Philip Whitney have returned from a short trip to New York.

—Rev. H. G. Spaulding begins next week a course of three illustrated lectures before the Women's Alliance of Arlington.

—Clifton, the other little grandson of W. B. Robinson of Haverhill, has entirely recovered from diphtheria.

—Mr. Eddy and family formerly of Boston have leased and are occupying one of the new houses in Billings' park.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wheelock left yesterday for New York and will sail tomorrow for London, to be gone three months.

—Dr. Shinn has completed 20 years of his rectorship of Grace Church. A discourse commemorating this fact will be delivered on Sunday morning.

—Mr. E. A. Patterson of Pearl street has removed to Hartford, on account of the change to that place of the rope company's offices.

—The Social Science Club will meet at Mrs. Wm. H. Boddgett's, Centre street, Wednesday, Jan. 10, at 10 a. m. Parliamentary Drill by Mrs. Shattuck.

—Mrs. Winifred S. Hutchinson and Mr. Harold Hutchinson of Jefferson street, leave next Tuesday for Asheville, North Carolina, where they will remain for the remainder of the winter.

—The seventh annual ball of Middlesex court 66, will be given in Armory Hall, Friday evening Jan. 11. The music for the occasion will be furnished by Spring's orchestra.

—Colonel and Mrs. Alexander M. Ferris of Haverhill will leave the first of February for an extended trip abroad. They will sail on the "Vera" from New York and will travel as far as Rome, returning some time in May.

—Each Epiphany season for several years past, the large congregations attending Grace Church at the Special Service, have been greatly delighted at the rendering of the old Carol, "The Kings of Orient." It is to be repeated on Sunday night.

—The younger set are eagerly looking forward to the opening of Prof. Munroe's Thursday evening assemblies at the Newton Club Assembly Hall on Jan. 10. Mrs. W. G. Monk will chaperone quite a large number from here.

—Miss Alice F. Peirce will give the second in her series of "Musical Talks" for her pupils, on Saturday, Jan. 5th, at her studio, Eliot block. Her subject will be "John Sebastian Bach" and will be illustrated musically, by the pupils.

—A whist party was given by Miss Jennie Hart at her home on Nonantum place, Wednesday evening. Mabel Hartly won first prize and the booty went to Mr. Ed. Kimball of Newtonville. Following the distribution of prizes, a collation was served.

—The skating has been good the past week, and with good skating on all ponds here, there has been no complaining as to lack of amusement. On the Charles river at Riverside the ice is in fine condition, and a number from here have been enjoying it nightly.

—The engagement has been announced of Miss Helen Gertrude Bryan, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Bryan of Washington, and Mr. Albert Wesley White formerly of Hotel Hunnewell. Miss Bryan made her debut at a tea given in her honor on Monday.

—The Week of Prayer will be observed in Newton by union services of the Eliot, Immanuel, and Methodist churches on Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7.30 o'clock in the Baptist church, with such separate meetings for the other evenings as the various churches may arrange.

—The cards are out for the wedding of Miss Lucille May Shepard and Mr. Edward Everett Hayward. The ceremony occurs in Grace church, Wednesday evening next, at 8 o'clock, and it is to be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Wright, 18 Pearl street.

—Anti-toxine was used at the Newton Hospital, Monday evening, for the first time, with an advance case of diphtheria. Dr. Curtis, superintendent of the Hospital, and a number of other physicians witnessed the application of the new remedy, which was followed by favorable results. Boston papers spoke of it as the first time the remedy was used in Newton, which is incorrect, as the GRAPHIC reported an application of it by Dr. Winslow some weeks ago, which was followed by very favorable results.

—Mr. Geo. Lewis Holmes, son of Mr. Fred Holmes of Newton street, was married in the chantry of Grace Church, New York city, Jan. 2, at 2 p. m., to Miss Nannie Smith Whitford of Stony Brook, N. Y. The chantry was beautifully decorated with plants and flowers. The maid of honor was Miss Jennie R. Whitford, a sister of the bride. The best man was Mr. Welles E. Holmes of Newton and the ushers were Mr. Fred H. Hitchcock of New York, formerly of Newton, and Mr. Harry F. Bray of Gloucester, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holmes and Miss Mary Holmes of Newton were present among the guests. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes left on their wedding tour. They will reside in New York city.

—Dr. and Mrs. Babcock of Syracuse, N. Y., were given a very large reception by Dr. Babcock's father and mother, at their home in Morrisville, N. Y., on Dec. 26, and the following night a large ball was given in their honor at Morrisville. Mr. W. P. Wentworth of this city has drawn the plans for a handsome residence Dr. Babcock will build at Syracuse in the spring.

—Pull Choral Service, Eliot Church, Sunday evening Jan. 6:

Organ Prelude, Gullmount
Anthem, "O Lord, wilt thou not the death of a sinner?" Gaul Soprano, Come ye blessed from "Holy City" Gaul
Hymn for Tenor, Moszkowski
Anthem, "Blessing, Glory, Wisdom, Power" Gaul Organ Postlude, Dunham

—Miss Grace G. Wright daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Stephenson of this city and Mr. Adnah Nayhart of Tidoube, Pa., were married at the residence of the bride's parents here on Church street, Wednesday evening. Both young people are well known in society, and the bride is one of Newton's most popular young ladies. Owing to a recent bereavement in the bride's family the wedding was a very quiet affair. The ceremony was private, and only the relatives of the bride and groom were present. Rev. Francis B. Hornbrook of the Channing Church officiated. The best man was J. W. Grandin of Washington, and the maid of honor Miss Helen Cobb of this city. The bride was gown in white satin, cut en traine, with trimmings of chiffon and gold. She carried a bunch of Bride roses. An informal reception followed the ceremony, and at its close, Mr. and Mrs. Nayhart left for California. On their return they will be "at home" in Newton, April 6.

—Borrow your money on mortgage from Aban. Trowbridge & Co.

—Business and professional men and use artistic hair cutting at Burns', Cole's block.

—Mr. and Mrs. Simeon A. Lewis, formerly of Newtonville, are at the Hunnewell for the winter.

—Mr. Harry Spaulding left Thursday for Los Angeles by way of New Orleans and will spend the winter in California.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fessenden and Miss Fessenden, formerly of Auburndale, are stopping at Hotel Hunnewell, for the winter.

—Mr. Guy Smith, who has been employed in the job printing department of the GRAPHIC the past 2 years, has resigned his position and removes to Gloucester Saturday. This change was brought about by the death of his father, a resident of Gloucester, who passed away last Friday.

—Wiley S. & Frank Edwards report recent rentals as follows: The McElwaine house, corner Cypress and Parker streets, Newton Centre, to Rev. Lawrence Phelps; Mrs. Roger's new house No. 134 Franklin street, Newton, to Mr. L. B. Hallowell; half of new double house on Ripley Terrace, corner Centre street, Newton Centre, to W. E. Miles of the Overman Where Company; residence of Charles W. Lord, No. 56 Waverley avenue, Newton, to Mr. Samuel Fessenden.

—Mrs. C. W. Loring gave a reception from 5 to 7, yesterday afternoon at her residence on Park street, introducing her daughter, Miss Rose Loring, into society. A large number of invitations were sent out and guests were present from the Newtons, Brookline, Cambridge, Boston, Providence and New York. Mrs. Loring was assisted by a group of pretty young ladies who poured in the dining room. Miss Alice Loring of Brookline, Miss Alice Brooks, Miss Carrie Coppins, Miss Florence Elms, Miss Florence Jewell, Miss Bessie Holmes.

—In response to several inquiries for a midwinter dancing class, Miss Burke has decided to hold a session for beginners every Saturday at one o'clock p. m., beginning January 12th. This will give parents an exceptional opportunity. The session will be from one o'clock to three o'clock. Arrangements can be made for entrance by seeing Miss Burke at Cole's Hall, or by addressing her as above. There is a class for adults every Wednesday at 8 o'clock p. m.

All seats free.

—The Young Men's Christian Association held its annual reception and banquet at the Newton Club on Wednesday night. The affair was a most successful one, and friends sat down to an excellent supper provided by the Ladies Auxiliary. At the conclusion of the spread a number of addresses were made and a fine musical and literary program rendered. Among the prominent speakers were, J. R. W. Shapleigh, president of the Association; Hon. Gorham D. Gilman, the first president; Mr. Gilkey of Watertown; Rev. Geo. Merrill, pastor of the First Baptist church; Prof. Morris of Boston and State Secretary R. E. Lewis. It was eloquently urged that the beginning of the new year was the time for the young men of Newton to take over a new leaf and they were admonished that it would be greatly to their advantage if they did so. Mr. Atwood rendered some very fine cornet solos, Mr. E. F. Bacon played the autoharp and sang most acceptably, and Mr. Graham read some humorous selections. Mr. Parker closed the exercises with an earnest appeal for the support of the association and the program was fittingly concluded by the rendering in unison of the hymn, "America."

—The fifth annual concert of the Choir Guild of Grace church was given in Eliot Hall, Wednesday evening, before a crowded and enthusiastic house. They were assisted by an orchestra of 17 players from the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and by Mr. Heinrich Schuecker, harpist, whose selections received very enthusiastic endorsement. The soloists were Mr. C. N. Sladen, and Masters William D. Poole and William F. Clapp. The program was as usual a very interesting one, and the choruses were admirably sung. The large choir of men and boys giving evidence of the skillful training it receives under Mr. Harry Brooks Day. The Grace church choir stands in the front time for the best of the best of the choruses, was Mr. Day's "Lochiel" with tenor solo by Mr. Sladen. The music seemed admirably suited to the swing of the work, and the applause was very enthusiastic. The two solos by Master Poole were so finely sung that he had to respond to an encore, and he received also a hand some bouquet of flowers. Master Clapp sang one of his solo Schubert's beautiful "Who is Sylvia," which was so admirably given that he repeated it in response to an enthusiastic encore. The choir gave two very fine selections, and the concert was one of the best that has been given by the choir. The last number was Mr. Day's Christmas carol, "There is a Song in the Air," which music lovers can never hear too often, but its effect was rather marred by the usual scramble among Newton audiences to get out of the hall and catch the trains and street cars. Perhaps the only way to remedy it would be for the concert leader to omit the last number and that would only succeed the first time of trial.

—The gentlemen interested in a neighborhood club for Hunnewell Hill met at the residence of ex-Mayor Hibbard last evening. The committee appointed at the preceding meeting reported in favor of Dr. Bartlett's residence, off Hunnewell avenue, as conveniently located, modern in style and suited to the needs of a club. It recommended hiring it for a year; also that the membership be limited to 50. It favored an initiation fee of $15, the raising of a fund to fit up the clubhouse, and the establishing of the dues at $5 per quarter. The district was divided up and those present were given a list of names to canvas for membership.

Bargains in Fine Cloaks.

Among the bargains now offered ladies should not fail to visit Chandler & Co.'s, and see the very handsome cloaks which are exhibited, and marked down to about half the former figures. The garments shown by this firm are all this season's goods, made in the best manner and of the latest styles, and it is a very favorable opportunity to secure a stylish and handsome garment for about half its value. A few of the bargains are advertised in this issue.

NEWTON CLUB MATTERS.

The new year was auspiciously inaugurated by the society set of the Newton Club Tuesday evening with a dinner dance at the Newton Clubhouse. The affair was one in the series of social functions arranged by the entertainment committee. The clubhouse was brilliantly illuminated, and the dining and assembly halls were tastefully decorated. The dinner was served at 6.30 o'clock, the covers being laid for 80. The tables were garnished with festoons of pink and with masses of cut flowers and graceful ferns. During the supper hour music was furnished by a band and guitar club. After the dinner the company adjourned to the assembly hall, where dancing was in order until nearly midnight. The hall was decorated with palms and tall tropical plants arranged in effective groupings. On the raised platform behind a screen of palms and ferns an orchestra of ten pieces discoursed sweet strains. The floor was under the direction of Mr. Edward P. May and a staff of aids. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Priest, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Felton, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Kingsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dennison, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Powers, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Emerson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Riley, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Keene, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Bridgman, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Bullard, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Anders, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hartley, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. James W. French, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Follett, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Schofield, Mr. and Mrs. William Paul, Mrs. Edward P. May, Mrs. Raymond, Mrs. Odorne, Mrs. Story, Mrs. Phillips, Misses Helen French, Raymond, Burpee, Bridges and Field.

The New England whist association trophy, a shield, presented by Pres. Barney, was won Wednesday night by the Newton club team in a challenge match with the American whist club team, 13 tricks in 32 hands.

The Newton team consisted of Fisher Ames, Dr. H. P. Perkins, George W. Morse and H. D. Kingsbury. The American club team comprises Walter S. Allen, Charles S. Knowles, Lander M. Bouve and Charles A. White. It won the trophy at the Parker house, Nov. 26, and defended it successfully against the Old Dorchester club. The shield is held by the Newton club subject to challenge.

The Sumner and Pierce Banquet.

It was a happy thought of ex Governor Claflin and others, which gathered together some one hundred and more personal friends and admirers of Charles Sumner, to commemorate the great senator, and in admiration for the remarkably able, truthful and sympathetic biography of the same.

Rarely has the biographer so great a character, and equally rare has a great character so able a biographer.

It was a remarkable gathering, nearly every one of whom was an active participant in the great conflict between freedom and slavery. William Claflin was the man in all Massachusetts to inaugurate such an occasion.

Well do I remember the enthusiasm created among the anti-slavery men and women of our state, when the wealthy and honored citizen of Hopkinton came among them to champion the cause of the slave.

The wealthy and prominent men in church and state either opposed or stood aloof, and looked with scorn upon the abolitionists, who were mostly of the common walks in life. This feeling was intensified with a men of high character joined the anti-slavery portion.

I recall the sad occasion when Charles Sumner came to his home in Boston after the murderous assault of Brooks.

It was my privilege to leave school duties and join the host who met the senator at Cottage station, Brookline, and escort him up Beacon street. Not a single token of welcome appeared in that street until we reached the home of his personal friend, Henry A. Pierce, afterwards U. S. Minister to the Sandwich Islands. Though the street was crowded with the naval cadet procession, others, notably Edmund Quincy, Francis Jackson, Rev. Samuel J. May, were out in that street.

hence the mobs, for the extremes of wealth and dregs of society always meet in a join forces against moral reform.

It can be imagined with what gladness of heart such as young William Claflin were welcomed to our ranks. Mr. Claflin's were not the only eyes which filled with sympathetic tears as our noble Senator Hoor, who so admirably presided, spoke the following words of tribute to the ex-Governor, Newton's first and most honored citizen for many years:

"The princely, generous merchant, William Claflin, who almost alone of that honored band, here today, the story of whose life is the story of every righteous and generous cause, whose friendship and that of his accomplished and charming wife, have been the delight and solace in their darkest hours of Sumner, Andrew and Whittier."

Y. M. C. A.

The directors of the Y. M. C. A. held their regular monthly business meeting Wednesday evening and transacted some important business. They desire to thank the ladies who so kindly contributed food, and for their efforts for the New Year's reception, which was so successful.

"Diligent in Business" is the subject for the Boys' meeting, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The men's meeting begins at 4 o'clock and it is expected that it will be very interesting.

LAST MEETING OF THE YEAR.

BOTH BRANCHES IN SESSION MONDAY EVENING—LIVELY TIME IN THE COMMON COUNCIL CAUCUS OVER CHOICE OF PRESIDENT—MR. JOSEPH W. PARKER WINS ON THE THIRTEENTH BALLOT—THREE YEARS' CONTRACT FOR STREET LIGHTING MADE WITH NEWTON AND WATERTOWN GAS LIGHT CO.

On Monday night, both branches of the city government met, it being the final meeting of the year 1894 and the last opportunity for the transaction of business prior to the session of the retiring city council preceding the inaugural ceremonies. In the board of mayor and aldermen, Mayor Fenno presided. He read several communications. The first was from G. H. Elder, building inspector, relative to the erection of a building for apartments and stores corner of Faxon and California streets. The petitioner was E. Champagne. The inspector thought it was a safe situation and offered no objection to the granting of the permit. It was granted on motion of Alderman Rumery.

A communication was received from the board of health asking that its unexpended balance of 1894 be added to the appropriation for 1895.

A communication from Michael McMahon relative to alleged injuries received was referred to the committee on claims.

A communication was received from the city solicitor relative to a curfew of bonds submitted by the Municipal Fire Alarm and Police Signal Co. It stated that the securities were insufficient, but that the company had agreed to furnish another bond that would prove entirely satisfactory in that respect.

Next in order came several hearings. The following were held and closed, no remonstrants appearing: on the laying out of Carlton street, Crofton road, Waban avenue to Nehoiden road, Dartmouth street from Commonwealth avenue to Prince street, Exeter street, Nehoiden road, Waban avenue from Beacon to Crofton road; on the laying out of a sewer on Lincoln court from Lincoln park south-easterly.

A hearing on the petition of the Woburn and Boston Street Railway Company asking for an extension of time until July 1 to build its tracks was closed. Several petitions for sewers were presented.

Orders were adopted authorizing the laying of sewers in Lincoln court and Lombard street.

Alderman Plummer presented the petition of Frank E. Read, et al., asking for a fire-alarm signal station at a point near the junction of Melrose street and Ware road. The Ward Five alderman said that there had been considerable building in that locality where numerous railroad men had settled and put up houses. The petition was referred to the committee on fire department.

Orders were adopted authorizing the laying of a sewer in Adams street from Cottage court and granting free use of the City Hall, Feb. 11, 12, 13 and 14 for an entertainment in aid of the Newton Hospital.

A this point, Alderman Riffe presented the contract on a three years' basis entered into by the city and Newton and Watertown Gas & Electric Light Co. to provide for Newton's street lighting. It is considered an excellent arrangement for the city and provides, it is believed, for first-class service. The electric by its provisions will be lighted every night in the year, the moon schedule having been retired, it is hoped, never to be again resurrected. The prices agreed upon for electric lights, gas and oil are: oil, $1.00; gas, $1.50; incandescent, $1.75; arc, $1.00. These figures are for each lamp per annum. It is required that the company keep the posts, lamps, machinery and appurtenances in first class shape that lamps be lighted from sunset until midnight (except the arc), which are to burn all night. The contract insists upon gas of good quality and in case of gas lamps an equipment of 4-foot burners to be kept in such condition as shall furnish and burn the full measure of 4 cubic feet of gas per hour. The contract dates from Jan. 1, '95 to Jan. 1, '98.

To determine the quality of the gas, strength, quality and quantity of the gas or the electric current, it is provided that any competent and impartial expert, approved by the company and the city shall be employed to make the test. In case of the failure of the company and city to agree upon the test, the test shall be made by the state inspector of gas and electricity. If any deficiency is shown in the standard of gas or electricity desired, the company will be held responsible and must make good any losses that the city would sustain in the event of being served with light of inferior quality. The company must also allow a reduction where lights are not lighted that have been so ordered. Altogether, the contract seems to be a very explicit and carefully drawn document, fully protecting the city's interests.

On motion of Alderman Riffe, the mayor was authorized to execute a contract with the Newton and Watertown Gas Light Company agreeably to the form prepared by the committee on fuel and street lights, of which the main provisions were above outlined.

Alderman Riffe offered an order which brought out some discussion, providing for the granting of an extension of time to the Newton and Boston Street Railway Company in which to build its electric road along the new boulevard, from the Boston line to Washington street. The locations granted provide for a double-track road with necessary turnouts. It is required that the rails weigh not less than 56 pounds to the yard and that crossings be paved between the rails and for the usual distance (18 inches) outside the rails. If work on the proposed street railroad is not commenced twelve months from date, the order granting the boulevard location to the Newton and Boston Company becomes void. There is an important provision in the order which gives the city indemnity for any damage that may result to its water or gas pipes on account of escaping electric currents.

Alderman Bothfield—Is there any provision to cover contact with other wires?

Alderman Riffe—No, but that might be added, I desire to include in the order a provision covering that point.

Alderman Bothfield—Have you any assurance that the street railway company will extend its tracks beyond Washington street on the line of the boulevard? It would seem to me unwise to grant to a railroad what might be termed the best part of the boulevard location, unless assured that it would continue the line through the territory beyond Washington street, you give up the best part of the location. It may prevent other roads from occupying the less desirable sections through the more sparsely settled section where the greater necessity for some method of development is apparent.

After some further remarks, Alderman Riffe withdrew the order.

Alderman Bothfield submitted the report of the committee on printing relative to the bids for the city printing. He said that the contract had been awarded to Mr. E. D. Baldwin, publisher of the GRAPHIC. There were several bids.

Orders were adopted appropriating $3000 from any unexpended balances to be added to the appropriation for highway general repairs and to be utilized for the construction of sheds on Abundale avenue; authorizing the laying out of Exeter street from Berkeley to Commonwealth avenue; also the laying out and acceptance of Dartmouth and Dole streets, Park and Waban avenues, Crofton, Saxon, Nehoiden and Carlton roads.

Orders were adopted authorizing the city treasurer to pay $24,258 interest on water debt, $850 interest on debt and $2000 interest on sewer bonds; authorizing the city treasurer to pay $9075, premium on $100,000 sewer bonds sold in September, 1894; placing $1314.72 transferred from the sewer construction account to the credit of the Metropolitan Sewer construction account to provide for Newton's proportion to the Metropolitan sewer construction sinking fund; appropriating $110 for interest on the unexpended portion of the Kenrick fund, establishing an excess and deficiency account, adding $200 to the amount of unexpended balance of the board of health to its appropriation for 1895.

David Young of Roxbury was given a renewal of license to play with 6 other musicians in the streets of the city. An innholder's license was refused, Daniel Saloni of Ward 6 upon recommendation of the city marshal.

Alderman Riffe presented the joint petition of the Newton Centre Improvement Association, N. A. A., and Newton Highlands Improvement Society requesting permit to hold a fancy dress carnival on Crystal Lake the evening of Jan. 3, with the option of postponing the date if the weather proved unfavorable. The petitioners also desired authority to build bonfires on the ice and the use of hose and water to flood the lake if it was found necessary.

Alderman Riffe said that he thought it would be a desirable thing to grant the permit if it were possible to do so, inasmuch as it would provide amusement for a great many young people and help to awaken life in the city. There is an obstacle, continued the alderman, in doing this, for certain property rights in the pond are claimed by Mr. E. H. Ellis and there is some opposition to the proposed carnival. A letter from Mr. H. W. Mason, attorney, representing the opposition was read. It stated that there was some controversy over the question of property rights in the lake. It was either the property of Mr. Ellis or the Commonwealth, Mr. Mason claimed; hence the city has no jurisdiction and no power to grant a permit for holding a public carnival there.

Alderman Plummer—It seems to me that Mr. Ellis' claim to certain rights in the lake should be determined. He bores up every once in a while with his claims and it should be ascertained what rights, if any, he has in the pond. Mr. A. L. Rand of the Newton Centre Improvement Association is here tonight and I should like to have an opinion from him on this matter. Will Mr. Rand please state his views concerning the city's liability to damages provided this permit is granted?

Mr. Rand in reply said that he did not know whether the city could or could not be held for damages. Continuing, he said that the idea of holding the carnival on Crystal Lake originated with one of the societies numbered among the petitioners. He considered an excellent and a delightful, recreative form of amusement, providing amusement for a great many young people. To make the carnival a success it must be held on the ice and the illuminative features such as bonfires and electric lights are necessary to carry out the project. Those interested in the carnival desire to have the carnival held on the ice, and he thought it might belong to the pond has been open for skating, bathing and boating privileges since 1890. Of course it is not the intent in the present case to infringe on any property rights. The bonfires would not, in his judgment, result in any serious injury. The company could be removed at the conclusion of the carnival. It is proposed to illuminate the lake by putting up poles and wires on the grounds of the abutments or by means of caissons. There is a wide-spread interest in the project. President Parker of the Newton and Boston Street Railway Company offered to put up the lights and supply the power and, in fact, went further than that, stating that the company would illuminate the pond every night during the skating season if it could be made accessible to the public. It is, practically, the only pond in Newton Centre available for skating or for the sort of recreative sports in which an ice carnival may be classed. Of course, those in charge of the enterprise want to see it go through, but they propose to do only what is right and perfectly legitimate.

Alderman Riffe—Until the question of title in the pond is settled, the city would have no right to act on any petition; in fact it has no jurisdiction in the case, apparently, for the lake is either the property of Mr. Ellis or it belongs to the state. It has been intimated to me that Mr. Ellis is willing to make some arrangement with the city that the carnival may be stopped. The city council can grant the free use of water, with the privilege of using hose. I cannot see the way clear beyond that.

Alderman Plummer asked if the societies interested were willing to assume the risk in case any claim was brought against the city. There was an interruption at this point and there was no response to the interrogation. Alderman Plummer expressed the opinion later that it would be well to draw Mr. Ellis' aid and ascertain what right, if any, he had in the lake.

Mr. Rand thought Alderman Plummer's idea an excellent one. Alderman Riffe said that the city solicitor had expressed the opinion once that Mr. Ellis had rights in it that could not be tampered with.

It was explained at this point that the Newton and Watertown Gas Light Co. had agreed to furnish the lamps and the wires for the illumination of the lake and the Newton and Boston Street Railway Company the power. President Parker said that the gas company could run the necessary wires on its own poles through Crofton street. Following the discussion, these orders were adopted: Authorizing water board to grant free use of water and the chief of fire department free use of hose to petitioners representing the Newton Centre Improvement Association and two other local societies in order that Crystal Lake may be flooded, thereby granting that privilege to the city's authority; authorizing the Newton and Watertown Gas Light Company to run wires from Griffin avenue across Walnut street to connect with the feed wires of the Newton and Boston Street Railway Company for temporary lighting purposes.

The order requesting the Legislature to grant authority to establish a board of public works came up from the common council amended, so that slight changes being made in Sections 2, 3 and 5. After being amended in the lower branch, it was voted to refer the order to the next city government.

Alderman Bothfield said that the amendments were only to make certain points more explicit and that they did not change the nature of the proposed act as a whole.

Alderman Riffe said that the chief objection he saw was the authority given to the board in connection with proposed highway improvements. I cannot, he added, see the necessity of having the duties of members of the board defined by the Legislature. The board, I think, should be wholly under control of the city council.

Alderman Bothfield—We can create a board of public works under our charter, but it provides for a life-tenure of office to which the stated objection has been urged. We cannot, besides, define the duties of members of the board by ordinance. There is, however, nothing arbitrary about the act. The board can do nothing that the council does not direct.

After some further discussion the public works order was referred in concurrence to the next city government.

An invitation was read requesting the presence of the mayor and members of the city council at the dedicatory exercises of the new Hyde schoolhouse, Thursday, evening, Jan. 10, at 8 p. m.

An order was passed authorizing the placing of 6 incandescent lamps on River street, 1 of lamp on Dedham street and 1 street light on Ridge avenue.

The committee on licenses reported that in the Partridge case insufficient evidence was found to warrant the revoking of his license. The committee recommended the exercise of more care on the part of the board in the future in avoiding an appearance likely to bring about inquiry and quite likely an investigation.

The board voted to adjourn to meet Monday, Jan. 7, at 2 p. m.

Common Council.

In this branch, the business was largely of a concurrent nature. There was quite a vigorous discussion over an order relating to establishing a board of public works. Certain sections of the proposed act were amended and the order then referred to the next city council.

The caucus of the members of the common council of '95 was held and was a lively sort of an affair. Councilman Parker was nominated for president, on the thirteenth ballot by a vote of 9 to 5. On the twelfth ballot, Councilman-elect Sprague received 7; Parker, 6; Wing, 2.

The latter run pretty even with Parker for several ballots.

Clerk J. C. Brimblecom was re-elected without opposition, receiving the compliment of a unanimous vote.

WHO WILL BUILD THE LINK?

NEWTON AND BOSTON INTERESTED IN TROLLEY CONNECTION.

Owners of property on the line of the Newton boulevard, says the Boston Herald, are curious to know what is to be done regarding street car connections with Boston, as the settlement of this question will largely govern their policy in developing the lands through which the avenue has been built. The Newton and Boston Street Railway Company has secured a location for its tracks on the boulevard to the Boston line; but the road will not be built, so it is understood until some definite arrangement is made looking to a connection with the reservoir line of the West End company. The link necessary in making such a connection is along South street and Chestnut Hill avenue to the north and east of Reservoir park, following the line of the continuation of the proposed extension of Commonwealth avenue, which will not be completed, so it is understood, for some time to come owing to the depleted state of the public treasury and the heavy drafts made necessary by numerous other improvements. The completion of the avenue, so says the Newton and Boston road, need not be considered, as the company stands ready to lay its tracks in accordance with the proper grades, if a location is granted over the Boston territory. But it is doubtful if this request is complied with, owing to the public sentiment against "foreign" company entering the city through its most beautiful thoroughfare. The West End is also opposed to any such project, and will use its powerful influence to thwart any scheme that is likely to rob it of a part of its traffic. Neither are its officers prepared to say that it will build the link referred to. "They have given the matter at little attention, without arriving at any settled conclusion, and there it rests for the present."

If the owners of property bordering on the Newton boulevard felt assured that a continuous electric line to Boston was likely to be built, they would have no objection to the matter, and there would be a big increase in values in consequence.

The question of this electrical extension will be laid before the governments of both cities in the near future, and as it is in the line of progress, favorable action is looked for.

Newton's Stocking.

[Waltham News.] It appears finally that Newton, contrary to the impression currently held, is not in possession of a stocking of limitless length. Expenditure must be stopped in the garden city or there will be a financial embarrassment of just the sort that may be expected in Waltham unless expenditures are stopped.

PROMINENT WHIST PLAYERS.

NEWTON MEN WHO HAVE SCORED AGAINST TRISTE AND CAVEDISH—SOME INTERESTING FACTS RELATING TO THE PROFICIENCY OF MR. FISHER AMES AND MR. GEORGE W. MORSE—THE FORMER A NATIONAL AUTHORITY ON THE GAME—BOTH GENTLEMEN HAVE PLAYED ON TWO CONTINENTS.

Never in the history of the game has there been a greater interest in whist in New England than at the present time. This section of the country has been far behind the central and western sections of the United States in whist, although there have been for years some of the very best players in the country living in New England.

There have been two things within a year in Boston, which are largely responsible for this boom in whist. The first was the formation of the American Whist Club, and the second was the organization of the New England whist association, and the subsequent tournament for the valuable Barney challenge trophy, which was held in the Parker House, and which was won by the team from the American Whist Club.

It was largely through the influence of the American Whist Club that the New England association was formed, of which Walter H. Barney of Providence is president.

MR. FISHER AMES.

Among the whist players of Boston, who have a national reputation, is Fisher Ames. He is an authority on the game and has written two books, the first, "Modern Whist," being published in 1879 and the second, which is entitled "A Practical Guide to Whist," coming out in 1891.

Mr. Ames is one of the city solicitors of Boston, resides in Newton, and is the son of Seth Ames, ex-judge of the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts, and the grandson of Fisher Ames, the great orator and statesman of 100 years ago.

Mr. Ames is a graduate of Harvard College. His profession has been a quiet one in corporation practice. He is known as a scholarly man, and for recreation his mind turned to whist some 12 or 13 years ago.

Mr. Ames is well known throughout the country to the whist players of repute, not only as the author of one of the most concise treatises on whist ever published, but as a whist writer for the various periodicals. He, while travelling abroad, became acquainted with Henry Jones, "Cavendish," and when the latter came to this country Mr. Ames was, by universal consent, among the whist players appointed to entertain him.

Mr. Ames, with Mr. Weems, the secretary of the American League, and Geo. W. Morse, travelled with Cavendish over the country, and wound up their trip at Chicago for the whist congress and tournament of 1893. In this tournament Mr. Ames played much with Cavendish, and he received the latter's approbation as a tactician. As a theorist Mr. Ames has few superiors.

He has, also, taken high rank as a player, and in the tournament at Chicago in which he and Mr. Morse were partners, representing the Newton Club, attention was drawn to their play, and they were selected to play against Cavendish and Triste of New Orleans, the author of the "American Leads," which two latter celebrities met for the first time at Chicago.

The result was, both in duplicate and straight whist, that Mr. Ames' side was victorious, which was accounted for in the fact that in the straight whist tournament Mr. Ames' side held better hands, and in duplicate he and his partner had had more schooling together than the two more renowned players.

The friends of Mr. Ames, however, may fairly contend that the honors, which he received were because of superior play and, indeed, it was said that in the straight whist tournament the hands of Mr. Ames' side were not greatly superior.

At the Philadelphia tournament Mr. Ames was captain of the Newton Club team, and his team was in the semi-finals for the national league trophy, having won matches over the Knickerbockers of New York, Wilmingtons of Delaware, Poweltons of Pennsylvania and Hyde Parks of Chicago, and only lost in the whole to the Chicago club.

Mr. Ames and his associates have given the Newton Club considerable prominence throughout the country by their high standing in the tournament.

Mr. Geo. W. Morse of the Newton Club has played whist on two continents and says that he has yet lots to learn about the game.

At the last two annual tournaments at Chicago and Philadelphia, Mr. Morse played upon the Newton team, which took a high stand in the tournaments, being in the semi-finals at Chicago for the national trophy of pairs, and in the semi-finals at Philadelphia for the national league trophy for team of four.

Mr. Morse was also selected at the Chicago convention, with Mr. Ames, to play in the tournament against Triste and Cavendish, in which the former pair were victorious in the straight whist tournament, and with an average above Cavendish and Triste in the duplicate.

At the Philadelphia convention Mr. Morse was elected the New England director of the national league, there being only one director for New England.

From 1887 to 1890 Mr. Morse was abroad with his family, and while there lived in the different capitals of Europe. His recreation was whist, and he became a member of the leading whist clubs in the different places.

He is still a member of the St. George's club of Hanover square, London, and while in London from time to time has been made a special member of the Portland club, the oldest whist club in the world, through his friend, Henry Jones, otherwise known as Cavendish.

It has been Mr. Morse's fortune to play with the leading players of both continents and he probably has met and played with more whist celebrities than any other man in this country.

Besides being a member of the Newton Club, Mr. Morse belongs to the American Whist Club of Boston, the Boston Whist Club and the Continental and Manhattan Athletic Clubs of New York, in all of which whist is a prominent feature.

He conforms less to theories than many other well known players, but at the same time has studied the books and it is said of him that he is judicious in playing false cards and knowing when to disregard the rules laid down by whist writers, but applies them with strictness when called for.

MR. GEORGE W. MORSE.

Mr. Morse was made the New England director of the league because of the favorable attention which was called, not only to his play, but to his enterprise at the congress, and because of the plain, forcible way in which he presented his suggestions.

Soon after the congress at Philadelphia, Mr. Morse, with his friend Mr. Ames, and others of the American league, took upon themselves the formation of the New England Whist Association, which now has 30 clubs in all, as members from the different New England states, and others knocking at the door.

Mr. Morse was elected vice president of the New England association, Mr. Barney, the president, having been brought to the attention of the gentleman who organized the association by Mr. Morse and Mr. Ames.

Mr. Morse was born in Ohio, where he spent his early years, so that the National league, which is essentially western in its conception, unconsciously took a western man as its eastern representative.

Mr. Morse served four years in the famous 2d Massachusetts regiment, at the end being the commander of one of its companies. He is a member of the Loyal Legion. He is a graduate of Dartmouth College of the class of 1869, and has been one of the active lawyers of Boston for 24 years.

ANNUAL PARISH MEETING.

ELIOT CHURCH MUST HAVE GOOD MUSIC—NO CUT IN THAT APPROPRIATION—PROVISIONS FOR EXPENSES OF 1895—OFFICERS ELECTED—FUNDS PLEDGED IN THE EVENT OF ANY DEFICIT ON ACCOUNT OF DECREASE IN INCOME.

Several very important matters were considered at the annual parish meeting of the Eliot Religious Society Monday evening.

Mr. John B. Goodrich was chosen moderator of the meeting. The report of the treasurer, Mr. D. E. Snow, was submitted. It stated that the income from pew taxes and rental for 1894 was $11,655.11; loan, $700; cash on hand at close of preceding year, $109.57; total, $12,464.68. The expenditures were $12,304.87, leaving a balance on hand Jan. 1, '95, of $159.85. Applying the balance toward the liquidation of the $700 loan, the net debt amounted to $540.19.

Hon. W. P. Ellison presented the report of the prudential committee, which reference was made to the depreciation in income. Figures giving the receipts of several years were given for purposes of comparison. The receipts in 1890 from pew taxes and rentals were $12,000; 1891, $12,276; 1892, $12,179; 1893, $12,070; 1894, $11,655.

Treasurer Snow submitted a statement relative to the decrease in income. He said that in 1894 seats and pews providing a rental of $300 had been given up. It was offset by new rentals to the amount of $200. For 1895, there will be a further decrease of over $300. These pews and seats have been given up on account of dissatisfaction and by reason of removal. There seems to be a growing lack of interest in coming to church.

These officers were chosen for the ensuing year: C. S. Eusign, clerk; D. E. Snow, treasurer; W. P. Ellison, chairman prudential committee; H. E. Cobb, A. S. March, E. W. Converse, committee on music; C. E. Eddy, auditor.

The following appropriations for 1895 were made: Minister's salary, $5000; janitor's salary, $900; salary of treasurer, $200; pulpit supply, $240; fuel, $625; light, $425; water, $200; incidentals, $700; boiler slinking fund, $200; insurance—singing fund, $400; chorister (Sunday school) $100; interest, $50; music, $500.

There was considerable opposition to the item of $3500 for music and a persistent effort was made to cut it down. Mr. H. E. Cobb, chairman of the music committee said that the music must be kept up as at present in order to insure good attendance at the Sunday evening services. Finally subscriptions were pledged to the amount of $1000 to provide for any emergency, it having been argued that the church could not afford to pay so much for music as it was likely to exceed its resources, thereby increasing the debt.

The matter of the 50th anniversary of the church came up. It occurs next year. A committee of the parish was appointed to act with a similar committee appointed by the church in making and assuming charge of the arrangements for the event.

Messrs. C. A. Haskell, J. A. Gilman and H. A. Gay were chosen a nominating committee to bring in a list of officers at the next annual meeting.

A January thaw is always more productive of colds and coughs than a January freeze. Then is the time Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is needed and proves so extremely efficacious. Ask your druggist for it, and also for Ayer's Almanac, which is free to all.

Mr. J. A. Scriven, a prominent manufacturer of 18 East 15th St., New York City, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy from Druggist H. H. Lane, Peekskill, N. Y. Such good results followed its use that he sent back to Mr. Lane two bottles more of the same remedy. Those who give this medicine a trial are seldom satisfied with any other when again in need of such a preparation. It is unequalled for coughs and colds. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburn; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; E. Billings, Newton Upper Falls, and J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

At Corey Hill.

Last Saturday night was a banner night in the history of the Corey Hill Toboggan Club. The chutes were opened at 8 o'clock amid the blaze of colored lights. The slide was never in better condition and the long line of coasters kept up their enjoyment until nearly midnight. Inside the club house, logs crackled in the fireplaces and the pink cheeks of the maidens rendered the scene picturesque in the extreme. Many new and fantastic costumes were seen along the slide.

The committee of arrangements this year consists of A. H. Coolidge, president; L. G. Hoffman, vice pres.; Francis J. Burrage, sec'y; W. A. Wheeler, treas.; William V. Forsythe, manager. With them are associated as helpers, the following gentlemen: F. M. Seaman, A. B. Dearborn, Dr. W. D. Ball, H. L. Burrage, C. W. Parker, Jr., R. S. Wayland, W. W. Page, Stephen Matherson, Jr. and C. H. Colridge.

The season promises to be a long one, and the committee are making preparations for numerous carnivals and illuminations.

Among the Newton people present during the last week's coasting were Arthur Howland, Francis J. Burrage, Waldo L. Plimpton, Frank S. Eddy, Harry R. C. Burt, Frank H. Moore, William F. Warren, Chas. Howard Smith, Ernest Booth, Willis G. Bancroft, Edw. G. Blaisdell, Harry L. Bixby.

Common Sense.

Should be used in attempting to cure that very disagreeable disease, catarrh. Catarrh originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do no permanent good. The common sense methods of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

A RETROSPECT.

The year 1894 was a very important one in the history of Newton, as it saw the new boulevard laid out, and a vast improvement take place in what was an undeveloped region. It meant a substantial increase in the city's valuation, and one whose good effects will be felt with every succeeding year. The most important part of the work is already completed, and with another spring the boulevard will be opened to travel from the Boston line to Washington street in Auburndale, and will be popular for pleasure driving, as an excellent road had been laid. A good deal of building is already projected at different points along the boulevard and the coming season promises to be a busy one with builders.

The year did not see, as was hoped, any solution of the vexed problem of widening Washington street and the removal of grade crossings, but a good deal of preliminary educational work has been done, and citizens see the importance of doing something more clearly than ever. The opposition that existed to both of these improvements has died out and the new city government will disappoint every one if it does not take some radical action early this year.

Other city work has been the practical completion of the new filter basin, and the work done across the river in Needham will assure us a bountiful supply of water for many years to come.

In building, the year saw one new and much needed school house finished at Newton Highlands, and another one ordered for Newtonville. The one called for at West Newton still hangs in the air, chiefly on account of what was considered the extravagance of the plans proposed. The long agitated question of an addition to the Steam-r house in West Newton, so that Steamer Two could be put into commission, has been settled, and the addition is nearly completed. A commodious city stable has been built in Ward Four. This about completes the list of new buildings and is probably only a beginning, as new school houses are being called for all over the city, and the new City Hall project is still talked of more or less.

The sewer building has progressed as rapidly as could be expected and now includes most of Auburndale, while a good deal of work has been done in Wards Two and Six, and some in Ward Five. The famous Church street drain, which has agitated several city governments, has been completed and that controversy settled.

The street light controversy that threatened at one time to involve the city in a lively expenditure for a new plant, has been satisfactorily settled, and a contract made for three years with the Newton & Watertown Gas Company. Let us hope that there will be an improvement in the adoption of a better system of lighting the streets, so that we may have better results, and in this the new street light committee can win a good deal of glory.

The past year has been a very busy one for members of the city government, and the one just begun promises to be even more so. The impropriety of the city's asking so much work from unsalaried officials is becoming every year more apparent, as the amount of business forced on the different committees takes more time than the average business man can spare, and the necessity of some change, either by way of some kind of a board of public works, or of paying good salaries to members of the city council, is apparent to every one. Perhaps the city council of 1895 will be able to present some solution of this problem.

LAYING OUT STREETS.

It is said that the project to have a board of public works is in danger of being defeated through fear of the section regulating the laying out of streets. Newton land owners have become so fond of laying out blind alleyways on their property, according as their fancy, or their idea of getting the most house lots out of their land dictated, that they have come to regard it as one of their inalienable rights, and they are ready to spend their last cent in defending it. That is, some of them are, though a good many take a larger view and believe that in the laying out of streets as in other things, the greatest good of the greatest number should be considered.

The city is already full of blind alley ways, which end in a stone wall or something worse, many of which are too narrow to be ever accepted by the city, and as the land in most sections has so many owners, there has been little or no co-operation, and the result is neither beautiful nor symmetrical.

The evil result of such a policy, and its baneful effects on the future have caused most progressive cities to demand a reform, and the citizens have united in the subordination of their private interests to the good of the community. They have started boards of survey, or some similar authority, whose duties are to attend to the development of new land, and have appointed men able to give advice to owners, and in most instances this policy proves to be more profitable to the owners themselves. That such would be the result in Newton those who have studied the subject are confident.

The future of Newton depends in a great measure upon this question, and it is so favored by Nature that it could easily be made one of the most beautiful cities in the state. If all measures, for reform are defeated, and a close-fisted and selfish policy followed, it can be turned into such a place as Allston or Somerville where small lots and cheap houses are the rule. When the city is spending so much money in creating wide thoroughfares, it would be a pity to defeat the whole object for which they are laid out, by not adopting some well considered systems for the laying out of the side streets.

THE BRIGHTON ITEM is a little mixed on the question of extending Commonwealth avenue to connect with the Newton Boulevard, and thinks that it is proposed to run another street parallel to Chestnut Hill avenue. It says:

As long as the extension keeps along the line of Chestnut Hill avenue, the opinion is unanimous that the improvement is a wise one, but when it swings in onto the reservoir grounds and makes a second thoroughfare running parallel with Chestnut Hill avenue, the trouble commences. Property owners on the avenue claim with good reason that such a course will be of great damage to them, and it will. Further than that it offers no advantage whatever over the utilizing of our present avenue in a widened condition. It provides, as the aim seems to be in every case, a way around our district, so that what little benefit there might be derived by a line through is lost.

As Chestnut Hill avenue connects Beacon and South streets, and the proposed extension merely crosses the avenue at right angles, and the distance from Commonwealth avenue to South street is only a few hundred feet, the amusing character of the item's objections can be recognized by every reader. It makes very little difference whether the extension goes across the reservoir grounds to get to South street in a straight line, or curves about and enters South street at the junction of that street with Chestnut Hill avenue. The residents of the district ought to see that the item is furnished with a map.

THE announcement in the Boston papers that the Boston & Albany and the city authorities have come to a practical agreement in regard to depressing the tracks through Newton, and also that the railroad will join with the city in sharing the expense of widening Washington street is rather in the line of prophecy, as nothing definite has yet been done on either side.

It is said to be a fact that the Boston & Albany are not so averse to the plan of depression as they have been. Mayor Bothfield has done a good deal of work with a view to coming to some amicable arrangement but nothing has been settled and all statements are mere conjecture. Possibly the railroad and the city may be able to unite in petitioning the Legislature for further legislation. The statement that the city is willing to bear a greater proportion of the expense than the present law apportions to it, may be taken with several grains of salt, but if the railroad shall manifest a disposition to come to terms it puts a different face on the whole matter, as the scheme to secure new legislation and to depress the tracks will not then appear so impracticable.

The address of Mayor Bothfield at the inaugural exercises next Monday, is expected to be of unusual interest, as it is expected he will have something definite to announce concerning the widening of Washington street and the removal of grade crossings. These are among the most important of the questions to be solved this year, and the whole city is interested in them.

WABAN.

—Miss Dinne returned after spending the holidays at her home.
—Miss Bertha Child's spent Christmas at Woonsocket.
—The Benevolent Society met with Mrs. Shepley on Wednesday afternoon.
—Mr. Robert Seaver has gone to Norway, where he is engaged in business.
—Miss Florence Nickerson has been visiting Miss Millie Dresser this week.
—Mr. E. S. Phelps has been suffering with an attack of erysipelas, for the past two weeks.
—Mr. Oscar S. Seaver returned Wednesday to Norway, after spending the holidays with his parents.
—Miss Margaret Seaver acted as hostess at the Young People's Whist club last evening. Mr. Robert Dresser took 1st gentleman prize and Miss Seaver the 1st ladies prize.

—Mrs. Leonard Batchelder of Auckland, New Zealand, left for her home on Tuesday. On Christmas day Mr. Louis Harlow gave a farwell breakfast in her honor to which all the Harlow family were invited, there being three generations represented.

—Last Sunday, while Mr. Chas. Shaw, formerly of this place, now of Newton, was turning his horse and sleigh around in front of Mr. Davidson's house, the sleigh overturned. This frightened the horse and it started off down Windsor road and was caught near the Pine Farm school. Mr. Shaw was thrown out and dragged quite a distance, but escaped serious injury. The sleigh was demolished.

—A very delightful entertainment was given in Waban Hall last Wednesday evening by the Chorist Club, assisted by Miss Grace M. King in recitations, and Mr. Waldo Backmer as pianist. Mr. Charles J. Buffum and his chorister boys, rendered their part of a most interesting program, in a very fascinating and pleasing manner. The young voices were all well cultivated and refined, and supported by Mr. Buffum, tenor, and Mr. W. B. Phelps, chorist, the audience easily rival those of choruses. Masters Franklin L. and Theodore Wood sang with such accuracy and ease, as to give great pleasure to the listeners, and finish to their work. Mr. Buffum rendered Stephen Adams' "The Holy City," with a completeness and effect that was highly artistic, while Mr. Phelps in several bass solos displayed a polished voice, both rich and beautiful. Miss Grace M. King a "child artist" of eight years, recited several humorous selections, in each of which she was encased. Miss Grace is a study in natural expression, and her readings in dialect easily rival those of older readers. A most classical feature of the entertainment was the "Angel Trio" from "Elijah," by the Wood brothers and Master Harry C. Johnson. The three young voices, soprano, alto, and tenor, unaccompanied, blended in a perfect harmony—a wonderful piece of work which suggests the praise due Mr. Buffum, as director of the Glee Club and manager of the entertainment.

NONANTUM.

—Mr. Henry G. Chapman returned this week from a trip in the west.

—Mr. John Williams of Grace's drug store is seriously ill with pneumonia.

—Mrs. Nally, residing on Middle street, fell on the ice on West street Friday, and broke her arm.

—Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Boughan of Watertown street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

—Mr. Philip Gilson has purchased a tract of land on California street, and will soon build.

—The Armenian colony have started a combination grocery and provision store in Boyle's block.

—Mr. Pliny F. Towne was stricken with paralysis Monday night while at work in his store and he was removed to his home.

—Mrs. Ellen Shields was summoned to New York, Monday afternoon, to attend the funeral of her daughter, Blanche, who died suddenly in that city.

—James Ford, who was injured in the explosion, Tuesday, is improving in health as his injuries are not so serious as first supposed.

—James Malloy, who was killed in the blasting accident was buried in East Cambridge, Thursday morning, from the residence of his cousin, Mr. Fahey.

—The banks of snow on Watertown street, where they were thrown up by the electric plough were not removed until Wednesday afternoon. They have been a great inconvenience to sleighs.

—The huge drifts of snow on Pearl street extended so far out in the road that only one sleigh was able to pass at one time. The highway department were notified and the obstruction was removed Wednesday afternoon.

—Rev. Dr. Greene and wife received their friends at the rectory, New Year's day. The children were present in the afternoon, and adults in the evening. The occasion was a most enjoyable one and the Dr. and his wife were the recipients of many remembrances.

—Dr. Coady met with a peculiar accident Tuesday night, and had it not been for the doctor's presence of mind it might have resulted fatally. This doctor, as driving on Nevada street when the whistle tree broke and the horse dashed madly down Watertown street. He was not controlled however until the bridge was reached. It was a narrow escape for the doctor and his companion.

HIS NOVEL THEORY OF TIDES.

Uncle Alvah Dunning Thinks the Old World "Sloshes" Around.

Uncle Alvah Dunning, the hermit of the Adirondacks, maintains that the earth is not round like a ball, but as flat as a pancake, or, at best, that it resembles a milk pan, with enough of an edge to it to keep the water from running away.

A number of guests at Charlie Bennett's "Antlers," on Raquette lake, were discussing the theory with Uncle Alvah one day during the hunting season. One of them undertook the altogether hopeless task of convincing the old man of the error of his belief. Among other things he called attention to the tides.

"Uncle Alvah," he said, "you've heard of tides, haven't you? How do you account for them if the world isn't round?"

The old man remained silent for awhile and then drawled forth, "Waal, I hev some idee as to 'em."

"What is it, then?" asked the questioner, while all the sportsmen drew near to await the answer. Uncle Alvah was not to be hurried, and after another pause he remarked:

"Did ye ever turn over in bed? I think's more than likely."

"Yes, I've turned over in bed."

"Do ye sleep 'tween sheets?"

"Always," replied the questioner laughingly. "What's that got to do with it?"

"It's got all to do with it, in my opinion. When you went over, didn't the bedclothes kind o' slip round an slosh round an didn't get there same time as you did?"

"Yes."

"Waal, that's my idee of the tides. The old earth sort o' slips round under the water like a man under the bedclothes, or it teeters a bit, like when you tip a milkpan. The water don't get there quite as fast as the land, an that's what makes the tides."—New York Herald.

"MY OWN THINGS."

The Present Time Is an Age of Individual Environment.

"Say, mamma, John's got my spoon. Can't I have it? It's mine."

"Oh, just look! Susan's playing tea party with my dessert plate. Make her stop. She'll break it."

"I wish you'd find my pepper box. This isn't mine," proclaims the head of the house. "It's mighty queer these servants can't ever remember my things."

In the library Uncle Jim is twisting and turning and looking daggers at the unconscious caller who is sitting in his special chair. One member of the household is on the wrong side of the table, and the right paper knife is on the left magazine. He always sits the other side for reading. From the drawing room the voice of the elder daughter is heard saying: "Oh, no, I couldn't endure those portieres. The colors do not suit my style, you know. I made a fuss, and mamma took them in her room. I feel color in every nerve."

Such is what the fashion for having individual things has brought upon the household. We have the individual furnishings, the schemes of hangings to bring out the individual beauty of my lady's eyes, the tint of her hair or the gleam of her shoulders, and on the other hand—perish the thought!—to sink the individual in the useful. Have we not the special chair and foot rest, stand, and cushion?

Small wonder, then, that the practical, prosaic housewife exclaims: "I wish we could go back to those early Christian days when they had all things in common. I believe I could bear it even with towels!"—New York Times.

Curing a Snake Bite.

As is well known, the copperhead is one of the most poisonous snakes, yet J. C. Trout, who was bitten by one three miles from Trimble, Tenn., experienced no serious effects, owing to the remedy he used, which is an uncommon one. He was out hunting, and when a couple of miles from home was bitten on the ankle. He at once started for home, and on the way chewed and swallowed what tobacco he had. When he reached his house, some fresh red popper root was procured, and with the milky juice which exudes from it a stripe was made around his leg just below the knee. The leg swelled up to the mark and no farther, but it finally became so tightly swollen and painful that the juice was washed off and another mark made with it around his thigh. The swelling gradually climbed up to the new mark, giving him relief, and he recovered without using any other remedy.—Chicago Tribune.

A Delicious French Candy.

To make French nougat boil a pound of granulated sugar and a teaspoonful of water over a sharp fire until it begins to turn yellow, writes Nellie Willey in The Ladies' Home Journal. Do not stir while boiling. Have ready one-half pound of almonds blanch and dried. Put them in the oven and leave the door open. When they begin to look yellow, add to the candy as it reaches the turning point described above and quickly pour into a well oiled tin or iron pan about one-half an inch thick. Mark with a sharp knife into bars before it cools. By bending the tin between the hands slightly the candy will come out easily.

Pussy's Great Catch.

We disapprove of cats catching birds, but where they take such chances as did the Lewiston pussy that leaped from a third story window, snatched an English sparrow from a telegraph wire and struck the ground right side up and safely we are almost glad to learn she kept her prey.—Keenebee Journal.

Well Along.

"She is a girl of 17 summers." "Indeed! How old was she when she began to have summers?"—Detroit Tribune.

—A horse owned by C. G. Tinkham, attached to a sleigh, was being driven through Ash street, Auburndale, last Friday afternoon, when he became unmanageable and ran away. He dashed through the shrubbery and across the lawn of the Fowle estate and headed directly for the river. The driver was thrown out, but escaped injury by falling in a snowbank. The sleigh was wrecked against a large tree, and the horse continued down the steep incline on to the ice. He broke through the deep water about 20 yards from shore, and was rescued with difficulty.

—The marriage of Miss Ellen Starr Brewer of this place and Mr. Walter Bertram Perkins of West Newton was celebrated at the church of the Messiah at Brown last Saturday. The wedding was a quiet affair, only the relatives and immediate friends of the bride and groom being present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Matteson, rector of the church. The best man was James G. Brewer, a brother of the bride. The maid of honor was Miss Goodman of Portland, Me. Dr. Perkins of West Newton, Mr. Ralph Brazier of Lowell, William E. Harmon of Boston and John E. Emery of Portland acted as ushers. The bride was dressed in white satin, cut en train with garniture of rare and costly jewels. She wore a tulle veil and carried a bunch of bride roses. The church was decorated with festoons of evergreen, looped up with wreaths of holly.

—Rev. Dr. J. W. Hamilton preached an admirable sermon at the Methodist church last Sunday morning on the work of the Methodist denomination among the freedmen of the South. He asked the congregation for $300 and got it.

—At the Methodist church next Sunday morning there will be a short sermon by the pastor, followed by the reception of members and the Communion service.

—Mr. Wesley Wright, son of Rev. Dr. A. A. Wright of this place, is serving the Methodist church as organist very acceptably.

—Mr. Arthur Livett entertained the Thursday night bowling club at the Newton Boat Clubhouse last evening.

Lasell Notes.

John Bragdon has had two of his college friends visiting him during the holidays.

On Thursday evening Miss Belle Bragdon gave one of the most delightful parties of the season.

Those who attended the Saturday Symphony Concert say that it was especially enjoyable.

A party heard Stoddard in his interesting lecture on Norway, and were charmed, as everyone is, with this prince of lecturers.

The choral service at Eliot church on Sunday evening drew a number from the Sunday school and the choir. There was a delightful sleighride ample compensation for facing the keen air of that frosty night.

The Monday evening concert, Star Course, gave those who attended an opportunity to hear the fine violinist, Orville Musin, and other musical celebrities.

Those who had a hand in the cinder-pull on Monday evening found that sweet occupation a very satisfactory way of passing the hours. There was an abundance of popcorn, too, and glancing from candy dish to corn popper the girls felt that they could be happy with either, were to their dear charmer away, but that they were hardly able to do justice to both.

Sleighrides and coasting frolics have been so frequent as entirely to disprove the old adage that familiarity breeds contempt, on the contrary, the recurrence only makes these pleasures more eagerly sought.

Rev. Henry G. Spaulding of Newton will deliver three lectures at Lasell Seminary as follows: Jan. 10, "The Mythology of the Greeks of the Romans," Jan. 17, "Landscape Painting, Ancient and Modern," Feb. 14, "Browning's Poems of Music." Course tickets $1.00. Single admission 50 cents. The lectures are to be given in the seminary chapel and will begin at 7.45 o'clock. Further information will be given on application to the principal.

Ninety Years Old.

Not many people live to be ninety years old. Long before they reach the three score and ten, the great majority pass away. In fact only half of all the number who are born reach maturity.

We think of one as old who has gone beyond sixty, of one as very old who has become eighty. It is exceptional to see one who is ninety.

A resident of Newton reached her ninetyeth year on the 10th of last month, and her birthday anniversary was properly celebrated by her family and friends.

Mrs. Marie Farlow Snille, the mother of Mrs. Eliza M. Springer of Newton, died in Sidney, Maine, on the 10th of December, 1894. She was, therefore, ninety years old Dec. 16, 1894. A religious service was held at the home of Mr. Springer, by Rev. Dr. Shinn at one o'clock, the aged grandmother and members of the family being present. Later on, a number of friends called to present their congratulations and good wishes.

Mrs. Snille retained her mental faculties, and her cheerful spirit, and enters with great heartiness into the happiness and welfare of all those around her.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—The second week of Julia Marlowe's engagement at the Hollis will begin on January 7, and she will appear in some of her most popular characters, including one which is comparatively new to Boston. The repertoire will be as follows: Monday and Saturday nights, "As You Like It;" Tuesday night, "Much Ado About Nothing;" Wednesday night, "Ingomar;" Thursday and Friday nights, a double bill consisting of "The Belle's Stratagem" and "Chatterbox;" Saturday matinee, "Romeo and Juliet." On the third and last week, beginning January 14, Miss Marlowe will appear in a play entirely new to this city, entitled "Ingomar's Birthday." The piece has already been given with success in Chicago, where Julia Marlowe received much praise for her work in it. The repertoire for the third and last week is as follows: Monday night, "Pygmalion and Galatea;" "Ingomar's Birthday;" Tuesday and Wednesday nights, "The Merry Chase;" Thursday and Friday nights, "Rogues and Vagabonds;" "Ingomar's Birthday;" "Rogues and Vagabonds;" Saturday matinee, "Ingomar;" "Rogues and Vagabonds;" Saturday night, "Ingomar." No Wednesday matinees will be given, and seats for any performance can now be obtained at the box office.

BOSTON THEATRE—"Shore Acres," one of the sweetest, choicest and prettiest plays ever seen on the American stage began a three weeks' engagement at the Boston Theatre last Monday night before a very large and very enthusiastic audience. Since its first production Mr. Horne's beautiful comedy drama has been winning hosts of friends everywhere, a run of 257 consecutive performances being recorded in New York city, 40 in Philadelphia and 25 in Brooklyn. In New York "Shore Acres" was hailed as an epochal work and its run there might have been continued indefinitely. "Shore Acres" is indeed a genuine novelty, far different from "The Old Homestead," though approaching nearer to it perhaps than to any other American play, and in some respects infinitely its superior. Every ingredient is simple, plain, commonplace, the characters a handful of farmer and fisherman folk and half a dozen little children on the coast of Maine, and yet no brighter, more entertaining, more wholesome or more instructive story of American life has ever been told upon the stage. The season of "Shore Acres" at the Boston Theatre is positively limited to three weeks.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—Another powerful play by Sydney Grundy, author of "Sowing the Wind" and other successful dramas, is booked for two weeks beginning January 7, at the Columbia Theatre. "A New Woman" will be presented by Mr. A. M. Palmer's company from Palmer's Theatre, New York, and will include such eminent artists as Wilton Lackaye, Mr. E. M. Holland, Miss Virginia Harney, Mrs. D. B. Bowers,

Charles J. Richman, Mabelle Bouton, Reub Fox, Georgia Busby, Emily Seward, Thomas Terris, Harry Halliday and Annie Russell. "The New Woman" has already had its initial production in New York, and has created as much discussion and favorable criticism as any play has yet received from this gifted author's pen. The engagement of "The New Woman" is for two weeks.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE—The attraction announced to occupy the boards of the Grand Opera House the second week of the New Year is the furiously funny farce comedy, "Hoss & Hoss," which though having been presented several times in Boston will be seen for the first time at the Grand Opera House on Monday evening, Jan. 7th. Manager Bertram has provided an excellent company for the presentation of the piece at the head of which are Jacques Kruger, Harry Crandall and Carry Sweeney. Mr. Kruger will be seen as Judge Hoss and those who know his uncanny quality of humor will agree that he should be seen to great advantage. Harry Crandall, always at home in German character roles will play the German sheriff and Carry Sweeney will be seen in the dual roles of a Bowerly girl and a "fly" servant. But a single week's engagement will be played after which will be presented for the first time in Boston the new melodrama, "The Man Without a Country," originally produced at the American Theatre, N. Y., and promised to be presented here with the New York cast and equipment.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE—The "Standing Room Only" sign is out as ever, performance of "Humor" at the Bowdoin Square Theatre and dozens have been turned away every night as was the case during the run of Brady's other production, "The Cotton King." It was confidently expected that "Humor" would be a great popular success and these expectations have been realized. No melodrama ever given in Boston has had stronger names in its cast than those of Joseph Grismer, Phoebe Davies, Annie Clarke, Frazer Coulter, Dore Davidson, C. W. Coulcoud, Bebe Vining and the others in the splendid company Manager Brady has been under such heavy expense to secure and carry, it remains but one week longer at the Bowdoin Square Theatre and then goes upon the New England circuit.

THE YEAR'S WORK.

QUARTERLY MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE NEWTON HOSPITAL.

The quarterly meeting of the trustees of the Newton Hospital was held in the parlors of the Nurses Home, on the 29th inst. President Leeson occupied the chair and the following members were present: Messdames Bacon, Blake, Gould, Haskell, Hovey, Leonard, Mason and Paine; Doctors Crockett, Seales and Thayer and Messrs. Bullens, Burr, Edmunds, Ellison, Emerson, Petter, Pratt, Shion and Travelli.

The Treasurer, Mr. Bullens, reported receipts from Hospital Sunday collections of $5,757.07; from the work of the hospital during the quarter $3,354.59; from other sources, $1,513.28. General expenses for the three months were $4,442.62. Repairs, additions, etc., $1,249.70, leaving a balance for the work of the new year of $3,815.73.

Mr. Lucius G. Pratt, chairman of the finance committee, presented a statement of the years work as follows:

The present year has been one of great activity in all branches of the hospital work. The number of patients treated has increased from 418 in 1893 to 476 in 1894, an increase of about 14 per cent. The number of weeks of treatment in 1893 was 1321 and in 1894, 1665, an increase of 26 per cent.

The regular running expenses of the institution for 1893 were $18,842.68; additions and improvements $5,184.55. Running expenses 1894, $20,800; additions, etc., $4,500, showing an increase of $2,172.77, or about 8 per cent. in expenditures as against an increase of 26 per cent. in the amount of work done.

Dr. Shion submitted a report of the executive committee stating that the average number of patients treated during the month of October was 49.5; November, 45.4; December 44, making a daily average for the quarter of 47; and that the number of patients in contagious wards was unusually large, while severe accident cases were very numerous. But that, notwithstanding this heavy increase in work, everything had been kept running without friction or trouble of any kind.

Christmas Day will be pleasantly remembered by all the inmates. It was commenced at an early hour by the nurses singing Christmas carols to the patients, and at noon a bountiful dinner, provided by several kind friends, was partaken of.

In the afternoon a male quartet, furnished by the kindness of Mrs. Mason, sang to the patients, and added greatly to the enjoyment of the day.

Dr. Thayer, for the board of managers of the Training School for Nurses, reported that the managers had decided to adopt a three years course of training in the school in order to insure the highest possible standard of efficiency among graduates.

The number of pupil nurses is at present 27, and their work has been in every way satisfactory. The demand for nurses for outside work has been constantly greater than the supply, and they have given uniform satisfaction wherever employed. The success of the school proves that it has adequately filled an urgent need in the community, and shows the wise foresight of its generous founders.

Mr. Pratt, of the committee of furnishing rooms, reported that all the rooms except four small ones are now furnished with such liberal donations for furniture having been received immediately after the last meeting, that five rooms were furnished within three days.

A committee consisting of Mrs. E. H. Mason, Mr. Bullens, Mr. Edmunds, Dr. Eaton and Dr. Hunt were appointed to nominate officers and trustees for the ensuing year.

After further routine work, on motion, the meeting adjourned.

Carlton Cornwell, formen of the Gazette, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy; I can recommend it to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough, with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls, and J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

FREE FROM DEBT.

SECOND CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—PASTOR'S RESPONSE TO THEIR PASTOR'S APPEAL—TEN THOUSAND—RAISED IN ABOUT AN HOUR'S TIME—PASTOR AND FLOCK RECEIVING CONGRATULATIONS.

The Second Congregational Church is free from debt. Within one hour the church debt of $10,000 which has been in existence for many years, was liquidated. The call for subscriptions was a surprise to most of the congregation, and only the pastor, Rev. Theodore C. Prudden, and the officials of the society were aware of the plan. Rev. Mr. Prudden took for the subject of his remarks at the morning service, last Sunday, "Raising the Walls of Jerusalem." It must have seemed desirable to the Jewish people in the time of Nehemiah to raise the walls of their city, he said, yet they were all appalled by the immensity of the undertaking.

Continuing, he applied the lesson to the case of the church and called for an effort to raise the debt.

The portion of the will of the late Deacon R. W. Kendall bequeathing $900 to the church for the liquidation of the debt, on condition that the remainder of the necessary sum be raised within three years, was read, and attention called to the fact that the three years had almost expired, and to the necessity for immediate action. A blackboard, marked off into 100 spaces, was produced, and a number of collectors appointed to receive contributions. As these were received the amounts were posted on the board.

The pastor first called for subscriptions of $1000, and two of this amount were speedily reported. Several of $500 followed, and a still larger number of $250. The amount received was steadily augmented by contributions in response to the urgent appeals of the pastor, until the total reached $5500. This sum was added to the $900 left in Deacon Kendall's will, making the total amount raised $6400. Some $250 was then raised in small amounts and the remainder of the $10,000 was guaranteed by a member of the congregation.

The church is now practically free from debt. Mr. Prudden has been in charge of the church about a year, and during his pastorate it has enjoyed a notable growth. Recently, the main auditorium was enlarged, repaired and redecorated at a considerable expense. The liquidation of the debt is a source of great satisfaction to the pastor and the congregation, and Mr. Prudden is being generally congratulated on the success of his effort.

Hospital Aid Association.

The annual meeting of the Newton Hospital Aid Association will be held Tuesday, Jan. 8, at 3 p. m. in the Universalist church, Newtonville. All persons interested in hospital work are invited to be present.

Mrs. J. F. HECKMAN, Sec.

Afflicted With Rheumatism.

Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Lebanon, Conn., says: "I was afflicted with rheumatism in my back all last winter, and it was so severe at times that I could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. I tried different remedies without receiving any relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days, according to directions, my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. I have since recommended it to others and know they have been benefited by its use. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls, and J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists."

A GREAT MANY CHILDREN

—have been cured of scrofula and other skin diseases—as well as thousands of grown people, by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Every disorder that can be reached through the blood, yields to its purifying qualities. Besides, it builds up wholesome flesh and strength; not merely fat like Cod liver oils. A scrofulous condition of the blood invites Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption. We're all exposed to the germs of consumption, grip, or malaria—yet only the weak ones suffer. When you're weak, tired out, and debilitated, or when pimples and blotches appear—heed the warning in time. The "Discovery" sets all the organs into healthy action—especially the liver, for that's the point of entrance for these germs, then if the blood is pure, they'll be thrown off. There's no risk. If it fails to benefit or cure in all cases of impure blood or inactive liver, your money is returned.

The key to the situation—if you suffer from Catarrh, you'll find in Dr. Sage's Remedy. No matter how bad your case may be, the proprietors of the medicine promise to pay $500 if they can't cure you. You're cured, or you're paid.

—Mr. Bosclair has returned from a short stay with relatives in the West.

—Miss Sarah Holmes of Station street has gone to New York for a short stay.

—Miss Emma Porter returned this week to Smith College, Northampton.

—Miss Rand and Miss Mills left Tuesday for Northampton, after passing the Christmas holidays here.

—G. H. Ellis commenced cutting ice on Crystal lake, Tuesday, and had a large number of men at work all day.

—“At Home” Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ely Alvord, 4 Oxford road, Wednesday afternoon and evening, January 9th.

—Miss Ward of Crescent avenue, who passed the Christmas holidays at home here, returned this week to Smith College, Northampton.

—Mr. and Mrs. Sheleber Matthews of Chicago were here this week, coming on from the West to attend the Matthews Putnam wedding in Brookline, Wednesday.

—The Kickapoo (Indian) entertainment is popular with the young people, and Associates Hall has been well filled with juveniles since the stay of the “medicine” men here.

—The services in the Congregational church, Sunday evening, will be in charge of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. Mr. Frank Davidson of Auburndale is announced as the principal speaker. The topic is “Consecration Services.”

—Mrs. W. E. Webster gave an afternoon tea Wednesday, at her home on Beacon street. It was a delightfully informal social event. The parlors and dining room were tastefully decorated for the occasion. In the latter apartment, a group of pretty young ladies posed.

—At the Unitarian church Jan. 6, morning service at 10.30, sermon, “Stand still and consider,” Sunday school at 12. Hill Union, conducted by the young people, at 7.30. Emerson class will take up the study of sociology Tuesday 7.45 p.m. Open to all without charge.

—A large number of the younger set are to attend the assemblies at the Newton Club assembly hall, which commences Thursday evening, Jan. 10; the party will be chaperoned by Mrs. Jos. W. Parker, Mrs. H. W. Mason, Mrs. W. B. Harding and Mrs. E. A. Ellis.

—Mr. and Mrs. Schureman Halsted of Crescent avenue will return to New York this month, and reside on North Broad street, Elizabeth, N. J. Mr. Halsted will continue with the Central Paint, Oil & Varnish Co., of which he has been Boston agent, and will make monthly visits to Boston.

—Mr. Avery L. Rand addressed the city council Monday evening, in behalf of the N. A. A. and the Improvement societies of this place and the Highlands. The proposed carnival of Crystal Lake was the subject of his remarks. What he said is given in the report of the city government's proceedings.

—Miss Gertrude Armstrong, daughter of Mr. George Armstrong, and Mr. John Huggard were married Tuesday evening, at the home of the bride on Maple street. The ceremony was witnessed by the relatives and near friends. Rev. Mr. Hughes officiating. The young couple were tendered the customary congratulations, and were the recipients of some very pretty and useful wedding gifts. They will reside in Newtonville.

—Dr. Elbridge C. Leach has been induced by his many Newton Centre patrons to open an office in Bray's block, where he will be on Fridays and Saturdays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dr. Leach's father was one of the leading dentists of Boston for many years, and one of the founders of the Harvard Dental school, and Dr. Leach had the benefit of his father's experience, and was with him for a number of years before opening an office for himself on Columbus avenue.

—The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Ashby Putnam, daughter of Joshua H. Putnam, and Mr. Henry M. May, was celebrated at the home of the bride on Maple street, Brookline, Monday noon. Several hundred people were present, among the number representative society leaders from Chicago, New York, Boston, Brookline, the Newtons, Concord and Lexington, Mass., and Wilton, N. H. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Nathan E. Wood, formerly pastor of the church, but now pastor of the First Baptist Church in Boston.

—The Harvard Baptist Church in Brookline has extended a call to Rev. Edward Braslin to become its pastor. Rev. Mr. Braslin will undoubtedly accept. He has been preaching at the church for the past three months and takes the place of Rev. Nathan E. Wood, who recently accepted pastorate in Boston. Rev. Mr. Braslin for the past two years has been travelling in Europe. Previous to that time he filled pastorate in Brookline, N. Y., and was pastor of the Baptist Church here for seven years.

—Miss Sarah Marion Ward, daughter of Mr. T. Albert Ward of this place, and Mr. Henry Wilson Ross of Newtonville, were married at the home of the bride's father, Ward street, Tuesday evening, Rev. Mr. Furber officiating. The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate relatives and near friends, and was followed by a small reception. Friends were present from Newton, Cambridge, Worcester, and Wellesley. The house was very tastefully decorated for the occasion. The bride was gown in white satin, an train, wore the usual veil caught up by a spray of lilacs of the valley, and carried bride roses. Many valuable and useful presents were received by the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Ross will reside here on Bowen street in the house formerly occupied by Mrs. Tomlinson. The date of their first “at home” is February 13.

—At the residence of the bride's parents in Wolaston, Monday evening, occurred the marriage of Mr. Ralph F. Alvord of Newton Centre and Miss Harriet W. Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ames Lincoln. A quartet consisting of Miss Mazie Hastings, Miss Elizabeth E. Jones, Mr. Charles S. White and Mr. Charles B. Dickey, which was posted at the head of the stairway, greeted the wedding party, as it approached the drawing room where the ceremony took place, with the bridal chorus from “Lohengrin.” Rev. Edward A. Robinson performed the ceremony, being assisted by Rev. Frederick Alvord of South Windsor, Ct., father of the groom. Mr. Andrew P. Alvord of New York was best man, and Miss Fannie L. Lincoln, youngest sister of the bride, maid of honor.

—The nuptials were witnessed by the immediate relatives of the contracting parties only. The bride wore a costume of ivory white satin, with chignon and pearl trimmings, cut in princess, and the customary tulle veil, and carried a bouquet of English violets. The little maid of honor was gown in pink and white. A reception, for which 450 invitations had been issued, was held from 8 to 10 o'clock. The newly wedded couple were received in receiving by their parents. The ushers were Elvin G. Preston of Arlington, Daniel T. Woodbury of New York and Charles B. Dickey of Wolaston. The rooms were elaborately decorated with palms, ferns and white flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Alvord will reside in Newton Centre on their return from their wedding trip.

—Miss Bessie Comforth has returned from a visit to Brooklyn.

—Mrs. Lewis of Summer street has returned from a visit to Baltimore, Md.

—Mr. W. E. Miles of Colorado has taken one of Prof. Bullen's new houses on Centre street.

—Rev. Mr. Hughes and Rev. Mr. Haven of the Highlands, exchanged pulpits last Sunday morning.

—There are letters at the postoffice for John Galloway, Jennie Haggart and Rory O'Hanley.

—Prof. Rush Rhees, who has been away during the Christmas vacation, returned this week to resume his duties at the Theological Seminary.

—Mr. W. O. Knapp has put in a telephone. The number is 22-3, Newton Highlands.

—Mr. G. B. Wilson of Clark street will take out sleighing parties, good horses and sleighs. Seating room for twenty to twenty-five. Prices reasonable.

—Martin Weiss, the shoemaker, will on the 15th remove from White block to the shop on Pelham street, formerly occupied by Mr. Cotter.

—Judge Robert R. Bishop has purchased a new Russian sleigh. With a pair of well-groomed horses, it makes a very handsome appearance on the road.

—Mrs. L. R. Spear was the soloist at the evening services in the Methodist church last Sunday. She has an excellent voice and sang with great feeling and expression.

—A unique entertainment was given in Associates' Hall, last Friday evening. It consisted of a series of remarkable feats by trained horses, and was altogether a very clever exhibition.

—At the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday, the pastor will preach morning and evening. Morning theme, “The Question Leading to Faith.” Evening, “The New Birth.” The evening solo will be by Miss Beal, contralto, of Boston.

—At the Congregational church the pastor, Rev. Edward M. Noyes will preach in the morning, topic, “The Christian Calling.” In the evening, there will be an address by Mr. Frank F. Davidson of Auburndale on “Consecration and Service.” Special music.

—A pleasant social event here Tuesday evening, was a reception tendered their parishioners by Rev. and Mrs. Richard Montague at their residence. The guests comprised the members of the First Baptist church, and many hearty good wishes for the new year were expressed.

—In considering the resolutions in regard to the ice carnival on Crystal lake, Mr. H. W. Mason says it is fair to Mr. Ellis to state that his effort was made by the city government to co-operate with him, but it was stated by the chairman of one of the committees that they proposed to obtain leave from the city government rather than from him and his efforts to secure protection by co-operation were met with anything but courtesy.

—On Friday, December 28th, the Newton Centre Woman's Club held a regular meeting in the small hall of Bray's block. A piano solo was rendered by Miss Adelaide Leemonte, after which Mrs. Estelle M. Merrill, president of the Cantabrigia Club of Cambridge, gave a bright and useful address upon current events. She believed it to be the duty of every woman to inform herself concerning the principal events which transpire in her own country, and also to know something of the leading occurrences in other lands.

—The interest excited outside of Newton by the announcement in the papers of a carnival to be held on Crystal Lake is well shown by a number of letters received by the Athletic Association. Three polo clubs have offered to play the local club as a part of the program. One young lady addressed a letter to the N. A. A. from Cambridge, asking if the Carnival was open to the public, and whether the admission fee was large number of people from Boston and other places had expressed their intention to enjoy the sport.

—Hon. Alden Spear, Hon. J. F. C. Hyde and Hon. Robert R. Bishop have accepted membership of a sub-committee of three, representing Dr. Smith's neighbors at the testimonial to be given to Dr. Smith. These gentlemen have all known Dr. Smith for many years. It has been suggested that a brief address upon the venerable author as a neighbor should have a place upon the program, and it is hoped that the Rev. Dr. Alvah Hovey of the Newton Theological Seminary may be prevailed upon to undertake the work. All arrangements as to this matter, however, will rest with the sub-committee of three.

—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Newton Centre Improvement Association, Tuesday evening, Jan. 2, the following resolution was adopted: At a subsequent meeting of the joint committee representing the three associations, having the carnival in charge, it was voted to postpone the event to some future date, as announced in accordance with the recommendation: Whereas, The proprietor of the ice houses has begun to cut the ice on Crystal lake, thereby rendering it dangerous to hold the carnival on the date proposed. Resolved, That while we regret the necessity of disappointing the public, we recommend to the joint committee having the matter in charge that they state the fact to the public, and make their plans to hold the carnival at some future date.

—Rates of fare on the circuit branch have been reduced so that now the tariff is the same as on the main line for the same number of miles. South side residents like the change or rather the saving of change. The fare from Boston to Chestnut Hill is now 13 cents; to Newton Centre, 15 cents; to Newton Highlands, 17 cents; to Eliot, 21 cents; to Waban, 23 cents; to Highland, 26 cents. There is a saving of 2 cents on each single fare from Boston to Newton Centre. The price for 100 ride tickets is $9.25, or a saving of 1-2 cent per fare, so that it seems fair to consider the average saving per ticket, 3 cents. As some 650 people go to Boston every day the saving amounts to about $38.50 per week. This reduction in the fares was through the efforts of the Newton Centre Improvement Association in co-operation with the Newton Highlands Improvement Association. President Bliss was most courteous in his treatment of the committee of the two societies, which waited upon him, and showed a disposition to consider carefully the claims which they presented. Such a change once made will in all probability remain, and the steady flow to the road is considered as well as the every day gain to the people. They would be ungrateful indeed did they not appreciate the concession by the road as well as recognize the value of the organizations which were instrumental in bringing the change about.

Wood, J. H. Wentworth. The treasurer reports the expenses for the year 1894 to be $4,293 which has been paid, and a balance of about $250 in the treasury. The system of the improvement Association is to be continued.

—The proposed dedication of the new school building on Lincoln street on the afternoon and evening of Thursday, Jan. 10 promises to be an exceedingly interesting occasion, if one may judge from the preparations now being made. The afternoon will be devoted to the reception of our townspeople by the teachers, so that all may have a good opportunity to inspect the building which will be fully completed and equipped by the time. In the evening there will be an elaborate program provided, as several well known people have accepted invitations to be present and speak. A fine orchestra has been engaged. Among those expected are Mayor Bothfeld, Ex-Mayor Fenno, both branches of the city government, ex-members of the city government, the school committee and others. The Newton Highlands Improvement Association are to be congratulated upon the highly successful termination of their efforts towards procuring for our people such a beautiful building which is an ornament to our city, and the officers and members of the executive committee, co-operating with our efficient member of the school committee, Mr. Joseph R. Smith, deserve praise for his good work.

—An assembly under the auspices of Home lodge, I. O. O. F., in Stevens' Hall, Tuesday evening, proved an attraction for a large company of ladies and gentlemen. —Mr. and Mrs. Eben Sears and Miss Sears of Marlboro street, Boston, have taken rooms at the Hunnewell for the remainder of the winter.

—The Social Science Club will meet at Mrs. John Lodge's, Fairmont avenue, Wednesday, Jan. 16, at 10 a. m. Subject, "The Preventable Cause of Poverty and Crime."

—Mrs. Olen Bull-Vaughan entertained Mrs. Julia Marlowe-Labor, Sunday. The Hollis theatre has been crowded, and a number of theatre parties from here have been in to see this charming actress.

—"Education" for January contains an article on "Moral Instruction in Schools," by S. Edward Warren of this city, which is interesting, practical, teachers and others having at heart the welfare of the schools and of our young people.

—The members of the hospital corporation, who have not seen the new home for nurses, will have an opportunity to see it at the annual meeting to be held January 21 in the main rooms of the home on the hospital grounds.

—Music in Eliot church, Sunday evening: Organ Prelude, Whiting; Anthem, "Hearken unto me," Sullivan; Trio, "The Lord will comfort Zion," O. B. Brown.

Soprano aria from 42d Psalm, Mendelssohn; Anthem, "Give unto the Lord," H. W. Brown; Organ Postlude, Mendelssohn.

—Mr. and Mrs. George F. Livermore have sent out cards for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mabel Augusta, and Mr. Alvah Avery Atwood, on Thursday, Jan. 24th from 12.30 to 2. Mr. and Mrs. Atwood will be home after March 1st, at 84 Pleasant street, Malden.

—A young people's whist club is being started on Hunnewell Hill. Hunnewell Hill residents are making that part of the city well known as a section where an interest is taken in social matters as well as in those affairs concerning the general welfare of the community.

—The announcement is made that tickets of admission will be required for the festival services in Grace church, Jan. 25, by the Neighborhood Choirists. These tickets will be sold at a price of six cents, and those who do not take part in the singing will not be sold but will be given only to those who expect to attend, as every seat will be needed on that occasion.

—Notwithstanding the extremely bad weather there was a good congregation in Grace church on last Sunday night. The musical service prepared with special reference to the festival of the Epiphany was so greatly enjoyed, that some of those present joined in requesting that the service be repeated this Sunday night. The program will include some Christmas carols and Epiphany carols, and Stanford's glorious Te Deum.

—Music in Grace church Sunday night: Processional, "Rejoice ye pure in heart," Gloria in Excelsis, H. B. Day; Magnificat, H. B. Day; Nunc Dimittis, H. B. Day; Carols, "Sleep holy babe," H. B. Day; "There's a song in the air," H. B. Day; Anthem, "Blessed be the Lord God of Israel," H. B. Day; Te Deum in B flat, Barnby; Carol, "O Blessed Lord Jesus," H. B. Day; Recessional, "Angels from the realms of glory," H. B. Day.

—Ex-Mayor Matthews signed last Saturday the street commissioner's order for the laying out and the extension of Commonwealth avenue from Chestnut Hill avenue through a portion of Chestnut Hill reservoir land and over private land and through South street to the Newton town line, connecting with the new Newton boulevard which has been named Commonwealth avenue. This extension is to be 120 feet in width and will contain a central reservation for electric cars and grass plots and a roadway on either side. This supplies the missing link between the Newton boulevard and those of Boston, giving a through and direct route from the Public Gardens to Auburndale.

—A subscription whist party under the direction of Mrs. Henry Tolman and Mrs. James Macomber was given at the home of the latter, on Copsey street, Tuesday afternoon. It was in aid of the Industrial School at Nonantum, a most worthy object, and about fifty were present. Four dainty souperes were given to the ladies leaving the highest scores and light refreshments were served. A pleasant feature of the afternoon was the singing of Miss Fannie French of Boston, who rendered some very beautiful songs. On Jan. 18 a Domino party is to be given in the Newton Club house under the direction of the Social Science Club for the same object.

—Newton has a large representation in the National banks of Boston. At the elections held on Tuesday among the Newton men on the boards of directors were the following: Traders, whose name is to be changed to Hancock, Samuel Shaw; Shoe & Leather, J. C. Ellis, president; Revere, Geo. S. Bulfinch, president; North America, Isaac T. Burr, A. F. Luke, Daniel Dewey, Eagle, Wm. M. Bullivant; Metropolitan, Luther Adams; Massachusetts, John Lowell, Jr.; City, W. R. Dupee, Edward L. Pickard; Winthrop, Edward W. Pope; Suffolk, A. Lawrence; Edmunds, president; New England, J. H. Herbert Sawyer; Mt. Vernon, Fred L. Felton; Commercial, A. H. Soden; Continental, D. R. Emerson. These names do not exhaust the list either, so it will be seen that Newton's solid men are very largely interested in the national banking business.

—Following are dates of matches in which the Newton cricket club of state league will compete: May 4—At Newton, Newton vs Waltham; May 11—At Newton, Newton vs Zingari; May 18—At Lynn, Lynn Wanderers vs Newton; May 25—At Newton, Newton vs Hyde Park; June 1—At Winthrop, East Boston vs Newton; June 8—At Newton, Newton vs Everett; June 15—At Longwood, B. A. vs Newton; June 22—At Somerville, Somerville vs Newton; June 29—At Everett, Everett vs Newton; July 6—At Waltham, Waltham vs Newton; July 13—At Newton, Newton vs Lynn Wanderers; July 20—At Newton, Newton vs East Boston; July 27—At Newton, Newton vs Mystic; Aug. 3—At Hyde Park, Hyde Park vs Newton; Aug. 10—At Beacon park, Zingari vs Newton; Aug. 17—At Newton, Newton vs Worcester; Aug. 24—At Newton, Newton vs East Cambridge; Aug. 31—At Newton, Newton vs Somerville; Sept. 7—At Rockland, Rockland vs Newton; Sept. 14—At Wellington, Mystic vs Newton; Sept. 21—At Newton, Newton vs Rockland; Sept. 28—At East Cambridge, East Cambridge vs Newton.

—The Y. M. C. A. class in physical culture has its full complement and gives interesting and instructive for the members.

—Mr. Edward E. Howard has purchased a new flyer, a Hamiltonian mare, and the price is said to have been six hundred dollars.

—The Girls Friendly Society of Grace church have instituted a penny savings system. It was started yesterday afternoon.

—Important business was transacted by the reception committee of the Y. M. C. A. last Monday night, and the public may look forward to something interesting in the near future.

—Mowry & Temple, electrical contractors, have just completed the wiring and placing of fixtures in Mr. Stephen P. Weld's new house, Otis street, Newtonville district.

—The General Secretary will speak at the Y. M. C. A. boys' meeting next Sunday at 3 o'clock, on the "Patience of Job." Mr. Chas. Woodworth of Newtonville will conduct the Men's meeting at 4 o'clock. All men are welcome at these meetings.

—The second grand ball of the Newton Letter Carriers' Mutual Benefit Association will be given in Armory Hall, Wednesday evening, February 20. The music will be furnished by Park's celebrated (Waltham) orchestra.

—Rev. Dillon Bronson and wife have returned from their wedding trip which included a visit to California. Rev. Mr. Bronson will take charge of the prayer meeting tonight, and will preach at the Methodist church on Sunday.

—Another pupil of the Thornton street primary school is ill with diphtheria. The parents whose children are sent to that building are becoming alarmed. They think that it is unfit for school use. It is an old structure and ought to be replaced by a suitable building, provided with every necessary health safeguard, at the earliest possible moment.

—The team of Battle Ball of the Nonantum Gymnasium, Newton, played Dr. Sargent's 1st junior team at the Sanatorium gymnasium, Cambridge, last Saturday morning.

Sanatorium, Nonantum.
Miss Nellie B. Rans, Captain and 1st Pitcher.
Miss Bantelle, Right back stop.
Miss Wessel, Left back stop.
Miss Healy, Centre back stop.
Miss Moore, Miss May.
Score first half, Nonantum, 34; Sanatorium, 20. Total 71-84. Favor of Sanatorium.

—The school children of Benis are carried from the Mt. Auburn street school-house in Watertown to their homes and back at noon hour every school day, and for this purpose a barge is provided by the town of Watertown. Tuesday, the children were driven home for dinner as usual and nothing of special interest occurred until they started to return for the afternoon session, when it was discovered that the driver was too overcome by intoxicants to handle the horses. He whipped the animals severely and collided with a fence. The little girls cried and the boys started to get out when the driver, half crazed by liquor, drove the pupils from the team. Joseph White happened along and kindly drove the pump to Watertown. The authorities are not to blame but the stable keeper by whom the barge is owned, is thought to have been at fault by some means, however that he was ignorant of the man's condition.

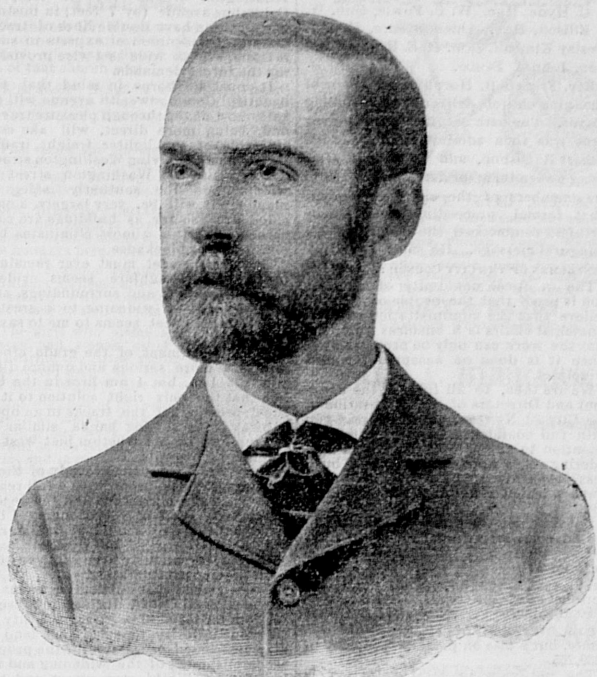

—The members of the Social Science club are each endeavoring to make at least $5 for the benefit of the Nonantum Industrial school, and are expected to give the best benefit of their experiences in the effort. They are not to be limited to that sum if they can earn more. Gentlemen coming home from Boston Tuesday night who were surprised at the number of hacks on Hunnewell Hill, found that two of the members had been giving a whist party to forty ladies, at which an admission fee was charged, and judging from the comments of some of those present it was a delightful affair, with handsome prizes. Three members are to give a mask and domino party for children at the Newton Club house. Another member is to give an afternoon concert and another an afternoon lecture, that is, they have secured outside talent to do it for them, and the social season among the members and their friends promises to be a very gay one for some time to come. It is an excellent way to give people an excuse for meeting together and enjoying themselves and the Industrial school will be the gainer.

—Miss Lucille May Shepard, the well known soprano vocalist of this city, and Mr. Edward Everett Hayward of Braintree were married in Grace church, Tuesday evening. The bride is a niece of Mr. John Shepard of Shepard, Norwell & Co., and is a great favorite, not only among her musical friends, but in society. The groom is also a singer. The church was elaborately trimmed with laurel. A novel musical introduction previous to the arrival of the bride party was a vocal solo, "Faith's Sancta Maria," beautifully rendered by Miss Clara Powers of Newton, and a violin solo by Mr. Kanerische. At 8 o'clock the carrie and white satin were drawn down the centre aisle, and following them came the bridesmaids from one side of the chancel and the ushers from the other side. Both passed down the centre aisle, and meeting the bride party at the main entrance, turned and led the way to the altar. The brides were the Misses Grace M. Jones, a cousin of the bride, Lucretia Hannah, Leslie V. Grant, Minnie Little, and Agnes Hayward of Braintree, sister of the groom. They were gowned in yellow silk, with low cut corsages, forming a Breton effect and carried a bouquet of cerise carnations. Next came the maid of honor, Miss Lillian of New York city, in white silk, with bouquet of white carnations. Immediately followed the bride in a simple robe of cream satin, with trimmings of crystal and long bracelets falling from her wrists in front to the hem of the skirt. Her veil was fastened with orange blossoms and, while she wore no gloves, she held a bouquet of white roses. Escorting her was her mother, Mrs. H. E. Carter of Braintree, by whom she was given away. Completing the procession was little Miss Olive Thompson of New York, who, as the flower girl, was an artistic contribution of white muslin and flowers. At the chancel stood Rev. Dr. Shinn, rector of Grace church, the groom and his attendant, Mr. Frank S. Thompson of New York, and while the strains of the march from "Tannhauser" died away, the voice of the Rector was heard in the betrothal service. At the conclusion of the ceremony the gay assemblage, preceded by the bride and groom, were driven to the home of the bride, where about 800 guests congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Hayward, who were assisted in receiving by the bride's parents, Mrs. Wright being gowned in white satin, with crystal trimmings and carried a bouquet of Russian violets. The ushers were Mr. Howard M. Dow, Dr. H. L. Dearing of Braintree, Messrs. William Holbrook also of Braintree, Frederick Hersey, Burton Longley and L. Caro of Boston. At the close of the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Hayward departed on their wedding tour. Upon their return they will reside on Pearl street.

SKETCHES OF CITY FATHERS.

Some of the Men Entrusted With the Management of Municipal Affairs.

Portraits of the Mayor and President of the Common Council.

MAYOR HENRY E. BOTHFIELD.

The GRAPHIC presents this week sketches of some of the City Fathers' with portraits of Mayor Bothfield and Mr. Joseph W. Parker, president of the Common Council.

Mayor Bothfield, who was the choice of all parties for chief executive of this city, was born in New York city, March 4, 1860. In 1883 his parents removed to West Newton, and a few years later to Newton, where he has resided since. In 1885 he became junior partner in the Harwood manufacturing company, with offices on Summer street, Boston. In 1892 that and other corporations were consolidated under the name of the National Fiber Company, with which he is still connected. Mr. Bothfield is closely identified with several other business interests, notably the National Heeling Machine Company. He served two years in the common council and was two years chairman of the board of aldermen.

Alderman Henry D. Degen, president of the upper branch, was born in New York city in 1832. He graduated from Wilbraham Academy and soon after commenced his business career in Boston, first connecting himself with a book and general publishing company located on Corn Hill. When the war broke out, he responded to the call and went out first with the 5th Regt. Later he organized a company of the 50th Regt. and was appointed its captain. After the war, he returned to Boston and formed a co-partnership with Mr. Estes, now of the firm of Estes & Lauriat. Five years later, Mr. Degen went to New York, where he remained for 18 years as cashier for a large concern. He is now acting treasurer of the Pittsfield Cotton Mills, and resides in Newton Centre.

Alderman Albert Plummer, senior member of the board, was born in Newburyport, Dec. 7, 1840. He was educated in the public schools there. When 21 years of age, he entered the 48th Mass. Vols as first sergeant of Co. B. He was out with Gen. Banks in the Gulf campaign, taking part in three battles in front of Port Hudson. He was present at the final surrender of the fort and participated later in the battle of Danielsonville. After the close of the war, Mr. Plummer came to Newton and established a grocery house in Auburndale. He sold it 12 years later and became a member of the Boston Post. For the past 18 years, he has been manager of the Shoe and Leather Reporter and one of its owners for the last 7 years. Mr. Plummer is a member of Dabhouse lodge, F. & A. M., Post 62, G. A. R., and Antietam commandery, United Veterans. This is his third year in the upper branch. He has served on the fire committee, enrolled ordinances and assessors and was chairman of the committee on claims in 1894. He is chairman this year of the highway committee.

to continue his studies and by the application of energy combined with those qualities which go toward making the successful man, he progressed from small beginnings to positions of responsibility. For ten years, he was engaged in the wool business following his school days. He then went into the investment business, continuing it ever since. For 23 years, Mr. Green has resided in Newtonville. He represented Ward Two in the common council for two years and came into especial prominence last year through his stand for better street lighting service. This year, he is chairman of the street light committee.

Alderman Henry Tolman was born in Boston, May 5, 1852. He has served two years in the common council and has been one of its most valued members, serving with credit on important committees including sewers, public property and parks. Mr. Tolman has resided in Newton 15 years. He is engaged in the leather business in Boston.

Alderman L. E. G. Green was born in Boston, Jan. 22, 1857. He received his early education in the Boston schools and when only 15 years of age started out to battle for a livelihood. He found time away from the pursuits of business

At Alderman Thomas White was born in Canada. He came to Boston when about 16 years of age and has been engaged in the retail shoe business ever

TALES OF THE OLD AND THE NEW.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF 1894 PRIOR TO THE INAUGURAL CEREMONIES—ORGANIZATION OF NEW GOVERNMENT—JOSEPH W. PARKER WILL PRESIDE OVER DELIBERATIONS OF LOWER BRANCH—HENRY D. DEGEN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN—ANNOUNCEMENT OF COMMITTEES—TRANSACTION OF ROUTINE BUSINESS.

The city council of 1894 held its final session, prior to the inaugural exercises, Monday afternoon. Both branches convened in their respective chambers at 2.30 o'clock.

In the board of mayor and aldermen, Alderman Rolfe offered an order granting to the Newton & Boston Street Railway Company locations for double tracks on Commonwealth avenue, (the new boulevard), from the Boston boundary line westerly to Washington street with authority to construct necessary turn-outs and switches and to erect poles and put up wires. The locations are granted subject to the customary obligations and restrictions. It is provided that a rail of not less than 56 lbs. weight to the yard shall be used, and that at all street crossings the spaces between the tracks and 18 inches outside shall be paved. The tracks must be so laid that the poles can be placed between them. There must be room at the top of the poles for lights and a cross arm to be reserved for the use of the city. An important requirement is that which calls for the adoption of some method to prevent injury through electrolysis to water or gas pipes and damage by contact with poles or wires, the property of the city or private companies. It is provided that in the event of any changes on account of dangerous proximity to poles and wires of any other company or those of the city that the expense shall be borne by the street railway company. The order was adopted.

Alderman Bothfield presented a report for the finance committee, stating that the books of the city treasurer had been examined and found to be correct and properly vouched. The report was accepted.

An order was adopted appropriating $200 for sundry bills for incidentals. On motion of Alderman Hunt, an order was adopted granting an extension of time to Messrs. R. Rumery and Orrin P. Clarke for payment of sewer assessments on Turner street. The order provides that the assessments shall be collectable when the land adjacent to that thoroughfare is built upon.

On motion of Alderman Thompson, the unexpended balance of $300 for the improvements in Engine "two's" house was added to the public property appropriation of 1895.

C. W. Keefe was granted a license to run an express wagon between Newton and Boston.

An order was adopted referring all unfinished business of 1894 to the city council of 1895.

Mayor Fenuo at this point addressed the board. He said that he desired before it was voted to adjourn to express his grateful appreciation of the courtesy shown to him during his administration as mayor. He said that he had been very much gratified by the successful manner in which it had completed its work. It is a gratification to me that we have so clean a docket for our successors. In conclusion Mayor Fenuo paid a tribute to the efficiency of the city officers. To their experience, assistance and cordial co-operation, he said, such measure of success as I may have attained is largely due. [Applause.]

Mayor-elect Bothfield responded for the board. Addressing the mayor, he said: You retire from the position of chief executive with the reputation of one of every member of the city government. We feel, he added, that we are losing the services of a wise counselor and a kind friend. The most pleasant relations have existed between the board of aldermen and yourself during the two years that you have served as chief executive. There has been only one change in the make-up of the upper branch during that time and there has been a harmony of purpose and cordiality in our personal relations that have brought us in close contact. We sincerely hope that the future will be as bright for you as you have made it for the members of this board. [Applause.]

The board of mayor and aldermen of 1894 adjourned at 3 o'clock just after the adjournment of the retiring common council. In the lower branch, the business was largely of a routine character. President Knapp made a few remarks thanking his associates for their cordial co-operation and referring to the successful accomplishment of many important works by the retiring city council.

Following the adjournment of both branches of the old city government, the inaugural ceremony of the new was proceeded with. The oath of office was administered to Mayor-elect Bothfield by Judge Bishop, and the mayor in turn administered the oath to the members elect of the city council. Mayor Bothfield's inaugural message will be found with a report of the exercises elsewhere in this paper.

It was 3.50 o'clock when the city council of 1895 met to organize and transact business. Mayor Bothfield occupied the chair in the aldermanic chamber, and ex Mayor Fenuo had the seat of honor on his right.

The first business in the upper branch was that of the choice of a president. The ballot, on motion of Alderman Tolman, was made informal. It resulted as follows:

Necessary for a choice, 4.
Alderman Plummer had 3
Henry D. Degen had 3
John A. Hamilton had 1

Before the formal ballot was proceeded with, Alderman Hamilton requested that the vote cast for him be given to Alderman Plummer.

The formal ballot resulted the same as the informal. A second and third ballot resulted in no change. On the fourth, Henry D. Degen received 4; Albert Plummer 3. The former was declared elected by the mayor.

Following the election of president, the following routine orders were adopted: Authorizing the city treasurer to honor the drafts of the superintendent of streets in favor of discharged laborers for an amount not exceeding $3000; referring all bills not incurred under the supervision of any committee to the committee on finance; authorizing the city messenger to supply postage stamps for the use of the various departments at an expense not exceeding $150 per month; referring all unfinished business to the appropriate committees of the new city government; adopting the rules and orders and joint rules and orders of 1894 for 1895; authorizing the city treasurer to honor the drafts of the city engineer in favor of discharged laborers on sewer work for an amount not exceeding $5000; authorizing the printing of 500 copies of the mayor's inaugural address; providing for the appointment of a joint committee of five to consider and report what action, if any, shall be taken on the several subjects mentioned in the mayor's address; adopting the rules and orders regulating the government of the police force of 1894 for the government of the police force of 1895; authorizing the appointment of a special committee of three, with such as common council may join, for the nomination of overseers of the poor; authorizing the city treasurer to borrow sums not exceeding $500,000 to provide for temporary loan or loans to be paid from the taxes of the present municipal year; fixing the office hours at the City Hall from 8.15 a. m. to 12 m. and from 2 to 5 p. m., except Saturdays, when the hours shall be from 8.15 a. m. to 12.30 p. m.; authorizing the bells be rung for one-half hour at sunrise, noon and sunset Feb. 22, (Washington's Birthday); fixing the meetings of the board for the first and third Mondays of the month at 7.15 p. m.; providing for appointment of a select committee of the board with such as the common council may join to consider and determine as to the disposition of the Kenrick fund; authorizing the city treasurer to honor the drafts of the superintendent of water works in favor of discharged laborers for an amount not exceeding $3000; providing for the appointment of a committee of three with such as the common council may join to nominate one principal and one assistant assessor for each ward.

On motion of Alderman Bullard, the mayor was authorized to appoint a messenger notifying the common council that the board of mayor and aldermen had organized and that Henry D. Degen had been elected president. Mayor Bothfield intrusted the duty to Alderman Bullard.

The first debate of the new city government was occasioned when Alderman Degen offered an order appropriating $1000 for the purchase of books for the Associates' Hall, Ward 6. It was opposed by Alderman Plummer who took the ground that it was an unwarranted expenditure. He said that with a well equipped library and the present ease in getting books, it seemed unnecessary to spend the amount of money asked for.

Alderman Degen in reply stated that it had been the custom of the past few years to appropriate $250 for the use of the Newton Centre reading room. The establishing of these branch reading rooms, he continued, is in conformity to recommendation of the trustees of the library who believe they should be provided where ever wanted in the populous sections of the city. Last year, an appropriation of $1500 was voted for the West Newton library without causing even a ripple of objection. An appropriation of $250 is insufficient because it will not provide for the services of a janitor. Citizens of Newton Centre have heretofore made up the difference, but no one feels that the city has as much right to provide for a reading room in Newton Centre as at West Newton.

They hope, in view of so large an appropriation for West Newton, that Ward Six should be discriminated against and that some further remarks, the order was passed, all the members voting in the affirmative.

Alderman Tolman presented a communication from the Walker-Pratt Manufacturing Company, asking the city council to appropriate a sufficient amount to be due them on a contract for ventilating school buildings. It was stated that the work was done thoroughly and that certain changes had been made upon suggestion of the state building inspector necessarily preventing the completion of the work within the time specified by contract. The communication was referred to the public property committee.

Mayor Bothfield named for the joint committee on inaugural message Alderman Plummer and Bullard; on assessors, Alderman Tolman, White and Green; on the committee on Kenrick fund, Alderman Degen and Bullard.

It was voted on motion of Alderman Plummer that members retain the seats that they were occupying.

Alderman Green was appointed a messenger to notify the common council that the board was in readiness for a convention to elect a city treasurer, city clerk and city auditor. While the Alderman from Ward Two was discharging that duty, Mayor Bothfield announced the make-up of committees, as follows:

ACCOUNTS.
Alderman Plummer and Bullard, Councilmen Sprague, Ober and Roberts.

ALMSHOUSE AND POOR.
Alderman Tolman, Councilmen Childs and Butts.

ASSESSORS DEPARTMENT.

POLICE.
Mayor, Aldermen Degen and Green.

LICENSES, WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.
Aldermen Hamilton and Plummer.

SOLDIERS RELIEF.
Aldermen Degen and Tolman.

Both branches went into convention for the purpose of electing a city treasurer, city clerk and city auditor at 4.40 o'clock. The election of an incumbent was proceeded with first and the present incumbent of that position, Mr. Benjamin F. Otis, received all the votes cast—21. The tellers were Alderman Tolman and Councilman Childs.

On the choice of a city clerk, Alderman Green and Councilman Hutchinson were appointed tellers. Col. Isaac F. Kingsbury was re-elected, receiving the compliment of a unanimous vote as in the case of Mr. Otis.

On the ballot for city treasurer, Alderman Plummer and Councilman Cranitch were appointed tellers. Capt. John A. Kenrick, the worthy incumbent, was re-elected. He shared the honors of the other elective city officers in being the unanimous choice of the city council. The oath of office was administered by Mayor Bothfield. Col. Kingsbury expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him by a unanimous reelection and Capt. Kenrick also appropriately voiced his thanks. Mr. Otis wittily added his words of recognition of the convention's courtesy by remarking "Me too, gentlemen."

After the convention dissolved both boards reassembled in their respective chambers again.

In the board of mayor and aldermen, an order offered by Alderman Hamilton was adopted providing for the appointment of a committee of three with such as the common council may join to nominate assistant overseers of the poor from each ward.

At 4.50 o'clock, on motion of Alderman Plummer, it was voted to adjourn.

Common Council.
The common council of 1895 held its first session Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. President Parker presided and President Knapp occupied a seat beside him. The first business was the reelection of J. H. C. Brimblecom as clerk.

Orders were read and adopted providing that the rules and orders of 1894 be adopted for 1895; fixing the meetings of the council for the second and fourth Monday evenings of each month at 7.45 o'clock; appropriating $1000 to be added to the appropriation of the board of health for the culture of serum for the prevention of diphtheria. In explanation of the latter order Councilman Sprague stated that it was unnecessary to say that diphtheria had lately become alarmingly prevalent in this and other localities and in some places had assumed epidemic form. Anti-toxine had been acknowledged by experts as a cure for the disease and it would prevent an epidemic if used. In the Newton Hospital two cases of diphtheria had been experimented upon and although one patient was thought to have been past human aid, there was a complete recovery in each case. The money to be appropriated was not to be spent right off by the board, but only in case of necessity and for investigation purposes.

Another order was adopted requesting the board of health to report on the establishment of a steam plant for disinfection purposes. The being no further business it was voted to adjourn at 4.45 o'clock.

To invigorate and beautify the hair, use Hall's Vegetable Sulfur Hair Renewer.

AN IMPORTANT DOCUMENT.

The inaugural message of Mayor Both-field is a more than usually important document, and deserves a careful reading
by all who are interested in the welfare of the city. It is not of great length but the topics discussed are treated in a business-like manner, that promises well for the new administration.

The city's financial condition is briefly explained, and the necessity of every committee's keeping within its appropriation emphasized. A wise economy is clearly needed in all departments, and it will not be the new Mayor's fault if such a policy is not followed.

The work of sewerage the city has been so far completed in all places where any urgent necessity existed, that it is recommended that no further extension should be made except as the board of health may recommend.

The new boulevard comes in for a good deal of notice, as its importance calls for, and its name is now settled upon, as Commonwealth avenue. It is recommended that it be extended to the river,
when the citizens of Auburndale offer sufficiently liberal inducements. So far they have not been able to get together in favoring any one plan and perhaps this gentle hint may spur them up into adopting some public spirited policy.

The city of Boston has laid out the connecting link on the other side of the city,
and is expected to construct it the coming year.

In this connection the suggestive statement is made, that although the new boulevard has been such a brilliant success, we must not rashly think that boulevards or broad streets can be built almost anywhere without regard to cost,
and the same beneficial results will follow. This is a point that many are inclined to overlook.

Great interest was felt in what the Mayor would say on the widening of Washington street and the removal of grade crossings, but what was said will meet with general approval. Mayor Bothfield believes in prompt action, and he also believes that it would be foolish to make Washington street more than 85 feet wide, and gives conclusive arguments for the latter opinion. The important announcement is made that the Boston & Albany railroad will co-operate in both these important undertakings, and are inclined now to favor depression and also to help in widening Washington street, as they will need some of the land, both for temporary tracks, and also for sloping embankments. The Boston & Albany will cooperate with the city in securing the legislation needed, so there will be no difficulty about securing it. Nevertheless the legislation will have to be carefully watched, in the interest of the city.

Mayor Bothfield believes that both of these improvements should be undertaken together, but in justice to the property owners along the street, the plan for the widening should be definitely determined upon, and the required land seized.

Mayor Bothfield also makes a strong argument in behalf of a board of public works, and his experience in city affairs
makes what he says of great weight.
Putting a lot of amateurs to do professional work of which they know nothing is always a costly experiment.

Other important recommendations are the need of some better system in regard to new public buildings, securing the whole time of the city solicitor, and changing the city charter so as to have a one board city council. About this last there may be some difference of opinion, as our experience has been that the two branches under present conditions are at times of distinct advantage to the city, but possibly one board could be so limited by rules, as Mayor Bothfield says, that it would be free from the objections
that would suggest themselves to all familiar with our manner of legislation.

One very sensible suggestion is made,
in regard to street lighting, and that is that in placing new lights, the committee should pay more attention to the main thoroughfares. The proper lighting of these is of far more importance than that every resident of a side street who has influence enough should have a lamp in front of his house, as has been the policy in too many cases hitherto.
Our main streets are not at present as well lighted as those of most of the cities and towns about us. The new contract with the Newton & Watertown Gas Company is said to be so advantageous as to admit of a good deal of improvement in this respect.

There are other topics of moment touched upon in the message, and if the new city council follow the recommendations made, they will not get very far out of the way.

REPRESENTATIVE HOLDS of Newton gets a high compliment from the Speaker of the House, being appointed chairman of the committee on insurance, although such an honor seldom goes to a new member. The speaker probably reasoned that a chairman should be the one who knew most about the business to come before the committee and so appointed Mr. Hollis, who is one of the leading men in Boston's insurance business. Representative Harwood is appointed a member of the committee on Probate and Insolvency.

MR. JOSEPH R. LEESON of Newton Centre has been elected president of the Boston Merchants Association, to succeed Mr. Johnathan A. Lane. The clerk of the Association, Mr. Beverly K. Moore, is also a Newton man, having his home on the Clifton estate at Newtonville.

NEWTON CLUB MATTERS.

CALENDAR.

Saturday, Jan. 12, Annual Meeting and Election of Officers.
Monday, Jan. 14, Ladies' Matinee, Miss Julia King, reader; Miss Marian E.
Harter, violinist.
Wednesday, Jan. 16, Ladies' Night Whist,
8 p. m.

The symphony concert Wednesday evening attracted the usual large and representative audience. The Mrs. Sherman
Raymond orchestra with Miss Jennie Corea as soloist proved attractions that the music loving audience could not fail to appreciate. The instrumental work was admirable and Miss Corea sang with fine effect.

One of the most unique entertainments
to be given at the club this winter, will be the mask and domino party for children, Saturday, Jan. 19th, for the benefit of the Nonantum Industrial School. The patronesses are Mrs. J. N. Kellar, Mrs. C.
W. Loring and Mrs. J. W. French.

The games in the schedule of the triangular bowling tourney in which teams representing the Newton Club, Newton B. C. and Neighborhood Club compete for suitable prizes was inaugurated this week.
The opening match was played at Riverside on the N. B. C. alleys. The Newton Club won defeating the Neighborhood Club by a score of 2381 to 2235. Cole was high man with a total of 538. Savage next with 503. The next match will be rolled on the Newton alleys between the team representing that organization and the Neighborhood Club, Jan. 18.

In the division bowling tourney on the Newton Club alleys last evening Team One defeated Two, 2472 to 2243; Team Seven won from Eight 2229 to 2124. The best three pin totals were: Cooke, 329; Fuller, 511; Raymond, (Dearborn substituting), 508; Buntin, 505.

FIRST MEETING OF THE YEAR.

SCHOOL BOARD ORGANIZES AND THE MAYOR APPOINTS COMMITTEES.

The Newton school board of 1895 held its first meeting Wednesday evening.
Mayor Bothfield presided and 12 members were present. The board organized by the choice of J. Edward Hollis, chairman and Mary E. Sherwood, secretary.

An order calling for the discontinuance of the use of slates, slate pencils and sponges in the schools and the substitution thereof of paper and lead pencils was presented and referred to the committee on supplies.

Mabel P. Ellison was appointed an assistant in the Hamilton school at a salary of $500 and Blanche A. Henshaw was transferred from the Hamilton to the Hills school.

The following committees were appointed by the mayor:
High school, J. E. Hollis, Lawrence Bond and E. H. Mason; ward 1, W. G. Brackett, L. E. of Du, F. H. Howes; ward 2, Mary A. Martin,

WABAN.

—There was no service Sunday evening.

—Miss Woodbury entertains the Young People's Whist Club tonight (Friday).

—Miss Strong held a German at the Village Hall last Saturday evening. It was a very charming affair and was well enjoyed by the guests.

—The Tuesday Evening Whist Club met with Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Childs this week.
Mr. V. H. Gould took the first gentlemen's prize and Mrs. Buffum the first ladies' prize.

—The many friends and patrons of Harris E. Johnson, electrician, will be pleased to learn that he has again entered the electric business with an order office at Barber Bros. hardware store, and telephone connection at his residence and shop, 126 Pearl street.

—The Newton Savings Bank has been a busy place since Christmas. During the first ten days of January the deposits were over $65,000. The total assets of the bank now foot up the very respectable total of almost $2,700,000. More facts will follow after the annual meeting of trustees next Tuesday.

SKETCHES OF THE CITY FATHERS.

since. Mr. White runs three stores, two in the Newton Highlands and one in Clinton.
He has been a very successful business man. For 15 years, he has been a resident of Newton Highlands. This is his first year in the city council.

Rev. John A. Hamilton is the oldest member of the board. He is 80 years of age. This is his second year in the upper branch. He received his education in Williston Seminary, Amherst College and the Andover Theological Seminary, graduating from the latter institution in 1858. After his graduation, he was college pastor of the Congregational church in Keene, N. H., eight years, chaplain of the 6th N. H. Vols.
one year, travelled two years in Europe,
Egypt and the Holy Land, and for nine years was pastor of the Congregational church in Norwalk, Ct. For the past ten years, he has been the resident secretary of the Congregational Educational Society.

Joseph W. Parker, president of the common council, was born in Cambridge, in 1847. He received his education in the Cambridge public schools and the Boston Latin school, graduating from the latter. He had a short business experience in Boston following his school days, and then went to New York City, where he became identified with one of the largest woolen houses in the world.
He was an expert buyer and presented the New York house as purchasing and sales agent for 20 years in this country and in Europe. He started in business for himself in 1883, opening a branch house in Boston of a New York tailoring establishment. Three years later he bought out the Boston business and run it exclusively until quite recently. He recently formed a co-partnership with ex-Alderman E. M. Rumery and the new firm has opened finely appointed tailoring rooms, corner of Washington and West streets, catering for what is termed the exclusive class of business. Mr.
Parker has served two years in the common council and has been an efficient
member of the highway and fire committees. He is a 321 degree Mason and a member of Gethsemane commandery,
K. T., of this city. He resides in Newton
Centre.

Alderman George P. Bullard was born in West Medway, June 15, 1857. He was educated in the common schools of Franklin, to which town his parents removed when he was ten years of age.
He came to Boston when about 18, and after attending a commercial school, a few months, secured a position with the hardware firm of A. J. Wilkinson & Co.
In 1879 he became book-keeper for the iron firm of Bacon & Co. He was admitted a partner in 1886, withdrawing at the end of five years to enter the same business alone, Oct. 1, 1894. Mr. Bullard has served two years in the common council, and has been an efficient
member of the highway and fire committees. He is a 321 degree Mason and a member of Gethsemane commandery,
K. T., of this city. He resides in Newton
Centre.

When Mr. Watson had concluded his interesting recital and the wonderful draw had been expatiated upon, one of
his listeners remarked that he reckoned
it was his deal. "This is a story of luck,
too," he remarked, "but of a different
character from that experienced by Senator Wolcott. A friend of mine who lives out in Maryland was playing in a little poker game not long ago. The paraphernalia of the game was primitive, consisting of a single well thumbed
deck of steamboat cards, with grains of corn for chips. My friend was followed by a regular tempest of bad luck, and
his corn was down to a very few grains.
He agitated his mind for a minute or two and then suddenly announced that he had forgotten to give his horse water
and would have to do it. He went out of the house, and being familiar with the
premises made his way to the cornhouse,
and putting in his hand in the dark got
an ear of corn and put it in his pocket.
Then he went to the stable, after making a big noise at the pump to let the
fellows inside believe he was moistening
his animal, and returned in a few minutes to the house. He sat down and proceeded to pull out the 'chips' he had placed in his pocket when he left, and
which he had substantially added to meatime. You can imagine his consternation when he found that he drew
forth his original dozen white 'chips',
with twice that many red. He had managed to find in the dark the only red ear
in the cornhouse."

"I'll make a personal confession after that," said Henry Miller when the laugh subsided. "Some years ago I was prone now and then to indulge in the
delights of draw, and there was a friend
living near me, over in Georgetown,
afflicted with intermittent insanity of
the same sort that visited him at intervals coincident with my own. Consequently we usually hunted the animal
together. One night we came over this side of the creek together and proceeded
to a place on Ninth street, where a public game, with table stakes, was pretty popular. Along about 11 o'clock we both got broke and concluded to go home. The night had grown stormy,
and it was sleeting like sin when we left the 'club,' as it was called. A search revealed that we had but one ear ticket
between us. The hotel cars, without a conductor, were then used on the Metropolitan line, and we conceived the
highly original idea of splitting that ticket in half and dropping the two pieces in the box. We boarded the last
car over and carried out our scheme.
You may knock me down if both pieces
didn't fall in the box white side up.
The driver glanced at them and then
started to open the door, but we both
made a break and got off the car. I made up my mind then that my luck
was too utterly bad for a poker player,
and walking home through that blizzard
I determined to try no more poker, and
I haven't touched a card in a money
game since."—Washington Star.

Cheyenne is a word of doubtful origin.
Some say that it is from the Indian shyenne, meaning stranger; others that it is French, from chien—dog—and that the town in Wyoming of that name was called so from the prairie dog villages common on the plains.

BIG POKER STORIES.

THEIR TEXT THE REMARKABLE VA-RIETIES OF LUCK.

Senator Wolcott's Lucky Draw In the "Brace" Game—The Old Red Ear Story
Retold In Condensed Form—The Personal Confession of One of "the Company."

"I suppose Senator Wolcott is one of the coolest men living when engaged in a game of chance," said Albert Watson of Denver. "Like most men whose early manhood has been spent on the frontier, he learned the value of a poker hand and the best way to keep cases as soon as he learned law, and he was known as a 'limb' player all over Colorado before his fame as a lawyer had spread outside of Denver. When playing faro, he always did and does yet bet as much on the turn of a card as the dealer will allow him to, and when he sits in a poker game the other people want to keep their eyes wide open and play their cards mighty close up to their chests."

"Wolcott once found himself in a game of poker where three of the other players were playing a sure game. They were professionals and were after a big bundle of money that he had in his possession as well as looking for that which the fifth player, a mining operator named Durkin, was known to have.
Wolcott knew in 20 minutes after the first hand was dealt that the intention was to rob him and wearied his wits trying to find a way out of the game without making trouble, but he couldn't discover a means to save him. At last he was dealt a pat flush of diamonds made up of the 5, 7, 8, 9 and jack. He skinned those cards over and did a mighty piece of thinking. He felt in his bones that a flush would be no account
in the world when it came to a showdown, but he chipped in and staid to draw cards. To his surprise, he wasn't raised before the draw."

"He looked over his bright red diamonds and concluded to draw a card, in order, if possible, to strengthen the sequence. He pondered a long time between discarding the 5 spot or the picture, and at last tossed away the jack and called for a card. The dealer looked surprised at his wanting any, but gave him the card. Wolcott picked it up and found he had got the 6 spot of diamonds. He never turned a hair. The betting began, and he nursed his sequence of diamonds and just staid along, letting the other fellows do the raising. At last it got down to Wolcott and one of the professionals. Finally there was a call, and the other man showed four queens. Wolcott laid down the 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 of diamonds and swept in the pot. The game stopped right there. I reckon that was the greatest piece of luck that any man ever had
in a poker game."

When Mr. Watson had concluded his interesting recital and the wonderful
draw had been expatiated upon, one of
his listeners remarked that he reckoned
it was his deal. "This is a story of luck,
too," he remarked, "but of a different
character from that experienced by Senator Wolcott. A friend of mine who lives out in Maryland was playing in a little poker game not long ago. The paraphernalia of the game was primitive, consisting of a single well thumbed
deck of steamboat cards, with grains of
corn for chips. My friend was followed by a regular tempest of bad luck, and
his corn was down to a very few grains.
He agitated his mind for a minute or
two and then suddenly announced that
he had forgotten to give his horse water
and would have to do it. He went out of the house, and being familiar with the
premises made his way to the cornhouse,
and putting in his hand in the dark got
an ear of corn and put it in his pocket.
Then he went to the stable, after making a big noise at the pump to let the
fellows inside believe he was moistening
his animal, and returned in a few minutes to the house. He sat down and pro-
placed in his pocket when he left, and
which he had substantially added to meatime. You can imagine his consternation when he found that he drew
forth his original dozen white 'chips',
with twice that many red. He had managed to find in the dark the only red ear
in the cornhouse."

"I'll make a personal confession after
that," said Henry Miller when the
laugh subsided. "Some years ago I was
prone now and then to indulge in the
delights of draw, and there was a friend
living near me, over in Georgetown,
afflicted with intermittent insanity of
the same sort that visited him at intervals coincident with my own. Consequently we usually hunted the animal
together. One night we came over this
side of the creek together and proceeded
to a place on Ninth street, where a public game, with table stakes, was pretty
popular. Along about 11 o'clock we
both got broke and concluded to go
home. The night had grown stormy,
and it was sleeting like sin when we
left the 'club,' as it was called. A search
revealed that we had but one ear ticket
between us. The hotel cars, without a conductor, were then used on the Metropolitan line, and we conceived the
highly original idea of splitting that
ticket in half and dropping the two pieces in the box. We boarded the last
car over and carried out our scheme.
You may knock me down if both pieces
didn't fall in the box white side up.
The driver glanced at them and then
started to open the door, but we both
made a break and got off the car. I made up my mind then that my luck
was too utterly bad for a poker player,
and walking home through that blizzard
I determined to try no more poker, and
I haven't touched a card in a money
game since."—Washington Star.

CRYSTAT LAKE CARNIVAL.

SOME FACTS ABOUT IT FROM A DISINTERESTED POINT OF VIEW—MR. ELLIS CLAIMS THAT HE WAS NOT CONSULTED—COMMITTEE NOT DISPOSED TO CONCEDE THAT HE HAD ANY RIGHTS IN THE POND.

The recent announcement of a proposed ice carnival on Crystal lake, followed by another announcement a few days later that the affair had been indefinitely postponed, constitutes the groundwork of a controversy that is likely to present a number of legal complications before its settlement is reached.

The ice carnival was the project of the Newton Centre and Newton Highlands Improvement societies and the Newton Athletic Association. It was to have been a big affair, and the date was fixed for Thursday evening, Jan. 3, weather permitting. It was advertised in the Newton and Boston papers and by the customary issuing of posters and circulars.

On Wednesday morning, (Jan. 2,) Mr. Geo. H. Ellis, who claims certain property rights in the lake, commenced the cutting of ice there. That proceeding on the part of Mr. Ellis "knocked the carnival scheme," to quote the language of a member of the committee, "into a cocked hat." It had to be abandoned, at least for a time, and the notice of indefinite postponement was reluctantly issued.

The disappointment to the societies interested in the public was of course very great, and the action taken by Mr. Ellis brought out many indignant criticisms. To put it mildly, the members of the carnival committee are hopping mad, and an effort is to be made, it is said, to ascertain beyond the possibility of dispute just what rights, if any, Mr. Ellis possesses in the lake.

The committee in charge of the carnival did not concede that Mr. Ellis had any rights in the lake and went ahead with the arrangements for holding it without consulting him. The plans for the event contemplated the burning of bonfires on the frozen surface of the pond, and this, Mr. Ellis states, was one of his chief objections to the holding of the carnival. Through his attorney, Mr. H. W. Mason, he made overtures to the committee, agreeing to co-operate with it in the holding of the carnival, providing the bonfires and some other features which he objected to were omitted.

The committee went to the city council for the necessary authority to hold the carnival. It did not get it. It was decided that if Mr. Ellis had no rights in the lake, it belonged to the Commonwealth and that the city had no jurisdiction.

While Mr. Ellis is being generally censured, he feels that his position in the matter has been misrepresented. His attorney states that he (Ellis) was not opposed to the idea of holding a carnival on the lake provided no damage resulted to his ice. The whole difficulty, Mr. Mason says, was the refusal of the carnival committee to recognize Mr. Ellis in the matter.

The outcome of the affair will be, probably, the determining of the question of ownership in the lake.

TO DEPRESS THE TRACKS.

MAYOR BOTTFELD SAYS THAT IT MAY BE DONE IN CONNECTION WITH THE WIDENING AND RELOCATING OF WASHINGTON STREET—THE BOSTON HERALD WAS THE FIRST PAPER TO GIVE THE NEWS TO NEWTON PEOPLE—COMBINATION SERVICE FURNISHED IT LATER TO CITY PAPERS.

Last week the Boston Herald announced that the grade separation problem in this city was on the way of speedy settlement. I stated that a plan had been agreed upon by which the tracks through the Newtons along the main line of the Boston & Albany railroad would be depressed in connection with the widening and relocating of Washington street. The report was confirmed by Mayor Bottfeld in his inaugural message and the residents of the city who feared a division wall separation of the north and south sides of the city are pouring forth their peans of rejoicing.

The news is a trifle musty now, but it was presented to the readers of the Hub dailies by the combination service Wednesday morning as a fresh piece of intelligence. The Herald must be credited with a big scoop on a most important piece of news.

The plan which seems likely to be adopted combines the separation of highway and railway grades and the widening of Washington street.

It is proposed to carry out these two improvements at the same time. The City Council of 1894 placed itself on record as favoring the widening of Washington street to 55 feet, and of taking land for the same on the south side of the roadway, which is separated from the tracks of the Boston & Albany by a very narrow strip of land.

The present plan is to take a strip of such width, in many places, as the land lying between the tracks and the street, that the tracks of the Boston & Albany can be temporarily relocated there while excavations on the present road bed are in progress. Eventually whatever part of the land is not required for the street widening can be sold to the railroad company, in order to permit it to construct its sunken road bed with sloping banks.

If the plan for depression is adopted a heavier share of the expense will fall upon the city, but by combining the changing of the grades with the widening of Washington street, the expense of both undertakings will be considerably lessened.

Legislation by the General Court will be asked for, authorizing the city to take land for this purpose and later to sell it to the Boston & Albany railroad, and to create a special debt for this purpose.

If this authority is obtained, it is very probable that next spring will witness the commencement of the long delayed work.

"Old, yet ever new, and simple and beautiful ever," sings the poet, in words which might well apply to Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the most efficient and scientific blood purifier ever offered to suffer humanity. Nothing but superior merit keeps it so long at the front.

REV. DR. CALKINS RESIGNS.

HE MAKES THE ANNOUNCEMENT AT THE SUNDAY EVENING SERVICE—IT WAS A GREAT SURPRISE TO HIS PARISHIONERS—IT HAD BEEN HIS INTENTION FOR SEVERAL YEARS TO RESIGN HIS PASTORATE ON THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE FOUNDING OF THE CHURCH—HIS MINISTRY IN NEWTON COVERS A PERIOD OF FIFTEEN YEARS.

The small number of worshippers who attended the service in the Eliot Church Sunday evening were given a surprise in the shape of the resignation of the pastor of the society, Rev. Wolcott Calkins.

There were but few among the officials of the church who were in the secret, and to the majority of those present the announcement of the pastor's resignation came in the shape of a complete surprise.

Scarcely had the services been opened with the usual choir music and the pastoral prayer, when the pastor, without preliminary remarks, presented his letter of resignation.

The letter stated that it had been his intention for several years to resign his pastorate on the fiftieth anniversary of the formation of the church, July 7, next, and that the resignation was made with the sincerest good feeling. He alluded feelingly to his fifteen years of pastoral service to the Eliot church, and closed with a sincere wish for its future well being.

After the service the pastor's resignation was the one topic of conversation among the knots of worshippers who gathered in the vestibules. The universal verdict was that the letter was a sincere and manly one. It seemed to be the general verdict that the resignation would be accepted.

Dr. Calkins is regarded by his friends as one of the ablest ministers of the denomination in the state. Previous to his acceptance of the call to Eliot church he was in charge of large churches in Buffalo and Hartford. He is an able writer, and is a frequent contributor to various religious periodicals. He is a vigorous preacher, and is considered one of the most thorough Biblical scholars in the denomination. His salary of $5000 is the largest paid to any Newton minister.

There has been some dissatisfaction in Eliot church, although prominent members of the church deny that the pastor's resignation is due to this cause.

It has been the opinion of some that a change in the pastorate was desirable. Last spring an open rupture in the society seemed imminent. Several prominent members of the church expressed themselves as strongly opposed to the continuance of Dr. Calkins's pastorate, and a schism in the church was openly talked of.

It was proposed to build a new church edifice and $50,000 was claimed to have been raised for this purpose. The matter finally was allowed to drop, however.

Last week the annual meeting of the church was held, and the financial statement showed that the church would enter upon the new year with a deficit in the treasury. This deficit was said to be due to the falling off in the receipts from pew rentals and taxes, which was caused by a decrease in the attendance.

While there are those in the church who are not satisfied with the preaching, there is a very large number who are strongly attached to Mr. Calkins, and by whom his resignation is received with regret. It is claimed that a majority of the members desire Dr. Calkins's pastorate to continue.

A prominent member of the church who was interviewed following the announcement of the resignation, said: "We have never really had any trouble in the society. We have some members who do not like Dr. Calkins's preaching, but that is all. Nothing but the most cordial feeling exists between our pastor and the members of the Eliot Society, and I, for one, regret deeply his resignation."

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

OF REV. DR. SHINN'S RECTORYSHIP OVER GRACE CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Shinn has completed twenty years of continuous service as Rector of Grace church. Last Sunday was his twentieth year, he beginning his ministry here on the first of January, 1875, and officiated publicly for the first time at the regular services held Sunday, January 3 of that year. He was called to this place from Troy, New York, where he had spent nearly five years.

On last Sunday morning, instead of the regular sermon he made an informal address, suggested by this unusually long rectoryship. His name stands number 31 on the list of clergymen of the Episcopal church in this state, over 200 others having acquired residence here since his settlement. In Sunday's address he spoke of two things that threatened at one time to make any rectoryship a short one, viz, the great burden of debt under which the parish formerly struggled and the great division of sentiment upon ecclesiastical questions.

But the debt has long since been paid and people have learned that the church is wide enough to include all shades of opinion upon non-ecclesiastical points, and that it is possible to live in harmony and peace even while not thinking just alike. He paid tribute to the memory of the many who had passed away to Paradise from active work and spoke gratefully of the courtesy and kindness that had been shown by all. The changes of twenty years had been many. He spoke of children whom he had prepared for Confirmation, now bringing their children to be baptized and instructed for Confirmation. Reference was made to the important part Grace church had had in helping to build up other parishes in Newton and beyond. Today, Newton is one of the largest centers of the Episcopal church in the Diocese. The important help given by former members of the parish of Grace church to the parishes to which they have removed was mentioned. It was said that, with rare exceptions, did any one leaving here, leave his religion behind him, but carried it to his new home and put it into practice so that this parish has been a kind of training school of workers for the building up of other parishes. A picture was drawn of the pleasant times that radiated from here to many places near and distant bringing comfort and cheer.

The objection was here answered that a congregation might be pressed too hard for money and work. The speaker claimed that giving was part of worship and work was part of religion, and that as long as he was rector he intended keeping this before them. There were several suggestions made. One was that the seating space was now nearly all occupied and as the parish wanted every body in Newton to feel welcome here, the edifice should be enlarged by removing the west wall and adding 250 more seats, making accommodations for nearly 1000 in all. Another was that an assistant minister be employed, because the work was not too large for any one man. The third was the construction of a Rectory adjoining the church, as it would be a convenience for the congregation as well as for the Rector. Towards the close of the address he referred to a vision of the future recounted in a sermon of his, 15 years ago, in which he spoke of hoping to live long enough to see the church free from debt, new parishes established in the neighborhood and various other things done for the good of the community. The vision has been more than realized, except as to the rectory, and so he could look forward with confidence to the future and see a united congregation seeking to imitate Christ in His life and death.

The church was well filled and Dr. Shinn had the close attention of his listeners throughout his address.

Afflicted With Rheumatism.

Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Lebanon, Conn., says: "I was afflicted with rheumatism in my back all last winter. It was so severe at times that I could not stand up straight, it was down over on one side. I tried different remedies without receiving any relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days, according to directions, my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. I have since recommended it to others and know they have benefited by its use. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls, and J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Mr. Robert Threlatt slipped on the ice Tuesday, and was quite severely injured.

—Mr. Paul Jasmine has accepted a position in Lowell, New York, and has left for that place.

—The bowling alleys are doing well and the patronage is increasing. They are open to the public every evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. P. Shinn of Eliot street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter.

—About 200 Bostonians visited the Bridge, Saturday, and skated on the river as far as Dedham.

—Mr. Frank Proctor has disposed of his business here and moved to South Framingham.

—At the recent supper of the Quinobequin Association, Mr. Whitney gave a very interesting talk on his tour around the world.

—Mrs. Georgianna Jasmine and family will soon leave for Whitehall, New York, where they will join Mr. Jasmine, who is in business there.

—Two Wellesley young men, who were skating on the river one day last week, left their horse and sleigh on the bank. The animal became frightened and ran away, completely demolishing the vehicle.

—The Quinobequin Association held its monthly supper in the Hall on High street, Wednesday evening. A large number were present and the affair was a great success. Much credit is due Mr. A. A. Smith, who provided an excellent supper.

—Services were held in the Baptist church, Sunday morning and evening, and Sunday school in the afternoon. It is sincerely hoped that enough energy will be raised to continue these meetings, and that the church will not be closed for the winter.

—Mr. W. O. Fuller, Jr., of the Rockland, Me., Tribune, will deliver his lecture on "Banking in Kansas; How I Found It, and How It Left Me," in Lincoln Hall, Newton Highlands, Wednesday evening, Jan. 16. Mr. Fuller's lecture is a combination of good sound sense, and irresistible humor, given in a way that is irresistible, putting his listeners in a happy mood at once, and keeping them there the entire evening.

As a public speaker, Mr. Fuller is quite as much of a success as he is in his editorial capacity. The lecture is a dispiriter of the blues, and an inspiration to the best impulses.

—Rev. Mr. Whitman will preach in the Baptist church next Sunday.

—There are letters in the postoffice for Edward Byrne and William Smith.

—Mr. S. F. Cate announces that for the greater convenience of his patrons in Upper Falls, he has arranged with John W. Howe of High street, to receive all orders for his services both day and night. Orders will be transmitted with all possible dispatch.

—John R. Mulvey, a 16-year old boy, residing in Brookline, had a narrow escape from drowning on the Charles river, just above Newton Upper Falls, Monday afternoon. Young Mulvey, with a companion, attempted to cross the river on the ice. They had gone but a short distance from shore when the ice, a ready weakened by the rain, gave away. Mulvey fell into the water, but his companion, who was nearer shore, remained on firm ice. He succeeded in reaching Mulvey with a long pole and towing him to the firm surface.

—Mr. J. A. Scriven, a prominent manufacturer of 18 East 15th St., New York City, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy from Druggist H. R. Lane, Peekskill, N. Y. Such good results followed its use that he sent back to Mr. Lane for two bottles more of the same remedy. Those who give this medicine a trial are seldom satisfied with any other when again in need of such a preparation. It is unequalled for coughs and colds. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls, and J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

NONANTUM.

—Mr. J. B. Murphy is making extensive repairs to his house on Chandler street.

—A member of the Peary Arctic expedition gave a very interesting lecture before the Nonantum club, Friday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones of California street mourn the loss of an infant daughter.

—The Sons of Temperance installed officers Wednesday night. Mr. William Brooks was presiding officer and Mr. Geo. Bishop, secretary.

—Monday night the police found a horse and pug on Dalby street, which afterwards proved to be the property of a sewing machine agent in Dedham.

—Contractor Joseph Nevins is building for Mr. Fuller of Brighton a large block on California street. When completed, it will be the largest of its kind here.

—Dr. John Bemis, the owner of a number of estates here, died in Cambridge, Sunday, and was buried Tuesday. He was well known here.

—James Shedd was arrested Saturday night for disturbing the peace. It was afterwards ascertained that he was a drunkard and Judge Kennedy sent him to Worcester.

—The French colony is considering the advisability of building a church here and having a French Catholic priest in charge. There are about seven hundred families here and a large amount has been raised.

—A horse owned by James Sheridan of Adams street, ran away Saturday night. He started from Watertown and dashed up California street, but was captured in front of Mr. Geo. Hudson's store, before any damage was done.

—The call members of Hose Eight, Capt. Washburn of Hose Five and Capt. Horgan of Steamer One, were shown over the Nonantum Worst Company's mill Tuesday afternoon by Treasurer Hall, to familiarize them with the location of the stand-pipes and out-lets.

—A resident in Newtonville ordered an expression of this place to bring a barrel of beer from Boston to his home. The expressman did so and the resident tapped it. It proved sour and the expressman was ordered to take it back. He called for it and took it to his home intending to take it to Boston. The next morning about 4 a. m., some young men stole the barrel and rolled it down Watertown street to the home of one of the members. The expressman was notified and swore out a warrant for their arrest. In court, Wednesday, their case was continued until Friday. This is not the first time a like act has been perpetrated.

—Carlton Cornwell, former of the Gazette, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a grand remedy; I can recommend it to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough, with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. ## Christmas at the Hospital.

Christmas of '94 was perhaps the brightest and cheeriest that has even been spent at Newton Hospital. Each succeeding year the good people of Newton are becoming more and more interested in the good work and are surely keeping pace with the great world of hospital life, and many were the kindly hearts and extended hands that came forward this Christmas to cheer and brighten the weary hearts and wan faces of the poor sufferers.

Large donations of greenery and holly were sent in to decorate the wards and rooms. The "Kind's Daughters" of Lower Falls had kindly offered to decorate the Leeson ward, and notwithstanding the gloom that had fallen upon their members owing to the sad death of their president, hearts were brave, and arms were strong and the good work was carried on, and when completed presented a charming appearance, and they must indeed have been rewarded by the appreciation of the inmates. The male ward was most tastefully decorated by the nurses with a wreath of garlands and holly, also the private rooms and maternity ward, nor indeed were the contagious wards forgotten.

Christmas eve was a busy and happy day, from early morn till late at night, gifts of all kinds came pouring in, and the expectant faces of the patients and the busy, happy nurses presented a scene that would have gladdened the hearts of the most confirmed dyspeptic. Early on Christmas morning, before the work of the day began, the nurses all assembled in the corridors and sang Christmas carols with much heartiness and good will, at the conclusion of which the matron appeared on the scene, wishing each of her nurses a "Merry Christmas" in her usual charming manner. Then all adjourned to the dining room to breakfast, and here a happy scene took place; each one found on her plate a dainty gift from the matron, and a beautiful jar of jam was presented by the head nurse to the nurses for the home. The matron was the recipient of a beautiful out glass vase, the gift of the nurses and the head nurse a pretty silver hand mirror, with her monogram engraved on the back.

Peace and good will, indeed, reigned supreme, from senior nurse down to the probationer of two days who, too, could even smile through her tears, but this happy hour had to be brought to a close and away hurried the bright faces to their different wards, carrying the pretty gifts that had been sent in, warm slippers, pretty handkerchiefs, bottles of cologne, stockings and many other useful comforts to those whom sickness had debilitated from spending Christmas in their own homes and with their own kindred. Indeed there were little traces of sadness amongst them, on that day all hearts were gladdened and the warmest face had a smile, and Freddie, the child of the hospital, was loaded with good things, and the tense eager face drew many a smile from the older and more subdued.

At noon a table was spread in each ward which fairly glowed beneath the good cheer and lovely flowers; oyster soups, roast turkey and ice cream were served in abundance, and could the kindly donors have looked in upon the happy faces which were gathered around the board, they would most surely have experienced in their hearts that it is indeed "more blessed to give than to receive." It was a scene to be long remembered, the rows of spotless white beds, the dark polished floor, the profusion of greenery and bright holly, quantities of roses, carnations, maiden hair ferns and tall, stately lilies, the beautifully laid dinner tables, the pretty uniforms of the nurses dainty and swiftly moving to and fro, was something good and tasteful for the eye to dwell upon.

During the afternoon a quartet of gentlemen were so kind as to come and sing in the different wards and it would be impossible to express the delight and pleasure they gave to all who heard them. Their voices were unusually fine and sympathetic, and their repertoire was especially well chosen. "Oh who will o'er the Downs," "The Soldier's Farewell," "Jack and Jill" were well rendered, and many others. It was a great pleasure to all and to lovers of music "as water to the thirsty soul."

All friends of the patients were welcomed during the afternoon and all availed themselves of the opportunity. As the shades of evening closed in all were unanimous in their expressions of gratitude to those who were instrumental in making the day such a happy one, especially the matron whose kindness and generosity were unbending, and all retired for the night tired and happy.

Nor were the nurses forgotten by these kind donors, very pretty cards were sent to all and a large box of Buxley's candy, and it is said, piano is the gift of the Trustees to the Nurses Home, which will be a great source of pleasure and fill a long felt want. We cannot expect too much at once, but we hope the time is not far distant when people will recognize the necessity of nurses having a certain amount of recreation in their life. Would that they could know the strained and tense condition their nerves get into after a long day of anxiety with every energy bent upon easing the sufferings of their patients, and the absolute necessity for recreation.

Many plans for improvement are proposed for the coming year, and we trust, be more than realized, and though we cannot expect that there will be the same familiar faces among our sisterhood next Christmas, yet though scattered in distant fields of labor, the ranks we trust, will be filled with brave, true women who will not be satisfied with mere dilettantism in the work, but who will only find rest in self-abnegation. X.

It is an interesting thing to see how habitually, in this world, excellence in one respect is balanced by inferiority in another; how needful it is, if you desire to form a fair judgment, to take men for better, for worse. Pitt said of Lord Nelson, that the great Admiral was no greater a fool than he ever knew on shore. A less wise man than Pitt judging Nelson on shore, would have hurried to the conclusion that Nelson was a fool everywhere and altogether. And Nelson himself showed his wisdom, when informed of what Pitt had said. "Quite true," said Nelson, "but I should soon prove Pitt a fool if I had him on board a ship."—A Country Parson.

"Trust those who have tried." Catarrh caused hoarseness and difficulty in speaking. I also to a great extent lost hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm hoarseness has been cured, and hearing has greatly improved. J. W. Davidson, Att'y at Law, Monmouth, Ill. I used Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh and have received great benefit. I believe it safe and certain cure. Very pleasant to take.—Wm. Frazer, Rochester, N. Y. Price of Cream Balm is fifty cents.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON MUSEUM—Ware and Woolf's new opera, "Westward Ho!" is now running successfully at the Museum. From first to last it is bright, clean and attractive. The affairs of the town of Merivick, which is under the rule of the gentle and kind, are conducted in a most original manner, and one of the most fetching features of the whole opera is the group of pretty women in semi-masculine attire. Mr. Woolf is a past master in the line of comic opera music, and his numbers call for commendation. His score from beginning to end sparkles with musical ideas. The members of the company are deserving of warm praise. Annie Lewis has a role in which she shines most conspicuously. She gives an original dance in the second set, the music having been specially written for her by Mr. Woolf. It is one of the bits of the performance. New verses have also been written for her song, "If I Were You," in which some local topics have been introduced.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—There has not been such a brilliant first night in Boston for some time as that witnessed at the Castle Square Theatre last Monday evening, on the occasion of the first production of the new comic opera, "The Dragon's Daughter," by the Louise Beaudet Opera Bouffe Company, which has already found such favor in presenting at this same house another comic opera. The theatre was packed from pit to dome with an enthusiastic audience. The standing room only sign was displayed early in the evening. Miss Beaudet, as never seen to better advantage, and achieved a marked success in her leading role which she made lively and fascinating. Both she and Miss Ricci received floral favors in addition to frequent applause. Miss Jennie Reiff-far appeared to great advantage. Mr. Jay Taylor, the tenor, received such an ovation as to cause the tenors of the company to receive Mr. Wolfe, as the comedian, added to his excellent laugh provoking characterization as the old Baron some exceptional vocal work, while Harry Brown as the second comedian made a most amusing deaf old cavalier. In pursuance of his liberal policy in that direction, the management has staged the opera finely in costumes and scenery. Altogether it is a beautiful production, bright and funny and the music of popular vein. "The Dragon's Daughter" will be seen but one week more at the Castle Square Theatre, commencing Jan. 14th.

BOSTON THEATRE—The second week of "Shore Acres," the last but one of this precious New England idyl, at the Boston Theatre has proven even more successful than the first. Crowded audiences have been the rule, and the enthusiasm at every performance is overwhelming. No one who has seen this wonderful play so thoroughly unconventional, so sweet and so poetic in every detail, and who realizes the high moral lesson it conveys, wonders at its ever-increasing popularity. Theatrical people who remember what popularity has been achieved by Joseph Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle," and Denham Thompson in "The Old Homestead," are predicting a similar success for James A. Herne in his marvellous creation of "Shore Acres." "Rush City," Gus Heege's latest and best farce comedy which follows "Shore Acres" at the Boston Theatre, opens for a week's engagement there on Monday evening, Jan. 21. Wilson Barrett, the famous London actor, author and manager, who made a pronounced hit with Bostonians last season, will play a return engagement at the Boston Theatre beginning Monday evening, Jan. 28.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—The first week of "The New Woman" at the Columbia Theatre has proven eminently successful and it will be continued for one more week. Each performance of "The New Woman" has been thoroughly enjoyed by the managers who have listened to Mr. Grundy's wit and sparkling satire with interest and have been aroused with enthusiasm over the remarkably clever work of Mr. A. M. Palmer's home company who form the cast. The return of Miss Annie Russell to the stage has been a matter of gratification to all who remember her before her illness as one of the cleverest actresses in America, and it is pleasant to learn that in "The New Woman" she has shown evidence of greater power and artistic ability than ever before. Mr. Wilton Lackaye, Mrs. D. P. Bowers, Miss Virginia Harrod, Mr. E. M. Bond and Mr. C. J. Richmond are all excellent in their respective roles. The advance sale for the coming week, which will be the last of "The New Woman," indicates how widespread is the interest.

CADET THEATRICALS—The progress made during the last two weeks in the new piece, "Excelsior Jr." which the First Corps of Cadets will produce at the Tremont Theatre during the week beginning March 18th next, has been such as to promise a most satisfactory and considered entertainment. The advances made are due in great part to the fact that the dramatic company of the Corps has had the advantage of the personal direction of Messrs. R. A. Barnett, the librettist, Geo. L. Tracy, the composer, and William Seymour, the well known Manager of the Boston Museum and Tremont Theatre, who have attended all the recent rehearsals and will continue to do so until the play is produced. The scene of "Excelsior, Jr." is laid in Switzerland at the present time, which has furnished rare opportunities to the costume and scenic artist. Both costumes and scenery are now well under way.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE—The engagement of Walter Sanford's Stock company that was established by that enterprising manager for his New York City and Brooklyn Theatres solely, by Manager Atkinson of the Bowdoin Square Theatre, shows great enterprise on the part of the local management. This company makes its first appearance in Boston on Jan. 14, and will be seen in a grand production of Frank Harvey's celebrated realistic melodrama "The Wages of Sin." Miss Victory Bateman will be seen in the interesting character of Ruth Hope, Miss Annie Barclay as Juliana Blaggs, Miss Lottie Williams as Rosa Deane, Miss Ellen Summers as Barbara Dalrymple, Harry Mainhall as George Bland, Bridget Palmont as Stephen Marler, Cressida Chas. B. Welles, Edward J. Heron, Charles Nevins, Edgar Forrest and William Morton, will all have strong parts, while the scenic accessories have nearly all been newly painted.

PARK THEATRE—"A Black Sheep" has been running at the Park Theatre for a month, but it skips along as blithely as when it made its debut in Boston, and its gamblers, from present indications, promise to continue with unabated gaiety for a long time to come. Hoyt's latest play has made an unquestioned success in Boston, and is nightly enjoyed by audiences that leave little room for late comers. The unflinching spirit of Otis Harlan, the vivacity and vocal ability of Bettina Gerard, the quiet humor of William de Vere, the satirical skill of Misses Moore and Wells, the cleverness, indeed, of the entire company, would achieve popularity for a piece much less meritorious than this production. Mr. Hoyt promises something new in the way of a sensational drama, "The Man Without a Country," which longer had not the contracts previously made given the time to other attractions. After its season at the Grand Opera House this attraction will be returned to New York where it is destined to run at the Columbia Theatre. The company presenting this piece is a remarkably strong one, composed of players of national reputation, and includes Chas. B. Harford, Jr., F. McManis, Mrs. Cyril Norman, Miss Anna Laughlin, James W. Harkins, Jr., the author of the piece, Henry Hancock, Henry Stockbridge, T. B. Dunne, Herbert Prior, Miss Marie Orin, and Miss Josie Bacon. The engagement will be for a single week with the usual Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday matinees, and will be followed by Ward & Vokes who make their Boston debut in their new play, "A Run on the Bank."

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—The third and last week of Julia Marlowe's engagement at the Hollis Street begins January 14, and will be signalled by the production of one play entirely new to Boston, while others in which Julia Marlowe has already achieved marked success will be presented. The new play is entitled "Colombe's Birthday," and is a drama by Robert Browning's poetical drama of that name, Miss Rose Eyttinge of the Marlowe company has taken Mr. Browning's drama, adapted it to the stage and condensed it to one act with admirable skill. It will have two representations throughout the week with the following repertory will follow: Monday, "Pygmalion and Galatea" and "Colombe's Birthday;" Tuesday and Wednesday, "The Love Chase;" Thursday and Friday, a triple bill consisting of "Rogues and Vagabonds," "Chatterton and Colombe's Birthday;" Saturday matinee, "Pygmalion and Galatea" and "Rogues and Vagabonds," while Saturday night will be devoted to "Ingomar."

When two men meet together who love truth, and discuss any difficult point with good nature and respect for each other's understandings, it always imparts a high degree of steadiness and certainty to our knowledge; or, what is nearly of equal value, and certainly of greater difficulty, it convinces us of our ignorance. It is an exercise grossly abused by those who have recourse to it, and is very apt to degenerate into a habit of perpetual contradiction, which is the most tiresome and most disgusting in the catalogue of all imbecilities. It is an exercise which timid men dread, from which irritable men ought to abstain, but which, in my humble opinion, advances a man who is calm enough for it, and strong enough for it, far beyond any other method of employing the mind.—Sydney Smith.

THE PARIS COCHER.
A Queer and Pathetic Relic of the Gilded Days of Louis XV.

When Theophilus, you feel that you have been run over and abused by this hard, old, wicked world and would like to be an emperor for a few minutes to get even, come to Paris, my dear boy, and call to your side one of these whip snapping lords of the pavement, and for 1½ francs in shabby glory you can drive around the streets of the brilliant city and run over people like a king. It doesn't make any difference. The man has a number and a license to whip up his horse when he comes to a crowd. Take it all in, Theophilus, and lean back on your cushions as the women and children scatter before whip and hoofs and be sure to get your American money's worth of that delightful old medieval feeling of being in a beautiful carriage world where pedestrians are born with the right of being knocked down and the privilege of being fined for it.

The cab is the last touching symbol of royalty in France. It is the plaintive remnant of the old French constitution, which consisted—succinctly stated—in running over people and then having them guillotined for being in the way. Pay your cabman with reverence, Theophilus, in these bare and democratic times. He is the nation's reductio ad absurdum of Louis XV—pathetic, with the gilt rubbed off.—Independent.

The Draks of Borneo.
The ferocity of the Draks of Borneo when Rajah Brooks first came was appalling. No social or religious function could take place among the tribes without bloodshed. Young unmarried girls came forth from the long seclusion to which they had been condemned since childhood so amiable that they could hardly stand. A slave was killed in their honor and the blood of the victim sprinkled over them. Head hunting had decimated the race. It was imperative that husbands should conjure evil spirits by bringing a human head to their wives before the expected birth of a child. Boys might not aspire to manhood without having earned the badge of the head hunter.

A skull was the first gift of a lover to his mistress and the last token of respect by which the living could honor the dead. On account of his rank no petty chief could be buried without many freshly decapitated heads to form his escort into the next world. The greatest respect, moreover, was shown to such trophies. They were smoked over a fire to preserve them. Their lips were forced open to receive the choicest morsels during the family meal. Tobacco and betel nuts were also spread before them. They were looked upon as honored guests, and every effort was made to win their friendship.—Fortnightly Review.

—Mr. Geo. H. Ellis is making great progress with his ice harvest on Crystal Lake, and about half the surface has been denuded of its winter covering.
—The committee on entertainments at the Church of the Sacred Heart, has decided to hold the annual coffee party about Jan. 30th.

—Mr. James Vachon of Centre street, with his little daughter Priscilla, left here Wednesday for a pleasure trip to Quebec. He will take in the Montreal ice carnival ere his return.

—The L. L. P. C. is going to put a first class pool table in their club rooms, White's block, for members only. Those wishing to join should make application while the initiative is moderate.

—The final entertainment of the Kickapoo "medicine drives" was given before a crowded house in Associates' Hall, Monday evening. The program provided a medley of "Sagwa" and variety.
—The roof of the new library building on the "hill" was boarded in this week and the workmen are commencing the labor of fitting up the interior. The structure is decidedly attractive from an architectural standpoint.

—The long felt want of a dentist at Newton Centre is filled by Dr. Leach, who has engagements ahead for most of the time in the two days a week he is at his office here for this month and some booked for the month following.

—The evening meeting last Sunday in the Baptist church, was under the auspices of the Young People's Union. It was led by President Kendall. Several appropriate addresses were given and some excellent music provided.

—The electric current and the trolly furnished an elaborate pyrotechnic display here last Sunday evening. The ice on the wires furnished the incentive for quite startling and beautiful light effects, from a pale green to the more brilliant and richer hues.

—Miss Clement announces four musical coteries to be given for the last two Thursdays in January and February, at the Unitarian church parlors, between two o'clock and 11.30. She will be assisted at each recital by at least three other vocalists and instrumentalists, who are among the best amateur and professional musicians of Boston.

—Service at the Unitarian church, Jan. 12, morning service at 10.30. Sermon, "Christ and the Common People." Sunday school at 12. Evening at 7.30. Address on taking hold of life at the near end. Class for study of sociology, Tuesday, 7.45. "Condition of labor in ancient times." Class free to all.

—An illustrated musical lecture under the auspices of the Newton Centre Woman's Club will be given in Associates' Hall, Monday evening, Jan. 14, by Mrs. Charlotte W. Hawley, assisted by Shipp Brothers, famous English bell ringers. The entertainment is termed "Belfry Chimes," and is said to be novel and extremely interesting.

—Business and professional men here take great pleasure in bowling, and Bray's alley find many patrons. The income is over $200 monthly, giving some idea of the popularity of the sport. It is an attraction even for divinity students and clergymen, who regard it as a healthful form of exercise. Bowling may be truly said to be the most fascinating of all indoor winter pastimes.

—Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon of Willow street observed the twentieth anniversary of their marriage Monday evening. Many guests came to the celebration and the "happy couple" were the recipients of a number of useful and valuable presents. Dancing, a collation and the customary social festivities made the occasion one of enjoyment.

—The various meetings during the week of prayer have been largely attended. The first was held in the Congregational church Tuesday evening, with Rev. Dr. Montague as leader. At the Baptist church, Wednesday evening, Rev. Dr. Hughes led the service. Rev. Mr. Noyes led at the meeting in the Methodist church last night. On Monday and Friday evenings, services were held in each of the churches above named.

—Members of the Villagers' Club and their wives were pleasantly entertained Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Brooks at their home on Laurel street. Music, conversation, readings and refreshments gave a delightful variety to this first of the Ladies' Nights. The Villagers were organized about a year ago, and their club consists of twenty members, chosen from the younger married men residing in this place.

—The officers of Crystal Lake division, Sons of Temperance, were installed at its last meeting. The list follows: Thomas Miller, worthy patriarch; Alice McMullen, worthy associate; Alice Green, recording scribe; Della Smith, assistant recording scribe; John Forsyth, financial scribe; Lizzie Hugard, treasurer; Hester Ray, chaplain; Katie Foristall, conductor; Maggie McMullen, assistant conductor; Arthur Washburn, past worthy patriarch; Angus McDougall, inside sentinel; Fred Jones, outside sentinel.

—Miss Clement announces four musical coteries for the forenoons of the last two Thursdays in January and February, Jan. 24 and 31 and Feb. 7 and 14—in the Unitarian church parlors. Miss Clement will be assisted at each recital by other vocalists and instrumentalists numbered among the first class amateur and professional musicians of Boston. The patronesses are Mrs. E. B. Bowen, Mrs. D. B. Chaffin, Mrs. Chas. Everett, Mrs. D. B. Harding, Mrs. Fred Hartley, Mrs. Edw. F. Keeler, Mrs. Adelaide F. Leconte, Mrs. S. D. Loring, Mrs. Harry Mason, Miss Alice Morton, Mrs. F. T. Parks, Mrs. S. A. Shannon, Miss Constantia Smith, Mrs. S.

A. Sylvester, Mrs. Walter Webber and Miss Ella Willson.

—The weekly prayer meetings are largely attended.

—The two Spooner children, who have been ill with diphtheria, have nearly recovered. The Anti-Toxine treatment was applied with success.

—Mr. E. Moulton's store was entered on Monday night, first breaking a light of glass in a rear window and then unfastening the sash and getting in at the window. About three dollars in specie was taken.

—Mr. John Hyde, a brother of ex-Mayor J. F. C. Hyde, died in Boston last Friday morning. He was an old Boston resident and had been engaged in business there many years.

—Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Gilbert, who were lately married, now occupy a part of Mrs. Ward's double house lately vacated by Mr. H. N. Carter on Erie avenue. Mr. Gilbert is the superintendent of the Nelson Chemical Works at Upper Falls.

—Councilman Hutchinson fared well in the distribution of committees, getting some important ones. The south side appears to be in this year. The majority of the board of aldermen and common council both went to Newton Centre men.

—The people of the Highlands, and all others who may come, are to be treated to an entertainment of rare merit on Wednesday, Jan. 16, in the Congregational church. The lecture will give her popular lecture, rambles east and west with stereoscopic views, embracing "A Journey to the Yosemite Valley, Alaska, The Yellowstone Park and Europe."

—The sixth entertainment in the Highland Club course took place on Wednesday evening at Lincoln Hall and was a lecture by Mr. Francis Bellamy of this place. Subject, "How many angels can live on the point of a cambric needle." The lecture was of much merit and was listened to by a large and appreciative audience.

—The nominating committee of the Highland Club has posted the list of officers for the year 1895. It is as follows: President, W. H. Keating; vice-presidents, Charles F. Johnson, Francis Bellamy; secretary, Charles F. Kellogg; treasurer, C. S. Luitweiler; executive committee, Freedom Hutchinson, J. W. Scandlin, H. F. Provan; committee on addresses, Fred W. Madison (chairman), James Simpson, W. W. Martin, A. S. Wiley; auditing committee, Robert Levi, Thomas P. Curtis, W. C. Nickerson. The annual meeting occurs Saturday evening.

—In the Highland Club bowling tourney, last Friday evening, Team Three won from Team Five. On Tuesday evening Team Two was defeated by Team Five. The scores were rather low:

—Mr. Ralph W. Angier of Waban park has been visiting friends in Weymouth.

—Miss Cutler of Montrose street is visiting friends in New York.

—Miss Butler of Wilkesbarre, Pa., is the guest of Miss Florence Jewell of Haverhill.

—Miss Janie Hobart of Sargent street, is visiting in Weymouth, Pa., and will not return until the 1st of March.

—Miss Wilder entertained the "L. M. C." at her home on Fairmont avenue, Tuesday of this week.

—Mr. E. H. Cutler and family intend moving into their new house on Linder terrace the latter part of this month.

—The skating on Strong's pond was very good early in the week and it was a popular place for skaters.

—Mr. Charles Holmes of Channing street has suffered a severe shock of apoplexy, and is now in a very critical condition.

—Dr. J. F. Frisbie, at the annual meeting of the Gynecological Society of Boston, was elected its president.

—Dr. T. E. Proctor, formerly of Hubbard & Procter, has been appointed on the staff of the Carney Hospital at South Boston.

—Wm. C. Bates read a paper upon "Creole Folk Lore of Jamaica," before the Boston Branch American Folk Lore Society this week.

—Quite a large delegation of boys will attend the Junior Department Conference at Chelsea, which began this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, and continues until tomorrow afternoon.

—The "Afternoon Whist" had its meeting at Miss Loring's, Wednesday afternoon. Dainty prizes were awarded to the two holding the highest scores, after which refreshments were served.

—It is understood that the hall to be given by the Newton Letter Carriers is to outline all others given by them. The music will be furnished by Parks' orchestra, and the tickets are just out.

—The engagement is announced of Mr. Frederick H. Hitchcock, formerly of this city but now of New York, to Miss Hunter, of Chicago. Mr. Hitchcock is with D. Appleton & Co. of New York city.

—The choir boys of Grace church had their annual dinner at the Woodland Park Hotel, Thursday evening, and enjoyed the use of the billiard tables, and the pool tables. It was an occasion of much pleasure for them.

—The Free Library reports an unusual demand for books since the new year began which is only partly due to the new rule, which allows every person to draw two books. Every one seems to have taken to reading with this new year.

—The funeral of Mrs. Adams, wife of Mr. F. D. Adams, master of the Boston & Albany Railroad, takes place this afternoon from her late residence on Church street. It will be attended by a large delegation of railroad men.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Bush were pleasantly surprised, Wednesday evening, by a visit from a young lady, daughter of Rebeckah, of West Newton, of which lodge Mrs. Bush is a member. Their visit was to commemorate the 21st anniversary of the wedding of the husband and herself, and they brought with them a very handsome banquet lamp. A fine supper was served and a very pleasant evening was passed, Mr. and Mrs. Bush being wished many happy returns of the day.

—Mr. Isaac M. Leonard, one of the oldest restaurant keepers of Boston, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William E. Graves, on Carlton street, yesterday morning. Mr. Leonard was born in Hubbardston in Oct. 1823. When 17 years of age he came to Boston and entered the employ of Peck, Corcoran & Son.

—Later he entered the employ of R. Marston & Co. on Brattle street, continuing but a short time. He leased a store on Congress Square where he opened a restaurant and conducted it successfully for 20 years. The building he occupied having been blown up to stop the progress of the great fire in November, 1872. In 1874 he resumed business at 413 Washington street where he remained for several years. He was a devoted husband, the wife of Dr. Kelley of Watertown, still failing health compelled him to discontinue business. He leaves two brothers and three daughters.

—Rev. Robert P. Staak, pastor of St. Patrick's church, Watertown, died at the Carney Hospital, Boston, yesterday morning. He was devoted to the development of a tumor on the spine. He had been in failing health several months. Father Staak was born in Newtowne, county Kerry, Ireland, about 46 years ago (where his father was a farmer). He was the son of a farmer. Early in life he began his preparation for the priesthood. He was educated at Allhallows College near Dublin, Ireland, and was ordained at Niagara University, this country, 23 years ago. His first parish mission was St. Patrick's church, Watertown. He began his duties 22 years ago last June as assistant to Rev. M. M. Green. In 1874 he became a separate pastor of St. Patrick's church, Watertown. From the day he began to direct the church all has been prosperity and peace among its members. His church has been a beautiful residence has been erected on Chestnut street; a cemetery, known as St. Patrick's cemetery, has been established; an elegant school house, costing $40,000 has been built, and at the time of his death he was laboring for a new edifice for his people to be located on Main street. He had also erected a handsome place of worship for the Catholic church in the east end of the town. Father Staak for many years served on the school committee, and at the time of his death he was a trustee of the Watertown Free Public Library, and a trustee of the Watertown Savings Bank. He was also spiritual director of the Young Men's Catholic Association. Besides his father a brother, Rev. Edward Staak, located in Minnesota. The wife of Dr. Kelley of Watertown, his physician, and a cousin, Miss Ella Staak, survive him.

—By mistake last Saturday afternoon, one of Albert Brackett's men put a load of coal into the cellar of C. A. Paine, No. 7 Avon place, intended for and ordered by Frank Hyde, his neighbor. When it was delivered by Mrs. Hyde and Mr. Paine were out so that there was no opportunity for making any explanations. On Monday the man who made the mistake came after the coal, but had been bumped by the woman. Mrs. Paine objected to its removal, but that did not deter the driver from proceeding to load up his cart. He secured the assistance of two other men and they obtained access to the cellar of the Paine house through the bulkhead. Mrs. Paine then went after an officer and came back with one ere long. In the meantime a quantity of coal had been removed, the driver says 1800 weight, leaving 200 weight (the balance of an even ton), as an offset for the blunder and whatever inconvenience or trouble it may have caused. Mr. Paine told his wife when he left home Monday morning not to permit the coal to be removed. He was willing, however, she says, to settle for it. It had been mixed up with his and, he thought, it was better to have it than to have the matter out in any other way. When he returned and found that a practical equivalent in quantity of coal had been removed, he was thoroughly angry on the ground that he had not been consulted. He was in regard to it. He also says that his wife was insulted by the driver. The upshot of the matter was the engaging of counsel by Mr. Paine and the fine point in the case is just how the driver decided what part of the coal he was entitled to remove. Robert W. Nason of the Boston law firm of Nason & Proctor will represent Mr. Paine in the case.

Afflicted With Rheumatism.

Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Lebanon, Conn., says: "I was afflicted with rheumatism in my back all last winter. It was so severe that I could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. I tried different remedies without receiving any relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days, according to directions, my rheumatism was gone and I was able to move about as usual. I have since recommended it to others and know they have been benefited by its use. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. —Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Haskell will introduce their daughter at an "At Home" on Thursday, Jan. 24, from 3 to 5 and 8 to 11 p. m., at their residence, Vista Hill.

—Mr. and Mrs. James Dilliver of Central street gave a whist party to their numerous friends Tuesday night. A most enjoyable evening was passed. Mrs. Walling captured ladies' first prize and Mr. Joseph Earle, gentlemen's first prize.

—Rev. Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Clark attended the banquet of the Royal Legion at the Hotel Thorndike, Wednesday evening, and Dr. Clark presented a brief glance of the work of the Christian Endeavor the world over, and said the work was prospering in all lands.

—Mrs. Susan Colton died suddenly Thursday afternoon at her home on Webster street. The funeral was held from the Church of the Messiah Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Rev. John Matteson conducted the services and a large number of relatives and friends were present. The deceased leaves a husband, four daughters and two sons.

—There are letters in the postoffice for Mrs. John H. Bates, Mrs. Edward E. Clark, Miss Mabel Clarke, Miss Deane Curley, Mrs. Herbert Pratt, Miss Jessie J. Macmillan, Miss M. J. Ryan, Mrs. E. E. Waller, Rev. W. D. E. Bliss, M. E. Caporanno, Mr. Wm. Layton, Mr. Richard Hage, Mr. James Stewart and Auburndale Watch Co.

—Dr. Whitten returned from New Haven last night, having been admitted to the sum of $5,000. The detective told him he would not be bailed, but there was no difficulty, and Dr. Whitten found a number of prominent New Haven gentlemen, waiting for him and ready to furnish bail for ten times the amount asked.

—On Wednesday afternoon and evening there was a very large gathering at the residence of Mrs. Charles R. Brown on Hancock street, of the friends of Miss Ellen Whittelsey, who came to offer their parting good wishes. She left for Toledo, Ohio, where she will remain for the present with her nephew.

—Monday night, Mr. Francis Blake gave a ball for his daughter, Agnes, at Pierce Hall in Boston. Mr. Blake and family live here the year round and at his cheery and hospitable home he has a perfectly appointed little theatre, a fine billiard room, green-house, and a splendidly equipped workshop, where he spends most of his daylight hours. The ball was a very smart affair, and attracted out of the "buds" and their elders as well.

—The Review Club observed Gentlemen's night, Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. H. R. Turner on Central street. It was a beethoven evening. Mrs. Marie W. Beethoven rendered Beethoven's Sonatas op. 26, in a truly pleasing style and the fifth symphony in C was given in an artistic manner by Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Turner. A collation was served in the dining room, and the departing guests took it one of the very pleasant occasions of the season.

—Zion's Herald says that the number of Methodist saints has been increasing quite rapidly of late at this "Saints' Rest." Prof. Olin Curtis of Boston University School of Theology, writes Dr. A. W. Higgins, of the School of Correspondence, Rev. Franklin Fisk and his estimable son-in-law, Mr. Wm. Herrick—these, with their families, and Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Geo. M. Steele, of West Newton, and Mr. Hodgkins, editor of the "Heathen Woman's Friend," Prof. Henry Sheldon and T. B. Lindsay of Boston University, constitute a religious and educational nucleus very helpful to this church.

Equal Rights.

Newtonville, Jan. 17, '95.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

A police officer left at my house a special notice, reading as follows: "The tenant or occupant, or any person having the care of a building or lot of land, bordering on a brick, stone or concrete sidewalk, on any street, place or way in Wards One, Two or Seven, shall within twenty-four hours after a fall of snow, cause such sidewalk to be cleared of snow." And the penalty for not doing this is, "A sum not exceeding twenty dollars, and a like sum for every succeeding day that the same shall continue."

Now it is a wellknown fact, that for more than twenty years the City of Newton has taken care of the sidewalks, clearing the snow after every storm, and still continues to do so in Wards Three, Four, Five and Six, but compels citizens of Wards One, Two and Seven to hire help to clear their walks, while four Wards of the City are exempt from this special class legislation. Is this right or just? The tax payers of three wards are paying for the other four that are exempt, while they are compelled to take care of their own. Will such laws stand in any court in this Commonwealth? I think not. What does our City Solicitor think of it? This is surely a special class legislation, making fish of one and fowl of another. Let it be revoked at once, and the city assume this work, as it has always done, and clear the walks at the expense of the whole city, not a part of it.

NEWTON CLUB MATTERS.

CALENDAR.

Saturday, Jan. 19, Gentlemen's Night, Smoke Talk.

Monday, Jan. 22, Ladies' Matinee, Mr. Horace E. Scudder.

The annual meeting of the Club was held last Saturday evening. Nearly 200 members were present. The report of the treasurer showed net profits from all departments of the club for the year to be $4575.74. The following officers were elected: Samuel L. Powers, president; W. S. Slocum, A. C. Walworth, Louis K. Hallow, Henry A. Priest, vice presidents; James W. French, treasurer; Wm. H. Coolidge, secretary; Harry L. Ayer, Lane B. Schofield, Charles W. Hamilton, George A. Taylor, Charles E. Kiley, executive committee; John A. Fenno, George S. Rose, W. F. Dearborn, committee on admission; C. W. Loring, auditing committee.

Notwithstanding the wintry weather a brilliant party of ladies assembled in the Newton Clubhouse yesterday afternoon for Drive Whist. The hall with its thirty-one tables presented such a homelike appearance, one lady remarked that a series of whist parties would be thoroughly enjoyable there. Mrs. French, Mrs. Follett, Mrs. Keller and Mrs. Lowell, the enterprising hostesses, have reason to be most grateful for the prompt and generous response from everyone invited to aid them in their work.

The Club extended its hospitality to wives and lady friends of members Wednesday evening. The occasion was the fifth in the series of fortnightly ladies' nights, and last evening's entertainment was one of the most successful in the series. Whist furnished the evening's amusement, and nearly 150 prominent society people from the various Newtons were present. Play commenced at 8 o'clock in the large assembly hall, where 35 tables were arranged, and continued until 10.30, when the company adjourned to the dining room, where a collation was served. After the material festivities, the prizes which were handsome water colors and etchings, were awarded as follows: Mrs. W. O. Delano, first; Mrs. W. J. Follett, second; Mrs. E. S. Merchant, third; Mrs. T. J. Marble, fourth; Mrs. B. B. Schofield, fifth; Mrs. B. F. Shattuck, sixth; Mrs. A. F. Brown, seventh.

Two matches in the Newton Club tournament were rolled Monday evening, team 15 defeating team 16 and team 9 defeating team 10.

ARRESTED ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

DR. GEORGE E. WHITTEN OF AUBURNDALE ACCUSED OF BEING AN ACCOMPLICE IN THE SCHLOSS, (NEW HAVEN), MURDER CASE—ONCE TRIED ON THE CHARGE AND ACQUITTED—PECULIAR LAWS OF CONNECTICUT PERMIT TAKING HIM AGAIN INTO CUSTODY—HIS WIFE TAKES—MANY PEOPLE BELIEVE IN HIS INNOCENCE.

Dr. George E. Whitten of Auburndale was arrested there Monday afternoon and was taken to New Haven in charge of Detective Leete. Dr. Whitten is arrested on a bench warrant issued by Judge Thayer of the Supreme Court, which accuses him of murder in the second degree for having been an accomplice with Dr. J. Edward Lee in causing the death of Margie Schloss in August, 1893, by a criminal operation.

The case has become famous in the state, it being the first attempt made on the part of the state to try a person for murder a second time, the accused having been acquitted by a justice court on the first trial. For this reason the case is attracting the attention of all members of the Connecticut bar. The requisition papers for Dr. Whitten were signed by Gov. Coffin at Middletown Saturday, and by Gov. Greenhalge of Massachusetts last evening.

When the case was first tried Dr. Lee and Dr. Whitten were charged jointly with murder in the second degree and were acquitted by Judge David Callahan of the city court. Dr. Whitten immediately left the city and settled in Auburndale, where he has since practiced his profession. Dr. Lee remained in New Haven, and a few months after his discharge was arrested a second time charged with the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Miller. He was tried and acquitted.

About two months ago Dr. Lee was again arrested. State Atty Doolittle having prosecuted with success an appeal before the Supreme Court, from the decision of Judge Callahan in the Schloss case. The grand jury considered the evidence, some of which was new, having come to light in the recent investigation of the police department, and found true bills against both Drs. Lee and Whitten.

When Dr. Lee was rearrested, a few weeks ago, on a bench warrant, a Boston newspaper obtained and printed an interview with Dr. Whitten, in which he quoted him as saying that it was a gross injustice to have caused the doctor to be arrested again, and also that the state would never convict him of the crime alleged, etc. If this were true, it would not be fair to simply have tried Dr. Lee.

As soon as a knowledge of the fact that the doctor was to be rearrested came to those who were interested in the case, the question arose as to whether it would not be necessary for the grand jury to consider the case. If this were so the trial of Dr. Whitten's case would go over to the next term, and Dr. Lee would have to stand trial alone. At the first trial Dr. Lee was aided very materially by the counsel which Dr. Whitten was able to employ. This was also true in regard to the experts, which were put on by the defense. It became known subsequently that the grand jury had had Dr. Whitten's case under advisement already, and the two doctors will be tried together.

Dr. George E. Whitten, accompanied by Detective Leete, left police headquarters, West Newton, at 1:55 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, en-route for New Haven, Ct.

The doctor's wife, an accomplished and beautiful woman, was with him up to the moment of his departure from the West Newton police station to the depot, where he took the train for Boston and from the latter city journeyed on to New Haven. The scene when the couple were separated came as heartrending. The doctor was nearly overcome and his wife sobbed bitterly.

Just as the party got under way for the depot, the doctor turned to address the representative of the Boston Herald. Looking at his guard of police officers he remarked, "I am afraid that there will be no opportunity now for an interview."

The officials evidently agreed with him. Detective Leete advised him to refrain from making statements for publication, and hurried him off to the depot. Mrs. Whitten thought that the public was entitled to the doctor's side of the story. "I am sure," said she, "that the greatest sympathy will be created for him when it is shown that he is an innocent and persecuted man."

"We have been settled in Auburndale," she continued, "only a few months. My husband was doing well, success seemed assured, and now they come here and arrest him on a crime of which he was adjudged innocent after an exhaustive trial of 16 days. They refuse to take bail and will subject him to the same fare and treatment that are meted out to common criminals. What law in any state except Connecticut would permit re-arresting a man on the charge of murder after he had been once tried on it and acquitted?"

"It is claimed that new evidence has been found. I am sure that it cannot be true. I am equally confident that my husband is being mercilessly persecuted. It is time that an investigation was made. The light should be turned on in this case. There is need of a Law in Connecticut. Why, this warrant on which he is re-arrested charges him with murder and with being a fugitive from justice. Dr. Whitten is certainly not a fugitive from justice. He came to Auburndale to reside after being honorably acquitted, to retrieve his fortunes. The expenses of the trial were very large but he hoped to make up his losses and was succeeding. He was thought highly of in Auburndale and was building up a good practice. He was hiding from no one. He was endeavoring to gain an honest livelihood."

"Very few people in New Haven believed he was guilty of the offence charged," she asserted. When he was acquitted the press almost with one accord said that no other result could have resulted."

"The facts in the Schloss case were briefly these: 'One night when Dr. Whitten was out, the Schloss girl, accompanied by two male companions, came to the house and asked to see Dr. Sayles, who had an office there. I went to the door and invited them to step in. Dr. Sayles was out at the time. My husband came in a few minutes after, and one of the men told him the girl was in trouble. He asked him if he would perform an operation, to which the doctor replied, 'Not for all the money in New Haven.' What can I do, then? said the fellow. 'Marry the girl,' answered the doctor; 'that's the only thing to do.'

"The man then pleaded that something be done to relieve the girl. She was very ill and suffering and needed medical aid at once. Dr. Whitten was unable to attend her. Dr. Lee finally saw her, but refused to perform an operation. He advised removing her to a hotel where she could be taken care of, as she was very ill. On account of the expense, against the advice of Dr. Lee, she was removed one severely cold night, and died before morning. She had been taking pills and powerful drugs before any physician was seen in regard to her condition. What Drs. Lee and Whitten did was simply what any reputable physician would do to relieve the sickness brought on by the baleful effects of remedies that she had resorted to, hoping to get out of her trouble."

"The New Haven News following the trial and acquittal of Drs. Lee and Whitten printed the following: 'Zeal is to be admired in bringing all phases of the case to the attention of the criminal operations of the character charged. Drs. Lee and Whitten's case presented nothing of the kind. The medical examiner's report showed that the girl's condition was due to the use of drastic purgatives. Dr. Whitten firmly refused to undertake an operation for any amount of money. He simply allowed an alarmingly sick woman to remain in his office according to the unwritten code of both medical and human ethics until by proper treatment the very imminent danger of her condition might be assuaged.'

A great deal of sympathy is felt for Dr. Whitten by his Newton friends. Although only a brief resident of this city, he is quite popular. His wife comes from an excellent family and is much liked by the Newton society set.

Dr. Whitten is a prominent Mason and local members of the order are interested in his case, believing that he is a much persecuted and innocent man. He is 34 years of age. He graduated from Dartmouth College, took post graduate course at Harvard Medical school and New York Polytechnic. He also took special courses in obstetrics in New York. The doctor's home in Auburndale was fitted up at considerable expense and his wife is deprived of means of support while he is deprived of his liberty. Her brief married life has been full of trouble on account of the Schloss case, although the relation of the couple have been very pleasant. The wife is earnestly devoted to her husband's interests, believes him to be innocent and is working zealously in his behalf. Her faith and trust have enlisted many warm supporters for her in the hour of her sorrow and trial.

Waltham's New Wrinkle.
Waltham has a new wrinkle in the temperance line, says the Boston Herald.

It hasn't developed far enough yet to cause any disturbance of the body politic, but if the plans of the promoters are ever carried out—and it is more than possible they may be; it is quite likely to cause a stir, not only in the City of Watches, but outside as well.

The Waltham system contemplates in full the placing of the entire liquor business of the city in the hands of reputable men, who will conduct it on the highest possible plane.

Just what method will be adopted in forming an organization cannot now be stated, but one which has been suggested purposes that several wealthy men shall form a corporation, not to enter the rum business directly—for a corporation could secure but a single license—but a corporation which will provide the men; and what is more essential, sometimes, the money. If the license commission can legally grant 16 or 17 licenses in the city, the corporation will be ready with that number of applicants for licenses—all honest, reputable citizens.

It is not proposed to open any gorgeous drinking places, with plate glass mirrors and other accessories. Instead, it is proposed to have the bar-rooms such in name and, perhaps, the name itself would be eliminated. There would be no bars, and the places would be simply stores, stocked with liquors. They would be located as far as possible on public thoroughfares, well-lighted, and open to public view. It isn't intended that they shall be social drinking resorts.

The Merchants' Association.
[Boston Herald.]

The Merchants' Association has made a wise choice in selecting Hon. Joseph R. Leeson as its president. Mr. Leeson is a man who can be trusted, in either political or business life, to fill with credit to himself and the cause he represents any responsible position. He is a man of great business acumen, and is also broad and progressive in the views that he takes of public questions, while he has that cultivated intelligence which prevents him from being misled by what is simply superficial and plausible. Mr. Leeson's term as member of the Governor's council ended a few days ago, the service performed by him there having been so generally acceptable that it will only be his personal disinclination to accept further preferments that will take him out of the list of those for whom high political honors are yet in store. As the head of the Merchants' Association he can be counted upon to give earnest and intelligent support to any measure that is calculated to benefit the city of Boston.

GRAPHOPHONE AND HELLO GIRL.
FIRST RESULTS OF BEING CALLED DOWN BY AN AUTOMATON—TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS THOUGHT THEY WERE THE VICTIMS OF A SAUCY AND UNOBLIGING OPERATOR—SOME EXPLANATION TO THROW LIGHT ON THE CIRCULAR ANNOUNCEMENTS WHICH ACCOMPANIED THE LAST ISSUE OF SUBSCRIBERS' BOOKS.

The graphophone wasn't very well known a week ago when it tried to do business with the public, and the subscribers of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company did not take kindly to a stranger who would only condescend to make one reply to all the questions they might ask. So they reported to the manager of the company and the graphophone is temporarily, at least, out of its job.

Telephone subscribers will know it better after a while, however. Those who have taken the trouble to read the bright red announcement slip sent out with the new call books know something about it already.

The announcement reads: "Arrangements have been made by which the use of the graphophone will be adopted as a means of informing subscribers when stations which they have called are found to be in use. By the use of this automatic device we hope to improve the service. The phrase ordinarily used will be: 'Graphophone says the line is busy; please call again.'"

The telephone company, after proving that the graphophone could be used for this purpose, put it into operation last week, but there were so many complaints from people who thought the operators were becoming impudent that it was decided to stick to the old style until the graphophone had become better known as an assistant to the telephone girls.

It will, however, be used to answer when lines are busy, in about a week or so.

The method by which the graphophone will be made to answer telephone subscribers is very simple, and will save a good deal of time, beside leaving no doubt in the mind of the subscriber in regard to the fact that the station he wants is busy.

The graphophone instead of being charged with a long story or a popular song, such as you hear when you drop a nickel in the slot, will, instead, be charged with an endless repetition of "Graphophone is busy; please call again." It will have a tube leading to a transmitter into which it will talk, and to this will be attached, after the usual circuit and battery, graphophone jacks for each operator, so that on finding that a line is busy, instead of telling the subscriber so, the operator will put in the graphophone jack, just as she would put in the jack of the line the subscriber wants to talk over if it were not busy.

The graphophone, therefore, does the work that the operator would have to do, and leaves her free to attend to somebody else.

The graphophone is connected long enough to allow it to make its announcement two or three times, after which it is pulled out, allowing the subscriber to call up again.

The new arrangement will probably be a sad blow to young people, and some old ones, too, who like to get up a conversation with the sweet-voiced telephone girl when she cannot call up the persons they wanted originally.

MAXIMUS.

I hold him great who, for love's sake,
Can give, with generous, earnest will,
Yet he who takes for love's sweet sake
I think I hold more generous still.
I bow before the noble mind
That freely some great wrong forgives,
Yet nobler is the one forgiven
Who bears that burden well and lives.
It may be hard to gain and still
To keep a lowly, steadfast heart,
Yet he who loves his to fill
A harder and a truer part.
Glorious it is to wear the crown
Of a deserved and pure success,
He who knows how to fall has won
A crown whose luster is not less.
Great may he be who can command
And rule with just and tender sway,
Yet is diviner wisdom taught
Better by him who can obey.
Blessed are they who die for God,
And earn the martyr's crown of light,
Yet he who lives for God may be A greater conqueror in his sight.
—Adelaide Procter.

A NEGLECTED WONDER.

The Spanish Escorial a Marvelous Specimen of Ancient Architecture.

The Escorial, the palace of the Spanish king, an architectural marvel, formerly described as the "eighth wonder of the world," is now seldom spoken of, even by those who are ready to go wild over much less pretentious structures. The cornerstone of this "Spanish St. Peter's" was laid by Philip II in 1563, but it was 302 years (1865) before the monstrous building was pronounced finished. It was built by Philip in fulfillment of a vow to "erect the finest monastery in the world" should his forces be successful in their great battle with the French. That battle was fought at St. Quentin on Aug. 10, 1557, St. Lawrence day, and in order to honor that saint as well as to fulfill his vow the king had the foundation of his great memorial laid off in the shape of a gridiron, the implement of torture upon which the goodly Lawrence is reputed to have suffered martyrdom.

To those who have never visited the Escorial the size of the gigantic structure is beyond comprehension. It is 740 feet from north to south and 580½ feet from east to west, the square towers at each corner rising to a height of over 200 feet. Within this monstrous building is the king's palace, a cathedral, a monastery of 200 cells, two colleges, three chapter houses, three library buildings, five large halls, six dormitories, three hospitals and over 3,000 other rooms. In order to make St. Lawrence's gridiron complete, the building is built in quadrangular form, with 17 rows or ranges of monstrous stone structures crossing each other at right angles, these forming the gridiron's ribs, the handle being a wing 470 feet in length. The church, which is a part of this vast pile of masonry, is 364 feet long, 230 feet wide, with a dome 330 feet in height. It is estimated that the building cost $50,000,000.—St. Louis Republic.

Catching Shrimp in the South.

The Charleston gourmet is now joyously feasting daily on our own little dish, the shrimp. There is hardly a family in the city that does not have this dainty little crustacean served for breakfast in some shape or form. When the dark shades of night drop over the harbor, the hardy shrimp men man their little canoes, and with their cast nets neatly arranged and ready to be thrown they make for the long, dark shores of marsh where their prey makes its feeding grounds. They have to wait silently and patiently on the edges of the marsh until a certain time of the tide, when out come the shrimp in millions, and out fly the heavy nets, and the work commences.

The oarsmen pull or punt or paddle along the shore, and the man with the net keeps his eyes and ears open for the ripple and sound of the sportive shrimp. As the shrimp moves through the water he is a beautiful sight. The most beautiful colors shine from his long body, and his fan shaped tail stirs the phosphorescence and leaves behind him a subdued trail of fire.

When the usual quantity is caught and the turning of the tide takes the shrimp to other spots, the shrimpers pull for the wharves to sell their spoil. Long before daybreak the vendors, men and women, are on hand with their trays to get their morning's supply for their numerous customers. The number of these vendors can be safely put at 300.—Charleston News and Courier.

Addison's Characteristics.

Addison is the very embodiment of that delightful gift of humor on which we pride ourselves so much as a special English quality. That in its way his style is the perfection of English style is less clear and delightful to us than that what it conveys is the perfection of feeling. His art is the antipodes of that satirical art which allows human excellences only to gird at it and insinuate motives which diminish or destroy. Addison, on the other hand, allows imperfections which his interpretation turns into something sweeter than virtue and throws a delightful gleam of love and laughter upon the eccentricities and characteristic follies of individual nature. That he sees everything is one of the conditions of his genial forgiveness of all that is not mean or base or cruel. With these he makes no terms.—Mrs. M. O. W. Oliphant in Century.

Paper Water Pipes.

The making of water pipes out of paper pulp is receiving much attention and is said to be successful, even in the crude manner in which all first attempts are undertaken. They are said to be as durable as iron, and the process of molding them is about the same in both cases.—Hardware.

The 1893 wine product of the state of California was equal to a little more than one quart for each man, woman and child in the United States.

Offspring born of mothers under 20 years old do not have as good chance of healthy life as those born of mothers over 30.

OF REMEMBRANCE.

I do remember every note
And each sweet letter that she wrote
From where, after the palm blest sales
Are lovelier for her splendid smiles.
I do remember even the flower
She sent me in a lonely hour.
And sometimes, when my lonely soul
Heareth in dark God's thunders roll,
I wonder—her sweet worshiper—
If God's dark storms break over her.
And if they do I know my breast
Would bear them all to give her rest.
But, no; the fragrant orange blossoms
Waft through her life their sweet perfumes;
And the tall ships, with wind blown sails,
Bring to her songs of nightingales.
Yet, do they still, where'er they be,
Sing to her one last song of me!
—Exchange.

THE WHITE HORSE.

"This canyon ought to have a history, Pablo," I said to the guide as, supper finished, I leaned back on my blankets and dreamily gazed at the scene before us.

It was a summer night—a night in the southwest, where nights are perfect. The moon was at the full, and not a cloud was in the sky to obscure her radiance or the light of the myriad stars which bore her company. The air was cool and bracing, yet balmy, and there was just enough breeze to lull one's spirits and cause him to forget the world and indulge in fanciful reveries such as only southern breezes inspire.

We had pitched our camp on one of the sloping hills on the south side of the canyon, where a little stream of clear, sweet water rippled from a spring in a ravine down into the canyon below. Above us was the sighing, odorous forest of juniper and pinon. Below was a little stretch of velvety grass extending clear to the floor of the canyon on both sides of the little stream. Right and left stretched the canyon itself, its walls, precipitous for the most part, rising grandly hundreds of feet high on each side.

"It is beautiful, Pablo," I continued. "It must have a history of some kind or a story—no?"

"Si, senor, that it has—aye, that it has," answered the Mexican, lighting a fresh cigarette and puffing at it reflectively a moment. "Would the senor hear it?"

"By all means, Pablo. Go ahead." And here is Pablo's story as nearly as I can translate it, for he spoke in Spanish:

"Does the senor see the cliff on the other side, how high it is? That is the cliff of the White Horse. It is many hundred feet high and straight up and down. And at the top when the moon is a little higher the senor will see the white horse. It is a great white rock on the edge of the cliff, and by clear moonlight it looks like a white horse. It has not always been there, and now, they say, on the anniversaries of a certain day the ghost of old Don Fernando comes and rides it along the edge of the canyon."

"Don Fernando? Oh, aye. May the blessed saints have mercy upon him!" ejaculated Pablo, crossing himself.

"Many years ago Don Fernando Cortez—he was a grandson or something of the great Cortez—lived over above beyond the canyon several miles. Don Fernando was rich and lived in a grand house and had many servants and slaves. He was a great entertainer, was Don Fernando, and people used to come many miles—hundreds, thousands, yes, to his grand dinners and balls."

"He was not a good man. No. He was a cruel master and hard with all his people and made them all hate him. He was kind to only two living creatures. One of these was his beautiful daughter, the Lady Ysabel; the other was his great white stallion, the largest and fleetest horse in all the country. These two the old don loved as his two eyes, and well he might. Yes. The Lady Ysabel was not only beautiful, but she was kind and good, and all the people loved her as much as they hated the don, which was a great deal. She had golden hair and eyes like the sky, and it is said the birds listened when she sang. And the horse—aye, he was wonderful. He was as big as three ordinary horses, and his tread shook the ground. He had a long, white mane and eyes that flashed fire and was almost as much feared as the old don, who alone dared go near him."

"The Lady Ysabel had many suitors. The wealthiest and most aristocratic men in all the country came to sue for her hand, many of them from faroff California, and some, it is said, came even from Spain. But the Lady Ysabel would have none of them. She loved her pony and her dogs and birds and her people, but a man, no. One after another came, but she turned them all away. So after a few years the old don became tired of what he called her foolishness and swore she should marry, and at once, a man whom he had selected for her."

"This grieved the Lady Ysabel very much, for not only did she not love any of those who had offered themselves to her, but her heart was already given—given to one of her father's peons, a young man named Jose, whom she had helped to nurse through a terrible illness. Him she used to meet by stealth nearly every night unknown to any but themselves. But one night when the Lady Ysabel's wedding day was near at hand she and her lover were seen together, and the story came to the ears of the old don."

"He started to find them, swearing to kill them both, but they had been warned and had taken two of the fleetest horses in the stables and fled. With mad haste the don saddled his white stallion and pursued them. They had taken their way over the hills blindly, but some instinct led the don to follow the direction they had taken, and in a short time he had them in sight riding over the plateau beyond the canyon there."

"When the lovers saw they were pursued, they put their jaded horses to their highest speed, hoping to escape, but soon they found it was too late, and as the old don, with terrible curses, pressed them closely they leaped to the ground, ran to the edge of the cliff, and clasped in each other's arms sprang into eternity together.

"And the don? For days he raved like a madman and seemed to know no one. Then he became quieter, and they thought he would be himself again. But one moonlight night they missed him, and several set out to seek him. He was riding up and down the edge of the cliff yonder, raving and blaspheming terribly, and none of those who had come to find him dared approach. For hours he raved. Then, just as the moon came from behind a cloud, they saw him ride back from the cliff a little distance. Then he wheeled sharply and shouting, 'Now, my friend, both together!' he rode full speed at the precipice. But at the edge the white stallion halted suddenly, and the don went over alone. In midair he shook his fist and hurled a curse at the friend who had deserted him at the last minute, and then and there the great white stallion turned to stone. There he stands, senor—you can see him plainly now—still looking over the precipice. It is from him that the cliff and the canyon get their name."

"And it is said by the superstitious, senor," continued Pablo, drawing closer to the fire and shuddering slightly that on the anniversary of old Don Fernando's death and on Lady Ysabel's saint's day the ghosts of Lady Ysabel and Jose ride forth on the plateau, and that of the old don pursues them riding the white stallion, which leaves its station at such times. And—oh, senor, for the love of God, look!"

Startled, I looked quickly across the canyon. The rock which appeared so very little like a white horse seemed to vanish as though in mist. Then there was a series of blood curdling shrieks and curses, and flying along the edge of the cliff rode three persons on horseback, and one, behind the others, rode a great white horse.

It was only a moment, and then the drunken cowboys passed out of sight, and the tiny flock of vapor which had for those few seconds kept the moonlight from the white horse rock moved on, leaving the rock standing out in the clear light, just as before. Still shivering with the sudden fright I had had, I turned to Pablo. He had fallen in a fit and was lying rigid, with flecks of foam on his lips. I brought him round soon, and he sat up, his eyes staring wildly.

"Well, Pablo," I said in as steady a voice as I could command, "you must have had a dream. You've been plunging around and yelling for a full five minutes."

"What, senor? A dream? Then it was not?"

"I think it was the bread, Pablo. You ate a big supper, and that hot sour bread would kill an Indian."

Pablo concluded not to run away, as he might have done if I hadn't been able to convince him it was only a dream.—R. L. Ketchum in Romance.

A Terrible Shock.

Mrs. Bangleton was reading of a street car accident in Chicago to her husband.

"The cars ran together," she said, "and Miss Wabash, who was standing in the aisle, was thrown from her feet and—"

"Gee whiz," exclaimed her husband, "those cars must have been going a hundred miles an hour!"—Detroit Free Press.

The folly of prejudice is frequently shown by people who prefer to suffer for years rather than try an advertised remedy. The millions who have no such notions, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla for blood-diseases, and are cured. So much for common sense.

A STRANGE BENEFACITOR.

Remarkable Story of How a Man Helped Relieve Suffering in Hundreds of Homes.

(From the Brooklyn, N. Y., Standard-Union.)

There is a curious character in Blissville, the southern extreme of Long Island City, who is known to everybody. A kindly old man, as "the doctor," although his advice has always been gratuitous and he has but one remedy.

Joseph J. Myers, "the doctor," is the proprietor of the Homestead Hotel, where a Standard Union reporter found him last night.

"What is the secret of my remedy?" he smilingly observed, in response to a question. "There is no secret. Neither am I a doctor; and there hasn't been one in my house for almost a quarter of a century. My doctor stands up there on the safe in the form of Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, and under no circumstances would I allow myself to be without a bottle."

"I was once afflicted by ulcerated sore throat, and my position became so critical that three physicians, who had been called in consultation, gently broke the yarn to me that my days were numbered. An application of Pain-Killer was suggested. I tried it. A week later I was back at my work."

"A few weeks afterwards a neighbor's wife was suffering from the same affliction. I sent a bottle to her, and in a few days she came to my house to thank me for having saved her life."

"My oldest boy, last winter, was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I applied Pain-Killer and drove every vestige of the malady out of his system."

"My two boys were brought through a siege of diphtheria, at a time when the disease was widespread, and the Pain-Killer's success with them induced me to send a dozen bottles to neighbors whose children were also prostrated. In every instance it effected a cure. That's why they call me 'Doctor' in Blissville."

THE CHARLES RIVER DAM.

Judging from the report of the harbor and land commissioners the Charles river is not to be dammed, and they decline to report in favor of the recommendation of the joint board of health and the Metropolitan park commission. The reason for such a course is summed up
as follows:

Moreover the board is powerless to say, on the imperfect information it has,
what effect a dam as proposed would have on shoaling in the upper harbor.
We might, however, record the opinion that nobody knows what the effect would be. Upon a careful consideration of the testimony presented, and of all the evidence within the knowledge of the board,
we are unable to find the consequences of building the proposed dam as at all certain of being foreseen; and in view of the incalculable injury which might ensue from impairing the usefulness of the harbor, we are unable to report in favor of the recommendations contained in the report of the joint board.

This apparently settles the matter, as far as the dam in the lower part of the river is concerned, whether rightly or wrongly is a question that will probably be warmly discussed.

But it does not effect the original plan presented by Newton, of building a dam either at Faneuil or Cottage Farm, and so improving the upper part of the river.
This will not effect those citizens of Beacon street, who run their sewers into the river and whose arguments and objections apparently had great weight with the commissioners. Above Cottage Farm the banks of the river are higher,
and there would be no danger of any difficulties from high water, the precious Back Bay fens and the drainage of that section would not be effected, and therefore no one would dream of any damage
by "the shoaling of the upper harbor"
or from any other mysterious and recondite causes, which would in all probability never materialize.

From Cottage Farm and above, the banks could be improved and what is now an uninviting section could be made into one of the most attractive spots in the world. This is the plan first favored by Newton and its carrying out need not involve any enormous expense. If the other cities and towns along the river would unite with Newton, this great improvement could be carried through,
and a proper beginning, at least, made,
and the river become a great attraction,
instead of a nuisance as it is now, from the Waterloo bridge down, every time that the tide goes out, and leaves so much foul-smelling mud exposed.

The ordinance requiring the sidewalks to be cleaned from ice and snow in Wards One, Two and Seven is receiving some criticism and some objections are being made by property owners, who do not like the trouble of attending to the matter after every snow storm. Some appear to have forgotten that it passed in response to petitions from residents in the wards mentioned, who had endured the discomforts of wading through "sloppy" sidewalks until forbearance had ceased to be a virtue. The other wards were excepted from the ordinance because of the many objections made by some of their residents, who were large property owners, and also, it is said, by reason of the influence of the makers of rubber boots and overshoes, who feared to lose custom if Newton had clean sidewalks. Seriously, we do not hear anyone complaining because the walks are kept too clean, and some parts of Newton are a disgrace to any civilized community.
Nothing is done save what is done by the city ploughs, and it is impossible for pedestrians to avoid wet feet. The Improvement Societies about the city could not do a better work than to arouse some more enlightened public spirit on this question, even if it is a delicate one to handle, for fear of hitting the horns of some of the prominent members. It is always the work that is nearest at hand that is the hardest to get done, but we hope the time will come when every one will keep their walks clean without any ordinance being required. Every one favors the ordinance as far as it affects his neighbors, and that is one point in its favor, but many think the city should do the whole work, and put the cost in the tax levy.

The special election for senator of the second Middlesex district, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Hon.
Oliver Shaw, will be held on Tuesday,
Feb. 26, Watertown's most prominent candidate is A. L. Richards of the Metropolitan Park Commission. There should be no unfair attempt to get the office away from Watertown and take advantage of its sad bereavement, but Watertown should understand clearly that the whole district is looking on and is ready to take advantage of any dissension, and that it will not be wise to indulge in any faction quarrels. There are many men in the district who are well qualified to fill the position, in case Watertown can not unite, and Newton has several men who would do honor to the office. It is hardly worth while to name them, however, until Watertown comes to some decision.

THE use of slates and slate-pencils in the Newton schools is to be discontinued,
it is said, in the interests of the health of the pupils, and the change is to be commended. It is bad enough when these articles are used only by one person, but when they circulate among fifty or more there is every chance of communicating disease, and both Boston and Cambridge have pronounced against their use. The expense of the change should not stand in the way when the health of the pupils is in question, and the nerves of the teachers, at least, will be greatly relieved by the change. Slates and slate-pencils are a relic of the old country schoolhouse and ought to have been abolished long ago.

THE Waltham Methodists hope to secure enough money to save their building, but they are having a difficult time.
Fortunately generous people from outside are coming to their assistance and a generous Watertown citizen, Thomas P.
Smith, has given $500, and other subscriptions are coming in, so that the church may succeed in retaining its home.
The trouble is mainly due to the hard times which have interfered with the income of the people. Waltham hopes to raise $10,000 and some help has been promised from Boston.

MAYOR Curtis of Boston seems to have been much surprised and pleased the people by the excellence of his appointments to office, and he promises to make one of the best mayors Boston has had. There is so much interest now in municipal reforms that all acts of high municipal officers are carefully watched and people are disposed to be very critical, so that the general commendation of Mayor Curtis is the more to his credit.

THE task of pleasing every one by committee appointments is by no means easy, but the Common Council seems to be unusually dissatisfied, this year, with President Parker's appointments. But there is one consolation for those left out from the important places, they can sit down and enjoy themselves, while the more fortunate appointees have to do the work.

THE old school building on Thornton street is thought to be unfit for occupation by parents. It is one of the old ramshackle structures that should be promptly replaced by a building up to the modern idea in sanitation and ventilation.

Newton Savings Bank.

The annual meeting of the Newton
Savings Bank, Tuesday p. m., 15th inst.,
was called to order by President James F. C. Hyde. The customary dividend of 2 per cent. for the six months was declared and all the old trustees and officials were re-elected.

The bank shows deposits of $2,485,- 072 due to 9,079 depositors, an increase during the year in deposits of over $210,- 000. The following statements show the condition of the bank now as compared with last year:

Business Men and Politics.

[Springfield Republican.]

Business men feel that they have a right to expect better things of a lot of intelligent, not to say picked, men than party politics, fighting for special interests and refusal to put the country's needs above all other considerations. They feel that they are defrauded of what they had a right to expect when they see the Republican minority in House and Senate hanging back, acting as obstructionists, and doing what they can to prevent the Democratic solving of the currency problem. They have a right to expect of every senator and representative that in times like these, when the country's need is so imperative, they should at least try to be statesmen and patriots, and devote all their strength to finding a way out of the present dilemma, without regard to what suggests the way, whether he be Democrat or Republican, or whether one party or the other be in the majority, and so technically responsible for legislation. They have a right to expect that senators and representatives should keep in mind the fact that they are, under their oaths of office, servants, not of private interests, or of special enterprises, nor even of the party whose candidates they were, but of the whole country, whose welfare
they are bound to make their chief concern.
Finally the business men have a right to expect that such a problem as this of the currency will be separated from partisanship, from self-interest and prejudice, and studied and attacked solely with the purpose of solving it as the business of the country demands.

This is what business men have a right to expect of Congress—but it is not what they do expect. Hard experience and the daily performances at Washington have taught them not to indulge in such dreams
as this.

MONEY MAKING.

The Quickest Way to Pick Up Wealth in This Business Era.

The reason of the modern differences in favor of business as an instrument of money making is not far to seek. It is the enormous growth in the scale of everything in which business can be done.
The enterprise of a merchant, of a contractor, of a mine dealer, even of a shopkeeper, may now cover the whole world and may be carried on, moreover, mainly upon credit. It may be doubted whether, except in those transactions which are called "financial," and which really mean the taking of heavy bribes for pecuniary support, any one transaction ever yields quite as much as the same transactions would have yielded 60 years ago; whether, for example, any cargo ever produces for ton an equal margin of profit, or whether any customer in a shop pays quite so heavy a percentage on the goods he buys.

It is the magnitude and multiplication of cargoes which yield fortunes, the thousands instead of hundreds of customers whom clever dealers may induce to spend money. The new system of rapid turnover is, of course, precisely the same thing—the dealer selling four times what he did and using only the same capital. This advantage of scale is almost entirely wanting to the professional man, for the obvious reason that he is hampered by limitations of time.

There are only 600 minutes in a hard worked day, and the seeker after income, be he as able as he may or as decided or as rapid, must give some of those minutes to each client or patient
or contractor with a difficulty to meet.
If he does not, he loses custom, and with custom income rapidly slips away.
There are no doubt favorite lawyers,
doctors and even engineers whose advice is sought at great expense, when equally good advice is procurable much cheaper, but still the favorites must give their advice and lose their days in doing
it, or they will speedily be deserted.

Nothing can alter this first law, while the exaggeration of professional fees is kept down in the case of solicitors by positive statute, in that of doctors by an etiquette difficult to define or explain—
there seems to be no reason why a great physician should not charge according to skill—and in that of barristers and engineers, by a competition, which, though never acknowledged, is none the less real and effective. We can not see what is to alter this condition of affairs, and do not believe that, however civilization may develop itself, professional skill will ever again be the quickest road to large accumulations.—London Spectator.

MME. ALBANI.

An Incident in Which Patti Answered a Remark About Her.

To a writer in The Woman at Home
Mme. Albani has been giving some details of her life. "My voice is a certain amount of care to me," she said. "You think that it always sounds fresh and clear?" Well, I watch over it and never allow it to become tired if I can help it.
On the days I am engaged to sing at the opera I do not talk above a whisper for many hours beforehand, besides which I believe in careful diet. Tea I forbid myself. Bordeaux I find excellent. And sometimes, between the acts of an opera,
I take, through a straw, a cup of bouillon made in the French way, which I find very restorative."

Mme. Albani could sing any tune sung to her long before she could speak.
"My sister," she added, "will tell you that she distinctly remembers my first soprano note—a real note, long sustained. We were playing together in our cot-age in the early morning before the household were astir, and, baby though she too, was, she has not forgotten the effect made upon her. At 8 years old I actually entered the musical profession. Ah, do not laugh! It is true. I made a little "tournee" of some months' duration and was much petted and spoiled wherever I went. Then a few years later I was sent to be educated at a convent and engaged to take the soprano solo at a mass."

There is a good—and a true—story of how one day Adelina Patti, when walking down Regent street one morning with her first husband, the Marquis de Caux, stopped at the windows of the stereoscopic company. There were shown, side by side, photographs of herself and the debutante, Mme. Emma Albani. Patti stood close to the window and was unnoticed by a young man lounging in the background. "Look,"
he exclaimed in a loud and jubilant voice, "at that photograph of Albani.
She's the new prima donna, and everybody is raving over her. Patti will be nowhere very soon. That's one thing certain!" And Patti, turning round suddenly upon the speaker, made him a swift little courtesy. "Thank you, sir,"
she exclaimed, her eyes sparkling with mischief. The man was rooted to the spot with amazement. Patti stopped just an instant to enjoy the effect she had created and then tripped off laughing through the crowd on her way homeward.

Appetizers.

Pickled olives are a tonic for the nerves, as is celery. While the latter is an excellent digester and should be supplied in crisp, tender pieces to those whose digestion is faulty, yet everywhere it is an excellent appetizer.
Among other healthful appetizers water cresses are in the very front rank. All greens are antiscorbutic, but water cresses are especially valuable for this reason.—New York Dispatch.

A genius has arrived at the conclusion that a gold coin passes from one to another 2,000,000,000 times before the stamp or impression upon it becomes obliterated by friction.

The battle of Barmet was one of the most decisive ever fought. It was in 1471 and closed the age of baron rule in England.

FIRES IN JAPAN.

But For Open Spaces the Japanese Cities
Would Burn Up.

One of the quaintest sights in Japan is a fire. Hundreds of houses are often burned in the space of a few hours, and little or nothing can be done to stop the progress of the flames, especially on a windy day. If you except the roof, which is made of tiles, Japanese houses are built entirely of straw wood, bamboo and paper. In the poorer districts houses are packed close together, and therefore if one happens to catch fire sometimes the whole street is burned down with incredible rapidity, and the fire only stops at some open space where it cannot possibly spread further. It is not unusual in Tokyo or some of the larger towns to hear of a thousand or even more houses having been destroyed in an afternoon or during the night.

No one is more afraid of fires than the Japanese, and high ladders are posted at short intervals all over the towns and in all the larger villages, on the top of which ladders a watchman sits all night
and in case of fire rings a large bell hanging from the top. If rung at long intervals, the fire is distant, and one need not worry oneself about turning out of one's boudoirs. If rung a little quicker, the fire is not far, but there need be no apprehension. But if the bell is vigorously and quickly tolled then you may as well say goodbye to your house, because in perhaps a few minutes
it will be reduced to a mass of ashes.

The Japanese are wonderful at turning out at all hours of the night, even for going to look at a fire, and men, women and children in the coldest nights
in winter think nothing of walking five or six miles to go and look at a big blaze. If the fire happens to be near, the excitement increases in proportion to the probability of one's house being burned down. You see people half scared and screaming, getting water wherever they can in pails, wash basins, tubs or anything they can lay hold of and throwing it all over the woodwork so as to diminish the chances of its catching fire.
Then as the fire draws nearer, and the only water available has already been consumed, the process of saving what one can is put into practice. The amido, or wooden shutters, and the shojis, paper walls, are quickly taken down and brought into a safe place; the mats are lifted out of their places, and with the few articles of furniture are quickly removed. So that when the fire comes it only destroys the wooden frame of the house and the roof. That is all. It is seldom that life is lost in these fires, except sometimes when children or old people are unable to move, and once surrounded by flames they cannot be reached and often perish.—Tokyo Letter.

THE CONFIDENTIAL PAPER.

The Briton Complains, Praises and Scolds
in His Daily Journal.

The newspaper is a member of the family in England and regularly comes to breakfast with the other members.
The London Times is a kind of oldest son among newspapers, and Punch the jolly bachelor uncle, who makes occasional visits. Englishmen take their newspapers into their confidence and have a half way of writing to them on all sorts of subjects. If an Englishman rows down the Thames and stops for luncheon at an inn and is overcharged,
he writes to his newspaper, just as a little boy runs in to complain to his mamma of the rough treatment of his playmates, and later on the first letter is followed by others, in which the comparative merits and cost of light luncheons on the continent, in Seringapatam,
in Kamchatka and everywhere else where Englishmen have eaten and drunk—and where have they not done
these?—is discussed as fond. If horses stumble and fall in Rotten row, there are letters on the subject which go into the matter of roadbuilding, modern horsemanship and the like, with quotations from Virgil and anecdotes of accidents that happened half a century ago.
Not only the more serious weekly, but also the daily newspapers, give one the impression that they feel themselves to some extent responsible for the contemporary auditing of the accounts of the day of judgment. On the other hand, the better class of English newspapers
do not indulge in rash suppositions, hasty generalizations, uncertain guesses
at probable future happenings and the daily exploitation of the personal affairs of notorious nobodies. And one may be permitted to say diffidently that perhaps this is preferable. If Mr. Balfour, for example, were to go abroad for a holiday, it would be considered vulgar to chronicle his doings and dinings and absolutely brutal and boorish to write particulars of the dress and behavior of his sister, or his wife, if he had one.
The sense of fair play of a nation of sportsmen does not permit an editor to torment even his enemy from behind a woman's petticoats.—Price Collier in Forum.

A gentleman of the court of Pepin had a wonderful pair of breeches that cost $700. They were embroidered with gold, and all the figures were traced with chains of small pearls.

NEWTONVILLE.

—Mir plann, Farley, Newto
—G. J. Horner of Los Angeles, Cal., is in town this week visiting friends.

—Miss Lucy Crain of Newtonville, who has been quite ill, is recovering.

—George Goddard, 12 years of age, fell while skating here Tuesday and broke both bones of his left leg.

—A Newton Club Whist Tournament, Harry V. Jones and Richard F. West, in a play of 24 hands duplicate whist, beat Dr. Perkins and Fisher Ames 10 points.

—The Rev. Louis G. Hoeck will deliver the last of the series of lectures in the Highland Avenue church, Sunday evening next at 7.45. Subject, "The Soul."

—Bowling at the Newton club has taken a new lease of life since the division of the team into classes. There has been some good matches and good scores.

—Mrs. A. Fred Brown gave a pink and white dinner on Friday evening in honor of Miss Tremaine. Covers were laid for twelve. Mrs. Brown and Miss Tremaine receive on Tuesdays.

—Miss Marion Rees of Elizabeth, N. J., is here visiting relatives. After a short stay she leaves for Baltimore, where she will teach in one of the fashionable schools for young women.

—The reception of the class of '95, N. H. S., will probably take place in the gymnasium, on the evening of March 8. With this, the athletic meet February 22, and the mid-winter drill some time in March, the scholars will have their hands pretty full.

—Residents are puzzling their brain to unravel a matter perplexing. They are unable to understand what connection there can possibly be between Cape Cod News and Newtonville.

—City Solicitor Slocum is mentioned for the senatorial nomination in the second district provided Watertown fails to unite on a candidate. He has many warm supporters throughout the district.

—Professor George of the N. H. S., has just brought out a very handsome edition of Daniel Webster's "Banker's Hill" oration, which, with preface and notes, makes it valuable. It is dedicated to Edward J. Goodwin, the author's friend and associate.

—The music at the Universalist church, Sunday morning, will be as follows:

Soprano, tenor and baritone, G. W. Marston
"The Lord is King."
Alto solo and quartet, "I'm a Pilgrim, I'm a Stranger."
Alto solo and quartet, "Let the words of my mouth."

—The four young ladies from Boston, who assisted Miss Curtis in the entertainment, Jan. 10, at the Universalist church, spent the night with Miss Curtis, who entertained them most delightfully. It was indeed a treat and pleasure to the young ladies, who were away from home during their school term.

—Residents of Ward Two were surprised this week upon receiving notices from the city marshal that sidewalk cleaning had been cleared of snow within 24 hours of its fall. Few people were aware that the ordinance had been extended to take in this section of the city and some will protest.

—At the regular meeting of the Newtonville Women's Club, which was held in the parlors of the Methodist church, Tuesday afternoon, an address was delivered by Mrs. Louise F. Clarke of Wellesley College. She spoke in an interesting vein on "The Highway and Byways of England and Scotland."

—District Deputy Wilcox of Lowell, publicly installed the officers of Mt. Ida council, R. A., Monday evening. There was a collation and entertainment at the conclusion of the ceremonies. The following were the officers: W. J. Wilcox, president; J. J. Tracey, secretary; and a number of others.

—At the Methodist Episcopal church, the pastor, Rev. Franklin Hamilton, will preach both morning and evening. Morning topic, "The Anesthetic Christian." Evening topic, "A Lesson from the Suicide of Cashier Abbott." In the evening there will be a special musical service. All seats free. All are welcome. The evening service will close the special services held during the past two weeks.

—Dr. Mary Florence Taft, formerly of Waterbury, Conn., has recently moved to Newtonville and opened an office at her residence, 19 Austin street. Dr. Taft graduated with honors from the Boston University School of Medicine in 1886 and was house surgeon in the Massachusetts Homoeopathic Hospital the year following her graduation. She gave up her position in Waterbury, Conn., in the fall of 1892 to accept a professorship in the Hering Medical College of Chicago and in which position she has been in active practice during the past two years.

—A most successful entertainment followed the usual monthly supper at the Universalist church, Thursday, Jan. 10th. An exhibition of physical culture in Greek costume was given by five young ladies from the Emerson College of Oratory. The young ladies were charming in their work, which delighted the large audience present, and Miss Alice Atwood did good work as accompanist. Miss Alice Baldwin of the College rendered, "Traver's First Hunt" and "A Boy's Story" in a way that showed talent and practise. Both received enthusiastic applause and all of Miss Baldwin responded with pleasing encores. The supper under the charge of the Lent a Hand should also be well spoken of.

—"Sir, we would see Jesus." These words were used by certain men of Greece, who were seeking for Christ, and were the topic of Mr. Priest's sermon at the Universalist church last Sunday morning. In many ways the speaker showed the need of following Christ. There is a mistaken idea I find among men that Jesus was weak and effeminate. This has come largely from the pictures that have been given to the world, showing apparently a man unable to face the rough ways of this earthly life and giving the Master the appearance of a woman. They are all wrong, for Christ was a man bold and fearless. His coming was at a time when Palestine was corrupt and degraded from one end to the other. All around was full of wickedness, yet he kept himself unspotted and fearlessly denounced the ways of life by which he was surrounded. The Roman soldiers fell down on their faces before him when he faced them in the Garden, as he turned towards them in the full majesty of his presence. Men have tried so long to entangle Jesus in the words of creeds, that the full meaning of his life has been lost. When we cease to fence in the Master and make men sign this paper or that one, Jesus of Nazareth will be true to the world, and not used for some selfish end. Already can be seen the awakening of the people to this idea, and while the name Jesus was applauded at the great mass meeting addresses by Burns in New York, had that of the church been used instead, it would have been hissed. Never was there a time when so much work was being done in the name of Jesus. In closing, Mr. Priest, in most graphic language, described the great military camp at South Framingham and the grand review before the Governor. As the splendid bodies of men passed in review, with bands playing and colors waving, it was a grand sight and filled me with enthusiasm, and I watched the grand pageant, but after all these had passed and the batteries with resplendent guns and equipments, the cavalry in fine array, came a little body of men. They carried no guns. Around their arms was a band of white on which was emblazoned the Red Cross of Christ and humanity. Then all the great parade was forgotten and I only thought of

The rooms were prettily decorated with bouquets of cut flowers sent in honor of the occasion.

Lassell Notes.

On Thursday evening, Rev. H. G. Spaulding gave in the chapel, an enjoyable lecture on Classical Mythology, illustrating it by live stereoscopic views of the masterpieces of Greek art; with occasional representations of celebrated Pompeian wall-paintings.

On Monday evening, Mr. Bragdon, with several of the students, attended the concert at the People's Temple, the attraction on his occasion being the noed violinist and vocalist, Miss Mand Rowell, and a fine stringed quartet.

Full use has been made of the excellent opportunities for sleighing which the past week has offered, and a considerable number of the girls have enjoyed a drive on the snowy roads.

Mr. J. A. Scriven, a prominent manufacturer of 18 East 15th St., New York City, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy from Druggist H. H. Lane, Peabody, N. Y. Such good results followed its use that he sent back to Mr. Lane for two bottles more of the same remedy. Those who give this medicine a trial are seldom satisfied with any other when again in need of such a preparation. It is unequalled for coughs and colds. For sales by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburndale; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls, and J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

Transmigration.

(From the De rest Tribune.)

Once upon a time some wheat unadulterated in the wind.

"You are not as dear as you were once," remarked the wind.

"O," rejoined the wheat, "I can still command a dollar a bushel, but I have to make a hog of myself to do it."

This is the teaching, among other things, that diversified farming is the thing, after all.

MAKING TURPENTINE

AN EXTENSIVE INDUSTRY IN CERTAIN SOUTHERN STATES.

How the Trees are Tapped and the Resinous Gum Gathered—Departments and Divisions in the Work All Under the Keen Eye of the "Rider."

Dialect writers find a fruitful field among the "Tar Heels" of the Carolinas, Alabama and Georgia. In the cool depths of the turpentine woods, with the gashed trees yielding up their resinous gum, the balmy air and the picturesque "hackers," "dippers" and "scrapers," with the ever vigilant "rider" watching everything, is a phase in southern life which has long been the delight of authors and the pleasure of artists. The crudity of the implements and the stills used in making turpentine and resin lend additional interest to this old industry, and the gypsylike habits of the turpentine makers add to their ragged, illiterate charms.

Turpentine is the distilled gum of the pine trees of North and South Carolina, Alabama and Georgia. In the cool depths of the turpentine woods, with the gashed trees yielding up their resinous gum, the balmy air and the picturesque "hackers," "dippers" and "scrapers," with the ever vigilant "rider" watching everything, is a phase in southern life which has long been the delight of authors and the pleasure of artists. The crudity of the implements and the stills used in making turpentine and resin lend additional interest to this old industry, and the gypsylike habits of the turpentine makers add to their ragged, illiterate charms.

The first boxes are cut near the roots of the tree, and they are cut as close together to the height of a man's head as can be done without killing the pine. The hacker leaves a width of bark between each box so as to preserve the vitality of the tree. When the trees are leased to the turpentine makers, the terms of the lease limit the number of boxes to each tree, but when it is desired to work the pine to the fullest extent the gashes are carried up to a height of 20 feet or more.

After the hacker comes the man who "corners" the boxes. This "corner" is a cut in the top of the box to guide the sap into the cavities left for the gum, and the man who "works" the "crop" goes systematically from box to box, starting the sap anew with fresh incisions, working in this way 10,000 boxes during the season. The sap or gum fills the boxes with a clear, sticky, thick fluid, and this is removed by the "dipper." Scattered through the woods are barrels in which the "dipper" deposits the gum, which is then hauled to the still. About a quart of sap is taken from each box by means of the trowel shaped scoop used by the dipper, and then the hacker comes along and starts the flow afresh by wounding the tree again. The turpentine maker watches his men closely, for the Tar Heels are an easy going people and require to be urged by the "rider," who goes through the woods on horseback examining the crop, hurrying the dippers and hackers and sending the barreled gum to the still.

The first or "virgin" sap which flows in the spring makes the best resin, and the poorest is the product of the hardened gum which is left on the sides of the boxes when the sap "turns down" in the fall. This is removed by the "scraper," who moves through the woods with his scraping tool, gathering the leavings.

The still is a large copper vat hooded with a close fitting cover in which is a funnel which in turn is connected with the "worm" of the still. This worm runs down into another vat near at hand, and in this vat the fumes or vapor of the heated gum is distilled into turpentine. Fire under the copper vat heats the gum, and the volatile parts rise to the funnel, pass into the still and are condensed by the water in the second vat into spirits of turpentine. The residue left in the vat is the resin of commerce, which is passed through a series of strainers and sieves to the barrels, which are made on the spot. The turpentine, however, cannot be barreled so easily, for it will work through an ordinary barrel. It is placed in white pine barrels which have been coated inside with several coats of strong, hot glue until the barrel is impervious to the subtle fluid.

The trees are worked for five or six seasons, and then the turpentine maker moves to another part of the woods. He started in North Carolina, crossed over to South Carolina and is still moving toward the gulf. Forest fires destroy the pines faster than the hacker does, for the flames sweep over large areas before they die out. Careful owners of turpentine woods have the pine straw and fallen underbrush raked away from their trees before the season begins, and collecting this material in some safe spot wait for a quiet day when no wind will cool the wet finger, and then they burn the rakings.

Negroes are common laborers of the turpentine woods, but white men are plentiful. They live in rough shanties in the woods, with the stables for the mules and horses near at hand. No work is more healthful than turpentine making, for it is all out of doors in the depths of the balmy, health giving pines, free from the malaria of the swamps and from sudden changes of weather.—Chicago Record.

Horsepower.

The difference between nominal, indicated and effective horsepower often puzzles people. Nominal horsepower is an assumed quantity, used for the convenience of makers and buyers in describing the dimensions of the engines. Indicated horsepower is the amount shown by computations of the indicator diagram. Effective or actual horsepower is the work an engine can do or the difference between the indicated horsepower and the horsepower required to drive the engine when unloaded.—New York Tribune.

HIS LAST CRIB.

"I ain't," observed Burglar Joey Brown, wheezing and gasping, he struggled through Lord Heathington's scullery window. "I ain't as narrer as I used to be when I first entered the purfession, not by a long chalks. I'm puttin on flesh, that's wot I'm doin, and it's time I left off burglin and took a pub. Lawd, but that's made me sorter saltry!"

Burglar Joey Brown took a large red handkerchief from one of his suspiciously capacious pockets and wiped his face with energy. He was an old hand at the game, was Joey. True, he had been "quodded" once or twice, but what of that? Every burglar whose soul is in his work must expect to be "quodded" occasionally during his career. Besides these doses of "penal" afford time for reflection and rest.

Joey had made his way cautiously from the mews which lay at the back of Lord Heathington's town residence, and when he had reached the small courtyard which separated the stables from the main building the rest had been easy, and here he was in the scullery. Joey rubbed his face until it shone like a copper kettle and then returned the handkerchief to his pocket.

"If this 'ere exploit," said Mr. Brown, addressing the tubs and bowls around him, "turns up trumps and brings in the dibs, well"—with a satisfied chuckle—"Joe Brown and burglin will part company. Joe Brown is gettin too fat for this kind of work. And now, as Macbeth observes in the play, 'Let us away,' and inspect 'is lordship's valyables.'"

Joey, whose boots, it is hardly necessary to explain, had been left in a shady corner of the mews, made his way noiselessly out of the scullery into the kitchen and thence into the corridor. "These footmen," said Joey, who seemed to be perfectly acquainted with his whereabouts, "snore like 'ogs. I might do a 'ornpipe in boots 'ere and never be 'eard with that hawful row goin on."

After looking in on the slumbering footman for a moment Mr. Brown proceeded on his way and ascended to the first floor.

"They've several little articles in the dromin room wot I want to inspect," he murmured, "after which we'll pay our custom'ry visit to the plate closet."

Joey made his way quietly into the drawing room, but before annexing anything of value he deposited himself upon a divan and grew poetical.

"Just to think," he murmured, "only this one crib, and then I've done with the purfession forever. Little pub in the country—shady medders—cows and sheep baain—new laid eggs and milk—there will Joe Brown spend the autumn of his days—the evenin of a useful career. 'E will go to church, be a churchwarden. Here Joey gave vent to a most unctuous chuckle. "Just fancy, Joey 'andin the bag! Oh, wot delights are in store for Joe Brown when 'e retires from business! It won't be long afore there's a Mrs. Joseph either. Wot, oh, wot is home without a mother? And now, Joe, you must gag a bit and get to work on these 'ere golden'—"

Joey sat up with a start, and then, with wonderful alacrity for a man of his bulk, left his seat and slid behind a screen which stood near him.

Creak!

"Somebody on the move," said Joe softly. "There's a door goin." He listened intently, and his quick ears soon detected the sound of footsteps crossing the hall. Arrived at the foot of the staircase, the person, whoever it was, began to ascend, upon which the burglar left his place of concealment, crawled to the door and peeped out.

"Is lawdship!"

Joey quickly got back to his screen and decided to give the master of the house a good half hour in which to get to bed and to sleep. "That was a narrer shave," he soliloquized. "Supposin I 'adn't 'eard 'im and 'e'd come plump in 'ere and found me restin on 'is sofa! W'y, it 'ud 'ave meant goodby to the pub and 'ow ere yer?' to the Scrubbs or Portland. This ought to teach you, Joey, that, like other wocations, burglin is never entirely learnt. Now, suppose we!"

Creak!

"Some one else abait!" was Joey's classic utterance as he once more crawled to the door and peeped out.

There was some one else about. As Joey peeped out a tall, dark man in evening dress issued from the room facing that which was honored with Mr. Brown's presence and stood for a moment examining something which glistened in the moonlight, for, contrary to Joey's expectations, the moon had disengaged herself from the clouds which had previously enveloped her and was now shedding her soft light on the world beneath her.

Whatever the thing was that he was examining the man put it quickly into the inside pocket of his dress coat and then made his way to the staircase. As the ray which came through the faint light over the door fell on his face Joey saw that it was convulsed with rage and every evil passion. His teeth were clenched, and his dark eyes gleamed with fury. At the foot of the staircase he paused.

"He refuses!" he hissed. "My own brother refuses me this favor—a trifle to him, all the world to me. Very well." He stopped speaking and seemed to wrestle with his better self for a moment. Then, with an oath, he began to ascend the stairs.

"Well," said Joey to himself as he rubbed his eyes, "this 'ere's a rum go. First 'is lawdship goes to bed at 1 o'clock of the mornin, when I know for certin—'avin 'ad it from the second footman 'imself over a glass of beer—'is usual hour is 11 at night, and then, close on his heels, comes 'is lawdship's brover a-swearin and cussin dreadful to 'ear and lookin at summat wot shines. Joey, my lad, we'll see this bout."

So saying, Mr. Brown crept softly up stairs, stopping at intervals to listen and make sure that he was unperceived. He reached the first floor and paused as if uncertain whether to direct his steps.

"Let's see," he said, "'is lawdship's bedroom looks on to the street, and yours—I remember now that the powdered haired cove explained—'er ladyship is out 'er town. Very well, then. The mews is to my back, so the front of the 'ouse must be afore me. Ah, they're a-talkin, and I 'pose they've got this part of the 'ouse all to themselves, since there ain't no children or guests."

The talking was evidently going on in a bedroom which opened into a corridor that lay on Mr. Brown's right hand, and so, with the utmost caution, the burglar crept softly down the passage until he reached a door that was partly ajar. A little investigation served to show Mr. Brown that the chamber to which the door belonged was a dressing room, and that, furthermore, the dressing room opened into the bedroom in which the conversation was taking place. Very stealthily the house-breaker entered and crawled to the bedroom door. Arrived there, he experienced no difficulty in hearing every word that was spoken.

"I refuse—emphatically," Lord Heathington was exclaiming, "and I'll trouble you to leave this room at once."

"Not until I get what I want," answered the other in an insolent tone.

"You shall never have another farthing from me," said the peer. "You have run through all your own money and a considerable portion of mine, and I won't stand your blackmailing any longer. Now, you can leave this room and my house as soon as you like."

The younger man uttered a fierce imprecation.

"If you won't give me what I want," he shouted, "I'll find a way of making you."

"As you see fit to descend to vulgar threats," returned Lord Heathington quietly, "I shall have to have you put out of the house."

So saying, he advanced toward the bell-rope and was about to pull it when his brother sprang forward, and being by far the more powerful of the two knocked him down with one blow of his fist. Then, as Lord Heathington attempted to rise, his relative dropped on to his knees and held him down by the throat.

"Help! Help! Murder!" exclaimed the prostrate man in half stifled tones.

Joey, looking through the door, saw the younger man put his hand inside his coat and draw a shining object that he had examined so intently in the hall. Joey was not an individual possessed of much virtue, but he was an Englishman, and in common with his countrymen was always inclined to side with the weaker party when any struggle was going on. He knew that any interference on his part would lead to his detection and subsequent arrest, but he did not allow that thought to deter him from the course of action which he resolved to take. He saw the uplifted weapon. He heard Lord Heathington's cry of "Murder!" and he could see the diabolical look on the face of the other man. Joey took in the situation in a moment. The events of a few seconds take some minutes to describe, and it must be remembered that the occurrence we are describing was of less than a minute's duration from first to last. It was a large room, and between the door and the struggling couple was a huge four poster.

Joey, on seeing the uplifted weapon, snatched a pillow from the bed and threw it with all his force at the would be murderer's head. Then he sprang across the bed and grappled with him ere he had time to take his brother's life.

With an exclamation of baffled revenge Lord Heathington's brother turned on the burglar and buried his dagger—for the weapon was a poinard of Italian make, which usually hung on the wall of Lord Heathington's study—in Joey's side. Simultaneously the burglar dealt him a tremendous blow on his head with a jimmy, and when the frightened domestics, aroused by their master's frantic tugs at the bell-rope, arrived on the scene they found house-breaker and peer's brother lying side by side, the first dying, the second only unconscious.

An hour later Joey recovers consciousness, thanks to the efforts of the doctors who were hastily called in. Lord Heathington's brother, dangerously but not mortally hurt, lies in his own room. Joey himself rests on his lordship's bed. His life is fast ebbing away, for the physicians say that they cannot save it.

Lord Heathington, eternally grateful to the man who has saved his life, sits by the bedside, anxiously watching the sufferer's face.

Joey's lips move, and the peer bends over him and listens for what he would say.

"Didn't—take—nothin—yer—lawdship," murmurs Joey faintly. "My—my last crib, yer lawdship. Goin to turn honest, yer l!"

Joey's voice fails him, and the doctor, by his side puts a cordial to his lips.

"Take—pub—country," continues Joey, with an effort, "medders—cows and sheep, yer lawdship, turn honest—cracked this—last crib—lawdship."

And then, with a long sigh, the burglar's soul takes wing, and who will say that by his last brave act Joey did not redeem his crimes of the past?—Million.

A STORY TOLD.

A little tale, a little play,
To keep us going—and so good day!
A little war, a little light,
Of love's bestowing—and so good night!
A little fun to match the sorrow
Of each day's growing—and so good morrow!

A little trust that when we die
We reap our sowing—and so goodby!

A DETECTIVE'S YARN.

"It is not very often," said Detective Riley, "that a detective is forced to assume a disguise to get information, but sometimes it is absolutely necessary. The last time that I had to go into a den of thieves in a bogus character was a good many years ago, and I had a rather lively experience and enough of excitement to stand me until the end of my days."

"We received a report of the escape of a crook from the Charlestown prison, and from what the authorities there had been able to gather it was supposed that the convict had come to this city. They sent a description of the man, and the only thing that I saw was of any use was that on the man's right arm were the initials 'A. T.' with a flag above and anchor below them in india ink. I looked over our records and found that we had there the pedigree of Abe Taylor, and he had the same marks on his right arm. The rest of the description that we had did not tally very closely with the one sent from Charlestown, but I thought that there was good ground for the belief that the escaped convict was Taylor, who was one of the most successful jail breakers in the country."

"In order to be certain of the identity of the convict I went to Charlestown. I found that the man had been convicted under the name of John Smith for the robbery of the Pittsfield bank, and the style of the work was in line with the business usually touched off by Taylor. I took a run over to Pittsfield, got a description of the two men who had done the bank out of $160,000 and became convinced that the man who had been shot and arrested and who escaped was Abe Taylor, and that his partner was Jerry Connors."

"I knew that I was up against a stiff game, and on the train from Boston I laid out a plan which I thought would give me a show to get on the track of the men. Abe and Jerry I knew were partners with Petey Slade, who ran a notorious fence and dive in Washington street, near Canal, and I made up my mind that some time or other the pair of them would land in Slade's place. I decided that my strongest hold would be to get in with Slade and his gang on their own terms. I knew the risk I was taking, for the gang were about the toughest set of thugs and assassins in the city and would not hesitate to slit a man's wizen in a second upon the slightest provocation. I put up a scheme which I thought would beat their game, and it worked to the queen's taste."

"When I reached the city I had myself arrested for a fictitious crime and was tried and sent to the Blackwell's Island penitentiary in a perfectly regular way, with the assistance, of course, of Recorder Hackett. The warden in the penitentiary knew my game and aided me in carrying out the business. After I had been locked up a few days I made my escape from the island after dark. The next day the newspapers contained a thrilling account of my escape, and the story was that I dug my way out of my cell and swam across the river to this city. I must have had a terrible time, as the papers told it, but as a matter of fact I crossed the river in a boat, and the story was given out to make me solid in the work I had laid out to do."

"When I reached the city, it was dark, and I walked down to Slade's dive in my convict's rig, which had been soaked with water to carry out my scheme. I sent a boy into the dive to get Slade to come to me, and I told him the story of my escape and said that a thief who had started to get away with me, but had lost his nerve when it came to taking the swim, had told me that when we reached the city we could go to Slade's and put up until the thing blew over."

"Slade was very cautious. He felt my clothing and took me in a back room in the den and carefully examined the clothes and shoes to see if they were the genuine convict's outfit. He was satisfied on that point, but was suspicious when I could not give him the name of my partner. I did not dare to fake a name, for Slade knew where every thief was who had been sent away that he ever did any business with. I told him that my name was known to me as Jack, and as Jack McCarthy, one of Slade's gang, happened to be on the island at the time my story was taken as being straight, and I was given a room on the second floor to bunk in. The next day Slade saw the story of my escape in the papers and became my friend at once."

"I must admit that I never got better treatment from any one than I did from Slade and the gang. He told them that I was all right, and they were glad to know a fellow who had the nerve to swim across the East river, where the tide runs like a mill race. I had to keep in the house all the time, and in case the police got on to me in any way I was shown a way that I could escape by getting into an underground passage, which led to a sewer in the street. I was fed like a fighting cock, and nothing turned up for about three weeks. Then early one morning, while I was sleeping, some one came into my room, and I heard a whispered consultation. There was a dim light in an adjoining room, and I could see four figures. My hair stood up on end, for I naturally thought that they were talking about me, and that I had been found out. I made up my mind to give them as good a fight as there was in me, but after awhile the men went into the next room, and I heard them get into bed. In the morning my heart gave a big thump when I saw that the new arrivals were

Abe Taylor, Jerry Connors and Andy Cummings, the men I was after.

"My first idea was to connect with the outside and have the place pulled, and I would have done this if I had not learned that a scheme had been put up to turn off a savings bank in Newark. Cummings and Taylor had been a week in Newark planting the place. I was introduced to them by Slade, and Taylor took me right away as a jail breaker after his own heart. I worked my cards as skillfully as I could and let the gang know that I was dying of dry rot. In the course of my business I had naturally picked up every detail of the crook's trade and let Taylor know that I was anxious to get into some good bank lift. They waited about a week and then got word from Newark that the bank was ripe. I was delighted when Taylor told me I could go along, and I carried some of the jimnies."

"When we reached the Pennsylvania depot in Jersey city, we split up, and I went to a lavatory. I found a bootblack there, and I gave him a message for headquarters here and the chief of the Newark police, informing them of the attack that was to be made on the savings bank. The boy did his work right, and when we reached Newark I saw that we were picked up by some of the local police on the dead quiet. We went to the house of Red King and learned that a hole had been pushed through the wall of the building adjoining the bank. When we left King's to go to the bank, I saw three New York detectives on the way. I could not arrange for any signal and did not know when the attack would be made upon us."

"A dozen policemen were in the bank office waiting for us, and after we had got through the hole behind the safe and were getting ready to go to work the police rushed in on us. I dashed for the hole and fell on purpose so that I blocked it, and as every man was covered with a gun there was nothing to do but surrender. I went in with the gang, and they did not learn who I was until the next day. The gang swore they would kill me, but haven't done it yet. Taylor and Connors were sent to Massachusetts on the Pittsfield affair, and the rest of the gang got a taste of Jersey justice."—New York Recorder.

Pennsylvania Railroad Time.

There was a time when folks used to set their watches by the town clock. Nowadays the railway timepiece seems to set the pace. There is so much traveling and so many have to catch trains that men try to keep railroad time.

Few think, however, how difficult it is to keep that same railroad time straight. A bad watch or false time, even to the extent of a minute or two, might easily involve the destruction of a train and many lives. Conductors and engineers not only must have good time keeping watches, but they must have a very accurate standard of time to go by. All clocks vary, but most clocks vary too much, for railroad accuracy.

All over the great Pennsylvania system the clocks are regulated every 24 hours by telegraph from Altoona, where they get the standard time in seconds from Washington. The conductors and engineers running out of Philadelphia get their time from the clock in the round at the Broad street station, the big one in the center just outside the waiting room, which occupies the same position in the new station that it did in the old. This clock, which cost over $400, is considered a wonder and in the old station seldom varied more than two seconds in the 24 hours. It has not been doing quite so well since taken down and put up again, but is improving and is so much better than any other clock known that nobody thinks of changing it, and in all probability in a little while, when it gets accustomed to its position and surroundings, it will come as near perfect accuracy as it ever has in its history.—Philadelphia Times.

The Kaiser's Favorite Dish.

The German kaiser and kaiserin usually breakfast and dine with 20 to 60 friends. They call that a "home" luncheon or dinner. The cuisine is half English and half German, and meats are always served in great variety, as the kaiser is a great meat eater. German champagne is furnished with soup, Moselle and Rhine wine follow and then Burgundy and Heidsieck Royal with the dessert.

The latter is a special brand manufactured expressly for his majesty, who has always from 6,000 to 10,000 quarts of it in his cellars. The kaiser's favorite dish is Vienna roast beef, or pot roast. Whenever he visits at a house, his court marshal asks the host to place this dish on the menu. The kaiser's menu is always in German script except when foreigners are invited who do not speak the language. The kaiser keeps no pastry cook. All pastries for the schloss are furnished by a caterer in Unter den Linden.

The Empress Frederick's cuisine has never excited the enthusiasm of gourmets. It is neither English nor French nor German. Her majesty is inordinately fond of cream, which is added to most dishes on her table. Purees and pastries are much liked.—New York World.

Breslau's Trick.

Breslau, a celebrated juggler, being at Canterbury with his troop, met with such bad success that they were almost starved. He repaired to the churchwardens and promised to give a night's takings to the poor if the parish would pay for hiring a room, etc. The charitable bait took, the benefit proved a bumper, and next morning the churchwardens waited upon the wizard to touch the receipts.

"I have already disposed of dem," said Breslau. "De profits were for de poor. I have kept my promise and given the money to my own people, who are de poorest in dis parish."

"Sir," exclaimed the churchwardens, "this is a trick."

"I know it," replied the conjurer. "I live by my tricks."—London Tit-Bits.

Wonderful results from taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. West Somerville, Mass., Jan. 1, 1895. I was all run down and had no appetite, after the failure of the medicine I was advised to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and did so with wonderful results. After taking one bottle my strength returned and my appetite was improved. I was also subjected to attacks of indigestion, but I have found that Hood's Sarsaparilla relieved that trouble. C. A. Charnan.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

MUSIC HALL.—The management of the Ysaye concerts at Music Hall received so many requests during the past week for another concert that arrangements have been concluded for a matinee at Music Hall, Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 23rd, when the same artists will be heard in a new and pleasing event, several of the numbers being especially interesting to violin students. Another concert will also be given Sunday evening, Jan. 20th, at the Boston Theatre, of a brilliant and more popular nature, and in addition to M. Ysaye, M. Lachaux and Miss Paganini, that well-known and popular Boston musician, Mr. F. Adamowski, will conduct a large orchestra of picked men from the leading organizations of this country. As this is Mr. Adamowski's only appearance as a conductor this winter, and he appears as a competent friend of his, the event will certainly be an interesting one to the admirers of both artists.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—The management of the Columbia Theatre have contracted with Messrs. Canary and Lederer of the New York Casino for the original production of "The Passing Show," for a short engagement beginning January 21. "The Passing Show," ran successfully at the Casino, New York, several months. The management's contract calls for the production exactly as it was given at the Casino, original scenery, magnificent costumes and all the many novel and unique features. The organization consists of 110 people, including Canary and Lederer's original Casino pick-up band, John E. Henshaw, Charles J. Ross, George A. Schiller, William Cameron, Gus Pixley, Seymour Hess, E. S. Tarr, Vernon Jarbeau, Lucy Daly, Madge Lessing, Sylvia Thorne, May Ten Broeck and others. "The Passing Show" is an entirely new idea in the theatrical line. The piece is a mixture of drama, comedy, farce, burlesque, travesty, opera and ballet, and contains any number of specialties.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.—Miss Rose Coghlan announces for her brief engagement at the Hollis, which begins Monday, Jan. 21, her new play, "Princess Walaoff," by Mrs. Romualdo Pacheco. This gifted authoress has had several of her dramatic works produced with great success, particularly on the Pacific coast, where she is a more conspicuous figure in literary and art circles than in the East. Mrs. Pacheco believes she has provided Miss Coghlan with a part that is essentially suited to her brilliant comedy and emotional capabilities. The plot is described as being of intense interest, at no time involved and intricate, but treating of men and women in Russian, French and English society. It is a play of today, the atmosphere of fashionable life permeating every scene. The many characters introduced require actors of exceptional ability to impersonate them. Miss Coghlan has surrounded herself with an able company. She will be seen as a fabulously rich woman of society and her gowns will be of the most sumptuous description. In addition to "Princess Walaoff," Miss Coghlan will also revive "Diplomacy" and "Forget-me-not," and the repertoire is as follows: Monday, Tuesday and Friday evenings, "Princess Walaoff"; also Wednesday matinee, Wednesday evening and Saturday matinee, "Diplomacy"; Thursday and Saturday evenings, "Forget-me-not."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Ward and Vokes, considered by many as two of the funniest men on the American stage, will be the attraction next week as Percy and Harold in the farce-comedy, entitled, "A Run on the Bank." Ward and Vokes are supported by a company second to none, numbering 22 people in all. The costumes are of the finest, (all from Paris) costing nearly $10,000, and the scenery is from the brushes of such artists as Frank Dodge and Louis Felt. As for the play, it is one of the best and funniest ever written. The author does not class his skill among the comedies or the farces, and does not even raise it to the dignity of a play, as broad as the term is. He called it "an invasion of the drama, an unassuming effort to present a few character sketches in an amusing form," which will express the nature of the entertainment. The engagement is for one week with matinees on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as usual.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE.—Lewis Morrison comes to the Bowdoin Square Theatre, Monday night, presenting his dramatic version of "Faust." This season, Mr. Morrison is making a feature of the music, and, although the production is a dramatic one, several classical numbers are introduced for which a number of trained voices are employed. A male quartet also, renders some beautiful music. The part of Marguerite is essayed by Miss Florence Roberts, who is described as a charming and capable young actress. Faust will be played by Mr. Edward Elmer, recently of Marie Wainwright's Company. Others in the cast are Joseph Callahan, L. J. Hall, Walter Penniman, Margaret Raven, Mrs. Nelson Keuss and Lillian Arnsby.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.—Joseph Hawthorn will appear at the Castle Square Theatre on Monday, Jan. 21, and continues for two weeks. The plays selected are "Hamlet," "Rosalinde," and "Richard III." It will be his first appearance upon any stage as Cardinal Richelieu. The supporting company is an unusually strong one, including such familiar names as Grace Atwell, Julia Batchelder, Mrs. E. A. Eberle, Estelle Sylvane, Ada Gilman, Mark Price, David R. Young, Robert Graham, Louis Foy and others. The order of performances for the first week is as follows: "Hamlet," Monday and Tuesday evenings; "Rosalinde," Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings and Wednesday and Saturday matinees; "Richard III," Friday evening. The sale of seats opened Tuesday morning and is progressing rapidly.

BOSTON THEATRE.—What gives promise of being the most amusing performance of the season will start in for a week's engagement at the Boston Theatre, Monday evening, Jan. 21. It is the highly successful farce comedy, by Gus Heege, entitled "Rush City." The author is familiarly known in connection with the production of "Yon Yonson." Oklahoma has been selected as the site for "Rush City," a place conceived by "Rush," a speculative genius of the East, who blunders not, however, as he lacks nerve. He brings to the town a number of gullible people who invest their means, which he appropriates to his own use. Assuming all the municipal offices, "Rush" runs the town to suit himself, but just as the some of fame is about to be reached, a police raid blows everything into a neighboring town. The opportunities for amusing situations and ludicrous scenes are many. The company includes such well known artists as Mathews and Bulger, John Gilroy, M. J. Gallagher, Adelaide Randall, Marion Chester, Joseph Goyne, Robert O'Brien, Edward Hall, Mori Osborne, Josie Claffin and Sade Claffin. Wilson Barrett's Boston Theatre engagement begins Jan. 28. Mr. Barrett will have a larger company and a larger repertoire, the latter to include "The Maxman," Mr. Barrett's greatest and latest London success.

VERNON'S AUNT.

Mrs. Everard Cotes, as that entertaining writer, Sara Jeannette Duncan, must now be called, gives us in Vernon's Aunt, a highly amusing story, in the autobiographic form, of the adventures of Lavinia Moffat, spinster, who conceives the romantic idea of going out to visit her nephew, Vernon Hawkins, in the Indian Territory, and, planning to heighten his pleasure by taking him by surprise. There is a surprise, but it is on the other side, for she is met in Bombay by a man who is evidently expecting her, and whom she takes to be her nephew. This proves so unpleasant that she telegraphs to her nephew, who has had enough of surprises. Then comes an amusing narrative of her journey into the interior, her ride on the elephant, which takes her to Vernon's camp, and the humors of tent life in the jungle. The snakes, the wild beasts and the local custom of butchering toast with a brush are finally too much for her, and she returns to England, where she is followed by her Bombay acquaintance, who, we are given to understand, has an interesting proposal to make to her. The unconscious revelation of the fussy and middle-aged, but not ill-natured spinster is skillfully handled, and the pictures of native life are very good, for an extended residence in India has given Mrs. Cotes a close acquaintance with the country. Published by D. Appleton & Co.

ADVENTURES IN FAIRYLAND.

This is a charming little story for children in which the fairies play an important part. It is told with such good faith that the older readers fall under the spell and can not help a vague belief that all these marvellous events really happened. It begins in the familiar way with the hero falling asleep on a warm day in summer and details the wonderful events that befel him in fairy land to which he was transported, and it will be treasured by the little folks fortunate enough to possess it as one of their most delightful stories. It is written by Mr. David H. Brewer of Newtonville and abounds in spirited illustrations of the small people, whose doings it is supposed to chronicle.

Title To Crystal Lake.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

So much interest is now being manifested in the title of our Crystal lake, that a full statement of the facts may be of value to your readers. As a member of the executive committee of the N. C. I. A., and as a member of the sub-committee appointed to look into this subject, I have given the matter somewhat thorough investigation. This letter, however, is written upon my own responsibility and without even the knowledge of the committees referred to.

Crystal lake is large enough to be a "great pond," and one might at first thought assume that this settled all questions about public use of it. But the trouble lies deeper. Our present law relating to great ponds is based upon a colony ordinance of 1647, which defines great ponds to be ponds of over ten acres area. The effect of that ordinance was to secure state ownership of all such ponds unless "the town or general court had otherwise appropriated them." The ordinance has frequently come before the court, and a note was appended to one of the earlier decisions saying that only one pond had been granted before the ordinance went into effect, which was "Humphrey's" pond at Saugus. This remark subsequently crept into a written opinion of the court; and, I think, many attorneys finding those judicial expressions, have at once jumped to a conclusion that no one could have a title in Crystal lake.

Private title in a great pond in Plymouth county has been since established, however, by proof of a grant prior to the ordinance in a case very recently decided, and it is not at all impossible that still other grants of the same kind may be found; in fact, as I understand it, Mr. Ellis bases his claim of title upon just such a grant, the language of which may be found in Jackson's History of Newton, p. 20; in Shurtleff's official copy of the "Records of Massachusetts," Vol. 1, p. 114, or upon the original records of Mass. Vol. 1, p. 111. Shurtleff's copy of the records was prepared and published by order of the legislature of 1853. Jackson's History was published in 1854. The date of the grant in question is April 1, 1634. I have referred to each of these books because in neither are the words quoted correctly, a fact which is responsible for some of the misunderstanding which has arisen. One finds in Jackson's History these words, "there is one thousand acres of land and a great pond granted to John Haynes; in Shurtleff's official copy of the records the language is, 'there is a thousand acres of land, and a great pond granted to John Haynes, etc.' It is perfectly apparent that the use or omission of the word 'a' before the word 'great' is an exceedingly important element. 'A thousand acres of land and great pond' is quite a different thing from 'a thousand acres of land and a great pond.' The latter is the correct, having felt that Mr. Ellis' claim had nothing to stand upon in the grant; and indeed it might well be supposed that this copy would be correct since the author in his preface says, that, after most careful study of his clerks, he personally compared the copy, word for word, with the original records. The cross after the letter p in the official copy indicates that the balance of the word cannot be made out. I have today examined the original records in manuscript, and find that in the grant as enrolled the word 'a' does occur before the word 'great,' that the official copy is wrong at that point, and that Jackson is correct, while on the other hand Jackson is wrong in printing the word 'pond' in full since the 'p' only is there. Therein lies the importance of the fact that the history was published after the official copy, showing that the letters were already gone before Jackson examined the records. The full language of the original grant is as follows:

"A Court, holden at Boston April 1st, 1634. There is a thousand acres of land, and a great pond granted to John Haynes, Esq. five hundred acres [balance of word missing] granted to Thomas Dudley, Esq. Deputy Governor [of the illegible word] hundred to R. Smith Dudley, & two hundred [looks like 200 hundred] acres [word missing] Daniel Dennison all being and being above the falls, [word missing] Easterly side of Charles River, to enjoy to them & [word missing] heirs forever."

This error in the official copy becomes very striking when it is considered that, had the title of Mr. Haynes to this pond been only in the official copy, and not in the grant, absence of the word 'a' might have made all the difference between title and no title to him.

It seems that this thousand acres of land, if we assume that it was rectangular in shape, would have extended from the Charles River to the falls, and the lake, that is, if it is correctly informed, one boundary line would cut off a small portion of the lake on the Newton Highlands side.

Some time after the above grant a commission of three men was appointed by the General Court to view the lands of Mr. Haynes, and to report. A careful examination of all the records, and I think such an examination has been made by two or three others besides myself, fails to disclose that the commission ever did report.

No deed by Gov. Haynes nor any other person seems to have been found which purports to have conveyed a title to this pond since the original grant. The land has been conveyed over and over again. It is now claimed, as I understand it, that title to the pond has come down through the heirs of Gov. Haynes. Presumably the present heirs are very numerous, and it will be seen that if we were, say three hundred in number, and Mr. Ellis had obtained three releases, the only interest he could possibly have by them would be one per cent. of the title. I think it is not known outside how many releases he has been able to obtain.

The answers to this claim are numerous and strong.

There are first the uncertainties in the grant itself, then the difficulty in proving the descendants of Gov. Haynes; then the fact that neither he nor his heirs have ever, so far as known, paid taxes or indicated in any way a claim of title, and finally the lake has been abandoned to the public use. These will be exceedingly difficult points to cover. Presumably an effort will be made to establish a right by prescription or adverse possession. But Mr. Ellis has only cut ice from winter to winter. Others have done the same, and it is a well known rule of law that any one of the public has a right to cut ice to a reasonable amount in a great pond, so that the exercise of such a right has not been adverse. At best it would pertain only to acquisition of an easement.

Then again, should the claim be made that, by using the pond, he had acquired title, how could he prove the counter-claim that the public has always used the pond summer and winter, and all the time, and over and over again as much as he?

It is not unfair to presume that the main strength of Mr. Ellis' position among those who have looked at the question, is considered to be the fact that he is acting under advice of an attorney who is undoubtedly one of the most accurate and trustworthy specialists in titles. But I have often heard the question asked, "Has his attorney actually held a sound and complete title to the lake?" I have often wondered whether or not, if Mr. Ellis desired to sell the pond, his attorney would allow him to give a full warranty deed; and whether or not, should the purchaser need to borrow money to help pay the purchase price, would he advise a savings bank that the title was sufficiently sound to warrant them in advancing money upon it.

The present position of the matter seems to be that Mr. Ellis, with great personal vigor and personal interest, is assailing the private title, while the public, grumbling and annoyed, puts the claim, but seems not to have enough courage to do anything about it except to talk a little louder when now and then some interference with its enjoyment of the lake occurs. Such an interference has recently occurred in connection with the proposed dam project. That trouble arose from the fact that Mr. Ellis seemed to require personal recognition as owner of the lake. To this the committee could not consent, and, apparently as a result, the ice was at once opened.

Mr. Ellis is undoubtedly making his claim of title in good faith, and I have never known of a man who wanted to deprive him of any just right in the matter. All apprehension about the matter arises from contemplation of the danger in private ownership of this pond. If Mr. Ellis, who is a man of honor, owns it, it should be taken with due compensation to him, leaving him a reasonable right to take ice; if he does not own it, the State does, and there should be no restriction in its use by the public.

It has seemed to me for some time that the only remedy for this state of things is to have a decision of the question in court. No lawyer's opinion can be conclusive because there are questions of fact involved which can only be determined upon a full hearing of evidence covering many years. A suit for this purpose would be more properly brought, I think, in the name of the Attorney General, and the State itself ought to be interested. Other cities have the benefit of great ponds which belong to the Commonwealth. If this one has been lost, it should be regained for us at the expense of the Commonwealth, and I am satisfied that, if our community can be brought to realize the importance of the matter, the attention of the legislature can be brought to bear upon it with such force that an arrangement will be made for the Attorney General to press the matter in behalf of the State. In that way whatever rights Mr. Ellis has would be thoroughly protected; the expense of a great public benefit would be taken from the shoulders of a few individuals, and an important and vexatious question would be settled. Wm. M. Noble, Newton Centre, Jan. 9, 1895.

DON'T LIKE COMMITTEES.

SOME MEMBERS OF CITY COUNCIL DISGRUNTLED OVER THEIR MAKE-UP—ALDERMAN PLUMMER'S FRIENDS THINK THAT HE WAS ENTITLED TO AND DESERVED THE PRESIDENCY OF THE UPPER BRANCH.

Some of the members of the Newton city council are dissatisfied over the makeup of the committees, and there has been a good deal of grumbling since they were announced.

The dissatisfaction is confined to a considerable extent to the common council appointments. There was a contest in that body and in the board of aldermen for presidency, and it is claimed that certain politicians resorted to methods that are open to criticism.

The statement is made by several of the disgruntled members of the lower branch of the city government that the successful candidate for president "rewarded his friends and punished his enemies."

The subject has furnished material for discussion in the social clubs and among the representatives of men who mount town, and its influence will be felt, it is safe to assume, in the next municipal election.

Through the power of politics it is asserted that a candidate for the presidency of the board of aldermen was defeated who was in every way eligible and in line of promotion. This was Alderman Albert Plummer, whose friends think that he has been very badly treated.

The gentleman chosen in his place had not previously served in the upper branch. Mr. Plummer was the senior member, and it has been the custom to invest the senior member with the president's mantle, all other things being equal.

The opposition to Mr. Plummer, it is claimed, to some extent represented a feeling of resentment on the part of certain citizens who unsuccessfully opposed him in the caucus.

The upshot of the whole matter is the engendering of a spirit that is certainly not conducive to promoting those harmonious relations which Mayor Bothfield suggested as being desirable in attaining the best results in the management of the city's business.

LITERARY NOTES.

John De Witt Warner contributes to Harper's Weekly for January 19th an article which contains the results of personal inspection of sweating-shops, and makes some important advance in the discussion of the tenement house system. In the same number Julian Ralph has an article on the cruelties to which American missionaries have been subjected in China; and another important feature is Prof. W. M. Sloane's paper which accompanies the bird's-eye view of the college buildings at Princeton.

Harper's Bazar for January 12th is a brilliant number, containing in addition to its beautiful fashion features, a strong article by Miss Grace H. Dodge on "Women and the Public Schools."

—Mr. George Lenox Hawes, who was recently a resident of this place, but whose family removed to Cambridge a short time ago, died in Aiken, S. C., last Friday, where he had gone for the benefit of his health. The funeral was held on Thursday at the Newton cemetery chapel.

—Knapp displays a fine line of Curtice Bros. preserves this week. In the show window there is an odd device, too, consisting of a lamp and reflector, the latter operated by clock work. Its purpose is that of advertising the "Curtice Bros. Stove Enamel."

—Mr. George H. Ellis has nearly filled his ice houses here. They were "stocked" earlier this year than for several previous seasons. The ice is of particularly good quality. Mr. Ellis added another new house to his equipment this week.

—A social was an event of interest in the Baptist church, Wednesday evening. There was an old folks supper at 6.30 o'clock, followed by a social hour and concert. Ancient melodies were rendered during the musical interlude and the singing, if not the tunes was up-to-date. At the supper tables, pretty girls in quaint attire supplied the wants of material description.

—There was a large audience in Associates Hall, Monday evening, when Mrs. Charlotte W. Hawes gave her illustrated musical lecture under the auspices of the Newton Centre Woman's Club. The entertainment features were very entertaining, the lecturer having for her assistants the Shipp Brothers, famous English bell ringers.

—Judge Kennedy listened attentively last Monday to the evidence presented in the case of Thomas Clark vs. Patrick Quinlan, who was with two companions and said that the trio offered him various gratuitous insults while he was returning from his work at Chestnut Hill last Friday night. J. W. Threshie appeared as counsel in his behalf and the defendant was represented by John B. Goodrich. The court found in sufficient cause to sustain Clark's complaint and ordered the discharge of Quinlan.

—The extent to which a person may be permitted to sell hard cider in a license city was tested in the Newton court this morning, it being continued from Thursday. A few days ago a visit was made by Patrolman Fletcher and other officers to several cider dealers in Thompsonville district, and samples of the beverage were taken from each place. These samples were later submitted to a chemist for analysis, and the results were so far satisfactory to the officials that two residents of the district were summoned into court to answer to a charge of maintaining a liquor nuisance. These were George Beck and Louis Baldies of Jackson street.

—Hovey and Wrenn, the famous tennis experts, played an exhibition game on the courts in Bray's Hall, last night. A big audience turned out to witness the event. It practically resolved itself into a formal opening of the indoor quarters of the Newton Centre Tennis Club. The provisions for play could hardly be excelled and equal those furnished by turf courts. The new system of lighting worked admirably. The two games were won by Hovey by a score of 6-4, 6-2. Hovey and Slaek defeated Wrenn and Codman, six games to two. After the games a collation was served, and dancing followed from 10 to 12.

—Mrs. Thorpe addresses a meeting at the Baptist chapel on Tuesday evening.

—The "Nut Cracker and the Mouse King," to be given at Mrs. Bird's second concert for children, is a fairy story with descriptive music.

—The many persons who have enjoyed hearing Miss Rossi sing on the violin will be glad to know that she will play again at the evening service at the Methodist church next Sunday morning.

—A petition in the interests of free delivery is being circulated here and it is said a large number of signatures have been secured. It will be forwarded to the Postmaster General.

—Mrs. A. Nash of Bowdoin street, who was reported ill of diphtheria, and a Board of Health card had been placed on her door, is better having escaped diphtheria.

—Erastus Moulton has placed iron gates at the entrances to his store, flush with the sidewalk. When closed at night, they are a safeguard and besides keep away loiterers.

—The Newton Highlands Social club gave a dance in Stevens' hall, Tuesday evening. The music for the occasion was furnished by Buckley & Woodman's orchestra.

—Mr. E. H. Corey entertained several of his friends, at his home last Saturday evening. An orchestra rendered excellent music, and the evening was enjoyed by all.

—Miss Emma Stevens has resigned her position as teacher in a school in Everett, and has accepted a position in the Hamilton school, at Lower Falls.

—Mr. J. E. Titus of Boylston street, who has been with a Brooklyn firm, civil engineering on the Brooklyn path way, has now established himself in business with an office at 53 State street, Boston.

—A Stereopticon lecture at the Congregational church on Wednesday evening by Miss Merriam was very pleasing and instructive, and was much enjoyed by those who did not mind the storm.

—A humorous lecture by W. O. Fuller, Jr., of the Rockland Tribune, was given on Wednesday evening, at Lincoln hall, under the auspices of Home Lodge. The lecture was very entertaining and was listened to by a good sized audience.

—The annual meeting of the Ladies' Social club took place on Tuesday evening, and the following ladies elected: president, Mrs. W. H. Keating; vice president, Mrs. Charles F. Johnson; secretary, Miss Fannie Levi; treasurer, Mrs. P. E. Brickett; vice, Miss Grace Vaughn Ball resigned.

—The plaintiff's exceptions in the suit of Gamewell Fire Alarm Telephone Company vs. Moses G. Crane have been waived and judgment entered for Mr. Crane. This is said to be the second suit brought by the Gamewell Company against Mr. Crane, in which judgment has been entered in his favor.

—Tuesday night was Ladies' night at the club, and a couple of very pleasant hours were passed by those present. Drive which was the feature of the evening, there being ten tables. Five pretty prizes were ordered, and captured by Miss Levi, Mrs. Brickett, Mrs. Whittemore, Mrs. Ball and Mrs. Provan. Lunch was served during the evening.

—Through the generosity of Mr. C. H. Guild, of Lincoln street, three beautiful oval red steel engravings, portraits of Washington, Lincoln and Webster, have been presented to the Hyde school. These fine pictures, two of which are artists' proofs, together with an excellent likeness of Hon. J. P. C. Hyde, the gift of Mr. J. Hyde, have been placed in the ninth-grade room for the present, their final position in the building not being yet decided upon. It is hoped that these gifts may stimulate others to do likewise.

—The annual meeting of the Highland club was held at the Club house, Saturday evening, Jan. 5th, with a large majority of the members present. One of the pleasant features of the evening was the presentation to the club of an elegant portrait of a lady, by the retiring president, John F. Heckman, after which a collation was served in the hall. Following is a list of the newly elected officers for the coming year: president, W. H. Keating; 2nd vice president, Charles F. Johnson; 2nd vice president, Francis Bellamy; secretary, Charles F. Kellogg; treasurer, C. J. Luitwiler; executive committee, Freedom Hutchinson, J. H. Scudliffe, E. E. Brown; committee on admission, Jas. Simpson, H. W. Martin, A. S. Wiley; auditing committee, Robert Levi, Thos. P. Curtis, W. C. Nickerson.

—The late John Newton Hyde, who died on January 3rd, was one of the most distinguished sons of Newton Highlands. His early life was spent here, but after leaving here he became connected with "Frank Leslie's" as the head of the art department, and his work made the Osborne Corner, since suspended, and established his reputation as the first artist in black and white in this country. He was also known as an artist of exceptional ability in oils, and his painting "Expulsion" one of the few that he ever exhibited, was highly praised by art critics. In pen and ink work and theatrical lithography he was equally at home. He was an exceptionally well read man and a brilliant conversationalist. In his youth he showed considerable talent as a writer, especially of verse. He was known among artists as being very industrious and painstaking, never neglecting to fill his obligations to the letter and to the moment. Among his life long friends were Judge Edward T. Bartlett of the New York Court of Appeals, Roland Reed, the well-known actor, the late John Boyle O'Reilly, Benjamin Day, the son of the founder of the "New York Sun" and other prominent men distinguished for their high mental attainments. He was a frequent contributor to pictorial publications, and his works had been copied in publications of France, England, Germany and Spain as a rule, without credit being given to the original artist. A widow and two sons survive. One of them, Mr. Raymond Hyde, is one of the principal pen and ink artists on the New York Herald, and a landscape artist in oils of much ability. He is married and has two children. The other, Clarence, is a reporter on the N. Y. Times, and a contributor of humorous matter to Judge, Puck, Life, Truth and other papers.

—The Chautauqua Circle will meet next Monday, with Mrs. Richards.

—Oak Lodge, No. 170, A. O. U. W., will give a Smoke Talk on next Wednesday evening.

—M. E. services as usual next Sunday at 10.45 a. m. and 7 p. m. The pastor, Mr. Shatto, will speak both morning and evening. There will be a praise service of interest in the evening, describing "The Christian Experience in Song."

—Mr. Charles F. Casey, whose death occurred at Brooklyn, N. Y., was formerly a resident of the Highlands, and a brother of Mrs. Hardwick. The burial took place at Newton cemetery on Thursday. He was a clerk in Hon. J. P. C. Hyde's office several years.

—The following music will be rendered at Vesper service, Congregational church, Sunday evening, Jan. 20th.
"I waited for the Lord," Mendelssohn
"It is enough," Back
"Rock of Ages," Buck
"Crossing the Bar," Schuecker

—No one will want to miss the rendering of Bartle's "Little Minister," as given by Miss Oliver at the M. E. church next Tuesday evening. Miss Oliver is wonderful in her impersonations, and the changes from the rough Scotchman to the coquettish Gipsy and again to the Little Minister, are something thrilling in the realization.

—A new feature at the Highland club will be Saturday night smokers, with lunch and the usual pleasant social features. The past year has been the most prosperous one in the club's history. The reports of the financial condition were the best since its organization. All the floating debts are discharged and the club is practically free of debt, the mortgage on the building having been provided for by sinking fund. The clubs grows in popularity every day and meets the wants, apparently, of the representative men of the South side. Out of town clubmen are frequent visitors. A delegation of the Newtowne club of Cambridge was entertained last Friday evening. Next Monday there is an event, one which promises to be very interesting. It is a bowling match between members of the Old Dorchester and Highland clubs who were former residents of South Boston.

—In the Highland club tourney, last Friday evening Team Two defeated Team Five by 209 pins. On Wednesday evening Team One was defeated by Two, the former having a margin of 127 pins. Friday night Keating was high man with a total of 463. Spear made the top three string total in Wednesday's match—463. The scores:

—Mr. Wm. Wallis died Sunday evening at his home after a lingering illness of about 9 months. Aged 78 yrs. 15 days. He had been subject to mental troubles at stages in his sickness since the death of his wife almost a year ago, whose death was very sudden from heart trouble. The deceased had retired from a very successful business as tailor in Boston about 15 years ago and through which he acquired a fortune. He was highly respected in the community and was a loyal and true citizen, always taking a deep interest in nation and state affairs. The interment was at St. Mary's church cemetery. No near relatives, with the exception of a nephew, survive him.

—Mr. L. E. Leland died Sunday evening, after an illness of about four weeks, sudden coming unexpectedly. He was widely known in educational circles and served for more than 25 years as the able and competent master of the Hamilton school from which position he resigned by reason of failing health about 2 years ago, and by his retirement the school lost a most thorough instructor and head. He was a prominent member of Dabney Lodge, F. and A. M. A large number of eminent men in professional and business life and many of his former pupils pay tribute to him as a teacher, scholar and citizen of sterling worth and integrity. A widow, two sons and a daughter survive him; one son, Samuel, a Master of a school at Chicago, and a daughter, Minerva, a teacher at the Newton High school. The funeral took place from his late residence at Woodland. The interment was at the Newton cemetery.

—Mr. Andrew Burnett, a wealthy stock farmer, died Sunday a. m. after a lingering illness of one year of Bright's disease, at his home, Wesley Hills, near the Upper Falls line. Up to 12 years ago he had a partnership with a brother conducting business as stevedores in Boston at the wharves and conducting a successful stock-farm business at the same time. The death of his brother dissolving the former business. He was a 33rd degree Mason and was buried with Masonic honors. A widow and unmarried sons and daughters survive him. Age 9 years.

—The demise of four very prominent people during a duration of time not exceeding 36 hours, was news and a shock to all residents in this vicinity. One death, namely that of Mrs. Gilbert, took place Saturday a. m. of heart failure, and was exceptionally sad, she was enjoying the best of health, it might be said, up to the time of her death. She was the wife of Mr. Benjamin Gilbert, a prominent resident of Pine Grove, where they have made their home for many years. She was an attendant of St. Mary's church, a refined and educated wife and mother, and always attracted and retained friendship through her pleasing and refined manners and sunny disposition. A husband, two sons, and a daughter survive her. The interment was at Mt. Auburn.

NEWTON.

—Pianos, Farley, 433 Washington St., N.

—Mr. John T. Langford is quite ill with neuritis of the stomach at his home on Waban park.

—The Monday Afternoon Whist Club met with Mrs. Brush of Charlesbank road, this week.

—Mr. George W. Hastings of Washington street has gone to Arkansas, where he will visit the Hot Springs.

—Miss Hibbard of Hunnewell Hill is visiting friends in New York for a few weeks.

—Mr. Clarence V. Moore, the amateur champion walker of New England, is entered in the Worcester meet for Saturday evening.

—The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will hold its next meeting in the Unitarian church parlor, Wednesday, Jan. 30, at 2 p. m.

—Dr. W. S. Morris of Wesley street is quite seriously ill. He is a son of Prof. Morris of Boston University and has lived in Newton but a short time.

—The many applicants for tickets for the festival service in Grace church to night, made the trustees regret that the building was not larger, as the seats could have been taken twice over.

—The address recently delivered to the Unitarian congregation at Marblehead by the Rev. Dr. Shinn has been printed in pamphlet form by Whitaker, the New York publisher.

—The choir of Grace church gave a concert in the hall of the Y. M. C. U., in Boston, Wednesday evening. A charming program was given and Newton was well represented in the large audience.

—Mr. W. S. Bates, who has been the faithful nurse of the late Mr. I. N. Learned for the past months, left for Burlington, Vt., last Tuesday, where he intends to finish his studies in the Medical College.

—Mr. Dwight Howard of Fairmont avenue entertained a number of his friends on Thursday evening at progressive hearts. Friends from the other Newtons were present and a pleasant time was passed.

—The choir of Grace church gave a concert in the hall of the Y. M. C. U., in Boston, Wednesday evening. A charming program was given and Newton was well represented in the large audience.

—The Social Science Club will meet at Mrs. R. A. Ballou's, Church street, Wednesday, Jan. 30, at 8 o'clock.

—"Mutual Relations of Employer and Employee." "Strikes."

—William Bennett and Thomas Curran were sentenced to four months in the house of correction, on Monday in Boston, for a burglary in the city.

—Music in Grace church Sunday night: Processional, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Sullivan Gloria Patri, Anglican Magnificat.

King Hall Anthem, "The Lord is in His Holy Temple."

Smith Anthem, "How beautiful upon the mountains."

Smith Recessional, "Forward be our Watchword."

All seats free.

—A pleasant surprise was tendered Mrs. Charles R. Young at her home 201 Washington street, last Friday evening, by her friends of Newton, Needham, Dorchester and Medford. The evening was spent in a social way with singing, reading, and a collation. E. L. Dill of Waltham was the caterer. Mrs. Young was presented with a very handsome ice cream set.

—A special meeting in the interest of Equal Suffrage will be held under the auspices of the Newton Woman Suffrage League, on Monday evening next, at 7:30 p. m., at the house of Mrs. George W. Crosby, No. 8 Eldridge street. Members will meet Newton representatives and confer with them on the desirability of granting Municipal Suffrage to women. A social reception will be held after the meeting.

—There is a strong probability that some changes will be made in the ward lines by the present City Government. It has been many years since the present lines were established, and some of the wards have far outstripped the others in growth. In many of the centres of population have changed considerably. Ward 2 is now by far the largest in the city, and there has been some talk of division. But it is not likely to occur until the next census, as any change is made it will be in the direction of equalizing the size of the wards by taking portions from some to be added to others. Ward 1, and 3 are the ones most liable to be affected.

—A number of cleverly executed pen and ink drawings adorn the windows of two local drugists; they represent the characters who will appear at the "Evening of Entertainment" to be given by some local amateurs for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A., Feb. 28. The pictures were drawn by T. P. E. Parker and are receiving a little praise. A feature of the show will be the actual race between Arthur Porter, "With Class A King," and a noted rider of the Boston Press Cycling Club. The race will be a mile long on a track built expressly for this occasion. The idea originated with the Boston Press Club. It will doubtless prove a great success. The reception of the colored "400" stomp speech, club swinging, banjo playing and quartet singing, with other attractions, go to make up what will doubtless prove one of the best programs of the kind that has been seen here for some time.

—Eddie Magann of Watertown, aged about 10 years, son of James Magann, was coasting on the Pleasant street river bank, just behind his home last Saturday, when his sled overturned and he fell into the thin ice, and broke through. The boy was carried down the river by the current. He turned on his back and kept his feet and hands moving, thus keeping on top of the water. Mr. George W. Benyon, who was on the other side of the river, saw the accident. Near the starch works he found a boat locked to a tree. He broke the fastening, and tearing a board from a rail fence he paddled after the boy who had drifted toward the dam. He soon came up to the boy, and a few moments later had him in the boat. Eddie was not much the worse for his experience, save the effects of a drenching in the cold water. It might have fared hard with him, however, had it not been for Maj. Benyon's prompt action.

—The funeral of Rev. Robert P. Stack, the beloved pastor of St. Patrick's church, Watertown, took place last Saturday. The services continued during the entire morning, and during three masses the church was crowded by more than 1500 mourning parishioners, prominent town officials, representative citizens of Watertown of all shades of religious belief, and clergy from all parts of the archdiocese. The space outside the church was thronged with hundreds, who were unable to obtain access to the auditorium. It was the largest and most impressive funeral ever seen in Watertown, and the whole town seemed wrapped in mourning without regard to religious belief or denomination. Flags on all the public buildings floated at half-mast and many of the stores and residences were draped in black. Among the Newton Catholics present were Rev. D. J. Wholly, Rev. J. F. Gilfeather, Rev. Michael Dolan, (pastor of Church of Our Lady) Rev. Lawrence J. O'Toole, Rev. Cornelius Rordan, Rev. P. H. Callaghan, Rev. T. M. McCarty and Rev. T. J. Danahy.

—Officer Taffe returned to duty last night after being laid up for a few days with a severe cold.

—Nonantum street has sunk into innocent desuetude. It is now Charlesbank road.

—The officers of Nonantum Colony, No. 77, U. O. P. F., will be installed Monday evening, Jan. 28. Every member should be present.

—Mr. D. H. Church of this city has been granted a patent for a staff turning lathe. Mr. W. H. Golding is another Newtonian, who gets a patent for an improved printing press.

—Mr. E. M. Crookford, a converted sailor and ex-captain of the Salvation Army, will speak to boys on Sunday at 3 p. m., and to men at 4 p. m. at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

—Mr. J. N. Bacon is 82 years old today. He has been ill during the week and is confined to his bed, but is reported to be quite comfortable today.

—Mrs. Towle of Everett, who has been visiting her brother, Mr. A. Rees, of Pearl street, returned home on Thursday.

—The gentlemen interested in the new Hunnewell Hill club met this evening at Dr. Bartlett's, for organization.

—A cup of Chase & Sanborn's celebrated coffee will be served free to all at G. P. Atkins' fine store, Saturday afternoon and evening. Call and try it.

—Company C, Fifth Regiment, M. V. M., was inspected Monday evening, by J. H. Whitney and Major Beryon. Fifty men paraded and a very creditable showing was made, adding fresh laurels to those already won.

—Tickets for the opera of "Patience," which is to be given in City Hall on the evenings of February 13th and 14th, can be procured by sending name and address to Mrs. Philip Carter, Newtonville.

—Mrs. C. H. Durell, president of the Cambridge Y. M. C. A. women's auxiliary, addressed the Newton ladies upon the association work at the home of Mrs. N. Trobridge, Hunnewell avenue, last Tuesday afternoon.

—Wednesday, Jan. 30, at 2 p. m. the ladies will meet at the Y. M. C. A. parlors to elect officers and organize a women's auxiliary to the Newton Y. M. C. A. All ladies interested in the work are invited.

—One of the members of Hose Eight in responding to Box 15, Saturday afternoon, fell on Dabry street, injuring himself so badly that he was unable to proceed any further. He has since recovered and is able to attend to his duties.

—The annual meeting of the Newton National Bank was held on Monday. There was no change in the board of directors, or in the officers elected. The president, Mr. J. N. Bacon was absent for the first time since he has held the office.

—Mr. Charles Holmes, an old resident, died at his home on Channing street last Saturday. Deceased was 85 years of age. He had resided here more than a quarter of a century. He retired from business a number of years ago. He, at one time, owned a grocery house in Boston.

—A widow survives him.

—In Eliot chapel, Thursday evening, Feb. 7, there will be an interesting lecture by Miss Elizabeth Merriam, on "Bible Lands, Past and Present." Mrs. Merriam has been in the Holy Land.

—The story of her travels is illustrated by a large number of stereopticon views. Tickets, 25 cents, for sale at Hubbard's at the doors on evening of lecture.

—The Howard Ice Company completed filling their ice-house at Watertown, Tuesday. The time of harvest was about a week, the capacity of the houses being 2000 tons. The ice averaged twelve inches in thickness and is the best quality ever cut from the pond. A second crop will be harvested if possible, and a large stack built. This ice is used for wholesale trade only, and the family trade will be supplied with ice from the country the coming summer.

—Miss Mabel Augusta Livermore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Livermore of this city, and Mr. Alvah Arey Atwood were married at noon yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, Charlesbank road. The ceremony was strictly private. Rev. Wolcott Calkins, D. D., pastor of Eliot church, officiated. The bride wore a travelling gown of blue-gray covert cloth, with trimmings of light blue velvet. A sash of white satin, carried a bouquet of lilacs of the valley. A reception was held from 12:30 until 2 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Atwood were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Livermore. Mrs. Livermore was gown in black satin with jet trimmings. The reception room was tastefully decorated. The corner recess of the apartment was transformed into a bower of pink palms, having an overhead canopy of similar from which a floral wedding veil was suspended. The latter was composed of roses and violets. The guests were from the Newtons, Malden, Cambridge, Boston, and vicinity, and comprised many ladies and gentlemen prominent in society circles. The ushers were Mr. Arthur Brackett of this city, Mr. Wendell Livermore, brother of the bride, and Mr. George A. Bennett of Somerville. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Spaulding of Malden, Mr. R. F. O'Connor of Boston, Mr. O. Eliot Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. Austin W. Wellington, Mr. George Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Ford, Mr. O. W. Livermore of Cambridge, Mrs. Elizabeth Atwood of Medway, Mr. Earl Atwood of Newton Highlands, Mrs. Hastings of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Baker, Jr., Mr. O. W. Livermore, Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Sumner, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Clark, Mr. W. B. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Atwood, Misses Daniels, Miss Turner, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Cephas Brackett, Mr. Dexter Brackett, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Farrington, Mrs. Samuel Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Belding, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Gilman Paine, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Deano, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simpson, Miss C. M. Thorndike of Newton. After the guests were presented to the receiving party, they were escorted to the dining room, where a collation was served by Paxon. At the close of the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Atwood departed on their wedding tour. Upon their return, they will reside in Malden, where they will be at home after March 1. They received a large number of very handsome and valuable wedding gifts including some exquisite cut glass ware, hand-painted and decorated ware, numerous pieces and sets of solid silver and a bewildering variety of useful and ornamental articles. A Dresden lamp with silk shade on a polished brass and onyx stand was numbered among the presents, all displayed in an upper apartment.

Newton School Board.

A meeting of the school board was held Wednesday evening, (Mayor Bothfield in the chair).

An order providing for the granting of leave of absence to Miss Abbie E. Bates for the rest of the year with balance of salary was the subject of quite an interesting debate. Supt. Aldrich said that she desired the time to enter the Harvard annex for a special course in history which she is to teach in the High school next term. The balance of salary, he stated, would be paid to her substitute.

Mr. Ward asked for information in the case. If this leave of absence is granted, said he, will it not establish a precedent that may result in bothersome difficulties in the settlement of similar cases.

Mr. Lawrence Bond in answer to the question said that the revision of the rules would provide for the disposition of such cases in the future.

Mr. Smith—it seems to me that the board should consider carefully the question of voting a salary to a teacher who is to be granted a leave of absence for so long a time. This subject, I think, should be given further consideration.

Mr. Ward—The board should go slow in this matter. Miss Bates might not care to resume her duties as teacher in the High school after completing her studies in the annex. There is a case of a teacher in the schools here that may be cited in this connection. She obtained a leave of absence to perfect herself in a special branch and after completing her studies accepted a position to teach in the schools of Portland.

The master of the High school and the High school committee have carefully looked into this subject. Miss Bates desires simply to fit herself for the position caused by the resignation of Miss Cole, and it is regarded as certain that she will return to teach in the High school.

The question as to the efficiency of the substitute who would take Miss Bates' place and receive one-half the salary came up. Supt. Aldrich said that Miss Macomber, the substitute selected, had rendered very satisfactory service in the history department, and was competent to fill Miss Bates' place. She receives now, he added, $30 per month. During Miss Bates' absence she will receive $55 per month, but with the understanding that the latter salary is not to be continued after Miss Bates' return unless the board so votes.

After some further discussion the order was passed.

The resignation of Miss Helen S. Tolman, first assistant in the Williams' school, was read and accepted and Miss Charlotte A. Maynard appointed to the vacancy at a salary of $700 per annum. The salary of Miss Julia E. Young, kindergarten, Franklin school, was raised to $555.

An order was adopted appropriating $100.00 for department expenses of January.

Eliot Church Prosperous.

The annual meeting of the Eliot church was held last Friday evening to hear the reports of the different societies and organizations connected with it in the various departments of church work. Notwithstanding the disparaging newspaper reports concerning this church, which have recently appeared in some of the newspapers, no year in the past seems to have been more prosperous, with the exception of a slight falling off of pew rentals, which during the hard times has occurred in all of our churches. The reports showed the following amounts received for the year:

Pew rentals, $11,655.11; box contribution for different objects of benevolence, $12,762.44; individual gifts reported to the pastor for the most part by the recipients, $11,223.84, making a total amount of all contributions for the year 1894 of $40,566.52, which is the largest amount (excepting the contribution to build the new church edifice, viz: the magnificent gift of the late N. P. Coburn of $40,000, to Concord college), ever given during a single year.

No action was taken by the church in regard to the recent newspaper articles which seem to have been designed only to injure the church and its pastor in public estimation. The community seem to be justly indignant against these attacks. The church attempts to do the work of a church that seems to be accomplishing so much in helping forward the great objects connected with its work and Christian charity.

NONANTUM.

—Mrs. Geo. Bishop of Bridge street is seriously ill.

—Miss Carrie Bestwick of Roxbury is visiting friends here.

—Mrs. Martin of California street, is quite ill at her home.

—Mr. P. Gibson of Watertown street is confined to his home with a severe illness.

—Louis Burofski is building a new stable on Watertown street.

—Mr. William Hamilton has accepted a position in Fletcher & Towne's grocery store.

—Mr. Henry Copeland has returned from the Cottage Hospital and gone to his brother's home in Cambridge.

—The King's Daughters met this week at the residence of Mrs. H. G. Chapman of California street.

—Mr. C. A. Worth will lead the Christian Endeavor meeting at the North Evangelical church, next Sunday at six o'clock.

—The new tenement block, recently erected on West street by Morgan Mahoney has been occupied by tenants.

—Mr. George Hudson visited the St. George's street of Lynn, last Wednesday night. He was accompanied by the board of grand officers.

—One of our local barbers not to be outdone by his neighbors, has placed a set of new signs on the front of his place of business. His name, in golden letters, adorns the two larger ones.

—Mr. Edward La Croix has recently moved the provision department of his store on Watertown street, to the front. He will remodel the rear part and make it a five-room tenement.

—A large three-horse team, loaded with boxes and barrels, became blocked in trying to turn the corner from California to Bridge street, and was delayed for nearly two hours. A number of bystanders assisted the driver and the team proceeded on its way.

—Work on the nine-tenement block which Contractor J. A. Nevins is building on Exton street, for G. Fuller & Sons of Brighton, is rapidly progressing. It is only a few weeks since the ground was broken, and now the outside is practically finished, and two of the tenements are in the hands of the plasterers. Verily, "Joe" is a hustler.

NEWTON CLUB MATTERS.

CALENDAR.

Monday, Jan. 28, Ladies' Matinee, Mr. Horace E. Seudder.
Wednesday, Jan. 30, Symphony, Mrs. Sherman Raymond orchestra.

An event of the social season was the wedding reception given Wednesday evening in the Newton clubhouse by Mr. Edward B. Wilson for Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Wilson. Nearly 200 friends, including many prominent society people of the Newtons, Somerville and Boston, were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were assisted in receiving by Mr. Edward B. Wilson and Miss M. Grace Woodward. The ushers were George T. Lincoln, William P. Farley, Charles M. Larrabee and Edward P. Hatch.

The assembly hall was handsomely decorated for the occasion. In the corners of the room were massed tall feathery palms and tropical plants, and the platform was screened by a mass of ferns, behind which was stationed a mandolin and guitar club.

The first of the series of assemblies under the management of Mr. Edward P. May and Mr. Arthur L. Lovett, was given in the assembly hall of the clubhouse, Monday evening. The decorations were very beautiful. Two orchestras were stationed on the platform completely surrounded by tall palms. The matrons were Mrs. J. A. Andrews, Mrs. H. E. Cobb, Mrs. E. B. Haskell, Mrs. George L. Lovett, Mrs. Charles W. Lord and Mrs. L. G. Pratt. The ushers were Messrs. Morton E. Cobb, H. H. Soule, Jr., C. A. Stone, Will T. May, Daniel Dewey, Jr., Severance Burrage, Arthur Howland, Anderson Lord, Fred S. Pratt, C. H. Smith and Harry B. Sawyer. The next assembly will be given at the Woodland Park Hotel, Feb. 11.

In the club tourney last Thursday, Team Three won a game from Team One and Team Six defeated Eight. Capt. Richards of team Three put up a ten-frame score of 211 and a three-string total of 540.

CITY FATHERS IN SESSION.

BOTH BOARDS TRANSACT BUSINESS—ORDER PASSED PROVIDING FOR PETITIONING THE LEGISLATURE FOR AUTHORITY TO ESTABLISH A BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS—ASSESSORS AND OVERSEERS OF POOR CHOSEN—VARIOUS REPORTS OF CITY OFFICERS PRESENTED—ISSUE OF NOTE TO BE MADE FOR APPLETON STREET IMPROVEMENT.

Both branches of the city council were in session Monday evening. In the board of mayor and aldermen, Mayor Bothfield occupied the chair. He started the business of the meeting by reading several communications. One related to the call for a special election to fill the vacancy for senator in the second Middlesex district, caused by the resignation of Hon. Oliver Shaw, and stated that the date had been fixed for Tuesday, Feb. 26.

A communication was received from the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company accepting certain locations granted by the board.

Sundry claims for damages were referred to the committee on claims. These were from F. L. Richardson, Mary Southcomb, Bridget Ahern and F. H. Cole, alleging injuries on account of falls on icy and obstructed sidewalks; James Ford, alleged injuries on account of an explosion of a dynamite cartridge while at work in a sewer trench; Elizabeth Valley, alleged injuries on account of a fall on Middle street.

Frank M. Lucas was granted a permit to erect a shed, 30x47, in the rear of Caroline block.

The reports of the inspector of provisions, (Dr. J. R. McLaughlin), chief of fire department, and city marshal were received and placed on file.

A communication was received from Mr. Horace Wadlin, chief of the bureau of statistics of labor, asking if the city contemplated any revision of the wards and requesting early information upon the subject. Mayor Bothfield stated that he had heard of no change. Ward Two, said he is getting up nearly to the limit in both precincts and if any changes are to be made, it is important that action should be taken as soon as possible.

Upon recommendation of the chief of fire department, John McCammon was granted an honorable discharge from the call force and George S. Holmes appointed to fill the vacancy caused by his retirement.

George D. Cox, Jr., was granted a renewal of license as auctioneer.

A petition of Mary O. Brown and 20 others was received requesting that the name of Nonantum street be changed to Charlesbank road. Later, on motion of Alderman Tolman, an order passed authorizing the change in the name of the street.

A license for a pool table was granted to the Garden City Wheelmen, agreeably to a petition presented requesting said license by E. C. Solis, secretary of the association.

A petition of James Vachon of Newton Centre for licenses for running one pool and one billiard table was referred to license committee.

A petition was received from the Newton Street Railway Company asking for locations for tracks, poles, wires, etc., in Adams, Bridge and Watertown streets. The locations are desired for the proposed new line from Newton to Waltham.

Licenses were granted to Annie Sanford to keep an intelligence office; John J. Pollard, to run two express wagons; Max Baker to conduct junk business, etc.

A communication from B. Dickerman relative to a claim for damages on account of change of grade of sidewalk on Lincoln street, was referred to the committee on claims.

A petition for concrete walk and catch basin in front of the Newton Hospital grounds was referred to the highway committee.

Various reports of committees were presented and received, including that of the special committee on nomination of assessors and overseers of the poor.

A joint convention of both branches for the election of these officers was held, resulting in the choice of the following:

OVERSEERS OF POOR.

- Ward One—T. C. Parks.
- Two—A. A. Savage.
- Three—J. H. Nickerson.
- Four—Nathan Mosman.
- Five—Eugene Fanning.
- Six—E. M. Fowle.
- Seven—H. C. Daniels.

ASSESSORS.

- Charles Miner (Principal Assessor).
- Ward One—T. C. Parks.
- Two—George F. Williams.
- Three—Willard Plympton.
- Four—Bernard Early.
- Five—Geo. May.
- Six—E. M. Fowle.
- Seven—Edward W. Cobb.

When the board of mayor and aldermen reassembled, the report of the special committee on the Kenrick fund was presented and received. An order offered by Alderman Degen was adopted providing for the distribution of the income of said fund ($172.50) according to the wishes of the donor.

An order offered by Alderman Plummer was adopted providing for the release of certain land to S. P. Clark on payment of the drainage assessment.

Orders offered by Alderman Plummer were adopted providing for the laying out and acceptance (taking the necessary land therefor) of Norman road, from Hyde street to Clifton avenue; laying out and acceptance of Hale road; Collins road, from Beacon street southerly; Stearns street, from Parker to Clark streets; portion of Neholde road to Hale road; Hunnewell terrace, from Oakley road to Barnes estate. In connection with above orders for laying out streets, it was provided that the customary notices be sent to parties interested, and hearings appointed for Feb. 18, before the board of mayor and aldermen, and Feb. 25, before the common council.

An order was adopted authorizing the laying out of Tudor terrace from Auburndale avenue northeasterly.

On motion of Alderman Bullard, an order was adopted requesting the mayor to petition the Legislature for authority to establish a board of public works. The new draft of act is drawn without the survey feature, which was regarded as objectionable in the one presented toward the close of 1894 by the chairman of the highway committee. Alderman Bullard said in presenting the order that every objectionable feature had been eliminated. I hope it will pass, said he, as I am firmly convinced of the necessity of such a board. Not a voice was raised in opposition and it is, therefore, fair to assume that the public works board as it will be now created, if the Legislature grants the authority, will meet the general favor of the members of the city government. The common council passed the order in concurrence, evidencing the same unanimity of sentiment as that of the members of the upper branch.

At 9:08 o'clock, the board of mayor and aldermen voted to take a recess. The object was to meet the members of the common council and informally talk over possible changes in the ward lines. Mayor Bothfield read the communication relating to that subject from Mr. Wadlin, chief of the bureau of labor statistics. He said that his purpose in bringing both boards together to talk over the matter was to secure, if possible, some definite idea of what changes, if any, were to be made in the ward lines, that he might reply intelligently to the interrogations of Chief Wadlin.

Alderman White said that a petition would be presented for certain changes by Ward Five residents.

The mayor stated that there seemed to be no prospect of any increase in the number of wards although in Ward Two there had been a change in the ward lines. Anything that is to be done, said he, must be attended to as soon as possible. If no new wards are made now, he added, it will be necessary to wait another ten years. Of course, we can make minor changes such as altering the ward lines so as to include or exclude certain territory.

Councilman Childs—There is a movement among residents of Lower Falls and Waban for a change in ward lines. Waban residents now vote in five different places. They want that district to be included either in Ward Four or Five, or to have it form a part of a new ward. After some further discussion, the convention on motion of Alderman Plummer requested the mayor to notify Chief Wadlin that there would be no material changes in Newton such as the addition of new wards.

Immediately following the dissolving of the convention, the board of mayor and aldermen reassembled. Orders were adopted authorizing the city treasurer to issue a ten-year note for $4600, dated from Jan. 1, 1895, and bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum, the principal of said note to be devoted to the improvement of Appleton street; authorizing the laying out of sewers in Alpine street, from Forest avenue, Moline to Alpine street, Sylvan avenue from Lenox street easterly, Allston street from Alpine to Mt. Vernon.

On the sewer orders, provision was made for the issuing of the usual notices and appointing hearings for Feb. 18 and 25, before the aldermen on the former and common council on the latter date.

On motion of Alderman Plummer, the order appropriating $1000 for the use of the board of health in the culture of anti-toxine was reconsidered and the same tabled. The statement was made in explanation that the board of health requested a reconsideration of the order pending the result of certain tests. It was probable that a larger sum might be required.

On motion of Alderman Tolman, the issuing of a special election warrant for Tuesday, Feb. 26, was authorized to provide for filling the vacancy caused by the death of the late Hon. Oliver Shaw.

An order was adopted requesting the committee on ordinances to consider and report within 30 days relative to modifications in the ward lines, the same to conform substantially, however, to those now existing.

On motion of Alderman Plummer, at 9:45 o'clock, it was voted to adjourn until Monday evening, Feb. 25.

Common Council.

President Parker occupied the chair. The business was principally of a concurrent character.

The Biennial Issue.

Col. E. H. Haskell of Boston, who has made a thorough study of the biennial issue and devoted a great deal of time to its advocacy, recently addressed the business men of Watertown on the subject of biennial elections. If the republican party had listened to Col. Haskell Massachusetts would not now be lagging behind the other states of the Union. He recalled that the movement for biennial elections has extended over many years, and that Govs. Rice, Talbot, Claflin, Robinson and others preceded Gov. Greenhalge in recommending it. We have seen it recommended by one Legislature, when the people have been especially earnest in demanding the change, only to have the professional politicians and agitators rally the next winter and defeat it. Col. Haskell is right in saying that the general sentiment of the state is in favor of the movement and that the press is practically unanimous in the matter. This last statement was abundantly proved in a pamphlet which Col. Haskell compiled, some years ago, embodying the favorable comments of the newspapers, and since then newspaper advocacy of this reform has increased. We quote from a report of Col. Haskell's talk:

"Every state in the Union except Massachusetts and Rhode Island elect their officials for more than one year, and I am told that Rhode Island will adopt the biennial plan this session of the Legislature. Some are of the opinion that yearly sessions of the Legislature are necessary on the ground that Massachusetts needs more legislation than any other state, but a great part of our legislative time is used up in special legislation, and no Legislature sits as long as ours does. The shuffling of political parties is practiced largely, especially in our years, and I think if the biennial plan was adopted the voters would show more interest in the elections. Representatives of labor interests object to biennial elections on the ground that if their representatives do not suit them they can send others, but the man who does his duty is always elected. Gentlemen, if you make a study of the question, you will arrive at the conclusion that biennial elections is a wise course to adopt and biennial sessions of the Legislature will surely follow.

Afflicted With Rheumatism.

Mr. Geo. A. Mills, of Lebanon, Conn., says: "I was afflicted with rheumatism in my back all last winter. It was so severe at times that I could not stand up straight, but was drawn over on one side. I tried different remedies without receiving any relief until I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. After using it for three days, according to directions, my rheumatism was gone and has not returned since. I have since recommended it to others and know they have been benefited by its use. ## NEWTON CONGREGATIONAL CLUB.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD MONDAY AND OFFICERS CHOSEN FOR ENSUING YEAR—ADDRESS GIVEN BY MR. LUTHER D. WISHARD—REMARKS BY MR. J. R. W. SHAPLEIGH, PRESIDENT OF THE NEWTON Y. M. C. A., MR. H. M. MOORE AND OTHERS—EXCELLENT MUSIC BY THE QUARTET CHOIR OF HIGHLANDS CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

The fiftieth regular, which was also the annual meeting of the Newton Congregational Club, was held in the parlors and chapel of the Second church, West Newton, Monday evening. Following the usual social hour and supper, routine business was transacted. The following persons were admitted or reinstated to membership:

Will E. Harding, Eliot church, Newton, proposed by J. Henry Bacon; J. Franklin Ryder, Congregational church, Auburndale, proposed by Nathan Mosman; James H. Westworth, Congregational church, Newton Highlands, proposed by Rev. C. E. Havens. For reinstatement, Andrew B. Cobb, Eliot church, Newton, proposed by Charles A. Haskell; Rev. George A. Hood, Eliot church, Newton, proposed by Rev. W. Calkins, D. D.

The election of officers for 1895 resulted as follows:

President, Albert F. Hayward, Newton Highlands.

Vice-presidents, Charles E. Eddy, Eliot church, Newton; Rev. Theodore P. Prudden, D. D., Second church, West Newton.

Secretary, Arthur W. Kelly, Congregational church, Auburndale.

Treasurer, Seward W. Jones, Congregational church, Newton Highlands.

Executive committee, Henry R. Thompson, Central church, Newtonville; Frederick A. Foster, First church, Newton Centre; William E. Lowry, North church, Newton.

Nominating committee, Rev. George H. Cate, Second church, West Newton; Henry O. Ryder, Congregational church, Auburndale; Arthur Neilson, First church, Newton Centre; Benjamin I. Leeds, Eliot church, Newton; Rev. Daniel Greene, North church, Newtonville; Edward A. Drowne, Central church, Newtonville; Charles H. Guild, Congregational church, Newton Highlands.

Reception committee, Rev. E. E. Strong, D. D., Congregational church, Auburndale; Alvan A. Sweet, Eliot church, Newton; Abram O. Swain, First church, Newton Centre; Richard E. Cobb, Second church, West Newton; William E. Lowry, North church, Newtonville; Walter H. Knapp, Central church, Newtonville; George W. Partridge, Congregational church, Newton Highlands.

Outlook committee, Rev. Charles E. Havens, Congregational church, Newton; Rev. Ezra H. Byington, D. D., Eliot church, Newton; Edward A. Marsh, Second church, West Newton.

These resolutions presented by Rev. J. M. Dutton of Newtonville were adopted: Resolved, That we the members of the Congregational Club approve the action of the League of Protestant Churches of Boston in its efforts to secure the closing of the theatres upon the Lord's day. We commend the efforts to gain additional legal power to aid in maintaining the rights of a Christian people in the enjoyment of the Lord's day of rest, free from organized efforts to convert the day into a day of pleasure seeking.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer and those of the executive, reception and outlook committees were presented and accepted.

The club entertained as its special guests Mr. H. M. Moore of the International committee of the Young Men's Christian Association and Mr. J. R. W. Shapleigh, president of the Newton Y. M. C. A. Both of these gentlemen spoke interestingly. The principal address of the evening was given by Mr. Luther D. Wishard, foreign secretary of the International committee of the Young Men's Christian Association. His topic was, "The Christian Movement in the Universities of America, Europe and Asia." He said among other things:

The missionaries are confronted with the problem of Christianizing a half million young men in educational institutions in Asia, aside from those in China. Higher education of itself may lead one to give up heathenism, but it never Christianizes. Yet the hope of evangelizing the heathen world within a generation can be realized best by training these educated young men to be missionaries to their own people. This is the way to meet the difficulty arising from the intense Asiatic contempt for foreigners, which is much stronger than our contempt for any Chinese people. The missionaries cannot get hold of these young men, but the educated young men from our land are just the ones to win their confidence; and the way to the gospel is eagerly received, and is producing wonderful results. To carry on the work, there will be need of a few well-trained students to go as missionaries, and a large number ready to furnish means for their support, and these Orientals are already beginning to teach us how to give, are showing great enthusiasm about extending the work.

The music proved a very entertaining feature and was furnished by the quartet choir of the Highlands Congregational church.

Curtis Cornwell, former of the Gazette, Middletown, N. J., believes that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy should be in every home. He used it for a cold and it effected a speedy cure. He says: "It is indeed a great remedy, but I can recommend it to all. I have also seen it used for whooping cough, with the best results." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. ## WORK OF NEWTON HOSPITAL.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CORPORATION HELD MONDAY—REPORTS OF TRUSTEES, TREASURER AND THOSE OF THE SEVERAL DEPARTMENTS PRESENTED—OFFICERS CHOSEN FOR ENSUING YEAR—RESIGNATION OF REV. DR. A. E. LAWRENCE—MR. PETTIE RETIRES FROM CHAIRMANSHIP OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—OTHER MATTERS OF INTEREST.

There was a large attendance at the annual meeting of the Newton Hospital Corporation Monday afternoon. It was held in the Nurses' home. President Joseph R. Leeson occupied the chair. The first business was the reading of the roll call and records followed by the presentation of the president's annual report, as follows:

ADDRESS OF THE PRESIDENT.

Before proceeding with the more formal portion of the business today, it seems fitting that we pause a moment to take a glance at the cheerful room in which this corporation for the first time is privileged to hold its annual meeting. Hitherto, as you all know, it has been necessary for us on these occasions, to trespass upon the kindness of our friends in different parts of Newton, for suitable accommodations. By the thoughtful bounty of Mr. Converse and Mr. Pratt, this beautiful home will in future temporarily shelter the members of the corporation, as well as its accustomed inmates, and will thus enable us to appreciate the grateful expressions from those who live here, for this invaluable benefit.

Another year of development and of substantial achievement has passed: the Newton Cottage Hospital has become the Newton Hospital. The larger work which has been accomplished well betrays the wider title, which the Legislature authorized this hospital corporation to assume. We have reached the maximum attendance on a single day of 57, and the highest daily average for a month of 45. While on the one hand these figures demonstrate the pressing need of such an institution in Newton, they also form a positive expression of the confidence reposed in the hospital system and the greater readiness of the people to avail themselves of the advantage which the treatment in the Newton Hospital affords. For the first time in the history of the hospital, we have been under the necessity the past year, of refusing admittance to urgent cases because accommodations could not be given. Surely this fact supplies the strongest argument for the enlarged facilities long needed, and which at the suitable juncture it is the intention of generous friends to provide. With a surgical ward, an operating theatre built in accordance with the present requirements of the science of surgery, and with a surgical ward for the treatment of the more dangerous maladies, measles, scarlet fever and diphtheria, the deaths from such cases would have been largely augmented and the danger of contagion enormously increased.

Since the completion and occupation of this commodious Nurses' Home, it has been possible to carry forward the purpose to enlarge the membership of the training school, which now numbers in its ranks 27. Notwithstanding this addition to the number of nurses, the registry has been unable to respond to a large proportion of the requests made upon it for nurses for families. It is the intention of the managers gradually to add to the number of nurses until the limit of accommodation in the Home shall have been reached. This increase will, it is expected, enable the registry to supply all ordinary demands in the City of Newton. The managers have also recommended, and the executive committee have decided to lengthen the term in the training school from two to three years, which will have the effect to still further add to the capabilities of the school for meeting the requirements of Newton homes.

The services of the nurses continue to give general satisfaction, and the character of the school has been fully sustained. A recent example supplied by our nurses of that devotion to duty, characterizing this useful profession, may fittingly be placed on record. Two of the nurses were called to a family afflicted with diphtheria, in the persons of the mother and two children. The cases were so severe as to demand constant attention night and day. During this experience, the household was deserted by servants and left to their own resources, with such help as the nurses could give. When the cases were reduced in number, one nurse was dismissed with the remaining nurse continuing her services in the family three months, during which period, besides her legitimate work as a skilled nurse, it seemed necessary for her also to become the maid of all work of the entire family. This she cheerfully did, all cooking, washing and other household offices which could not be performed by the husband, being done by this devoted woman. How perfect an exemplification is here afforded of the wise saying of Aurelius, "that reasoning beings were created for one another's sake!"

The corporation is to be congratulated upon the liberal response which the citizens of Newton have made to our appeals for monetary aid during the year past. Another generous donation has been received from Mrs. Eldridge, who has the proud distinction of being the largest individual contributor to the Hospital funds. Acting upon a suggestion of the Surgical staff, the ladies on the Board of Trustees, to whom we were already deeply indebted, have contributed a sum sufficient for the purchase of an operating table of the kind desired by the surgeons. These gifts and the handsome legacy bequeathed to the corporation by the late Nathaniel P. Coburn, have exhilarated us all with renewed confidence and hope. The amount given on Hospital Sunday was greater than on any similar occasion, and has enabled us to close the year with all accounts settled and a small balance in the treasury available for current expenses. With judicious management, it is hoped we may be equally fortunate during the year upon which we are now entering. The liberal support of our fellow citizens serves to strengthen us in the important work upon which we are engaged, and is a cause for profound gratitude from every friend of this Institution. The Ladies' Aid Association has continued its helpful assistance in many ways, and has made itself an indispensable auxiliary to the Board of Trustees. It is my privilege to place on record the splendid service which has been rendered to the inmates of the Hospital during the year by the consultants, the medical staff and the medical superintendent, whose skill and faithful work gratuitously given in the service of this corporation, constitute the brighter light that illumines the shades of weakness and disease, which give the prevailing tone to the surroundings in such an institution as this. The complementary lines in this luminous picture are supplied by the matron, head nurse and pupils in our training school. To be a witness of the Matron's joy at the successful termination of a critical operation, the recovery of difficult cases, or as happened on a recent day over gratifying results of the new treatment of diphtheria, is a privilege and an inspiration.

Since our last meeting, one of our most valued contributors, Mr. George S. Harwood, has been withdrawn from our sight and from the large sphere of usefulness which his benevolent purpose filled during his association with this Hospital and other institutions in Newton. "A man he seemed of cheerful yesterday And confident to-morrow." It is our painful duty today to accept the resignation of one of the corporators of the Hospital who has served with unceasing devotion the interests of the corporation, as a member of the Board of Trustees from the beginning until now—the Rev. Amos E. Lawrence. In his letter of resignation, Mr. Lawrence touchingly writes, "Being myself a large part of the time a subject for hospital treatment, I can hardly be regarded as an eligible member of the Board of Trustees of a hospital. Whether I have in any remote way contributed to the ease or well-being of the suffering inmates of this institution, my relations to it have operated as a tonic to myself, both mentally and morally, and it comes to me even now, that if I could meet with you again, the life current which is moving so sluggishly through my veins would get an impulse toward health and give me a new lease of life."

In concluding this brief outline of some points of interest in our work, it remains for me only to express my deep sense of appreciation of the unfailing courtesy and the steady support which has been given to me by all the officers of this corporation and by my associates on the Board of Trustees, without whose timely and helpful aid, it were not possible to successfully carry forward the interesting task committed to us all.

RESIGNATION OF REV. A. E. LAWRENCE.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Newton Hospital held Jan. 11, 1895, the president of the corporation announced that he had received a letter from the Rev. A. E. Lawrence tendering his resignation as a member of the board of trustees, whereupon the executive committee requested the Rev. G. W. Shinn, D. D., R. L. Thayer, M. D., and Mr. C. L. Truvel, to serve as a committee to draw up some suitable expression of the feelings of those interested in the hospital at the resignation of Mr. Lawrence, and to present the same at the meeting of the Corporation.

Geo. W. Shinn, Sec. Ex. Com.

The corporation of the Newton Hospital with deep regret that the illness of the Rev. Amos E. Lawrence of Newton Centre, renders it necessary for him to decline serving longer as a member of the board of trustees.

Mr. Lawrence was one of the original corporators of the hospital, having signed the petition for the incorporation of the institution in 1880. He has been the firm friend and helper of the work ever since and has served faithfully as a member of the board of trustees. The members of the corporation will always think gratefully of his assistance rendered just at a time when the friends of the institution were not numerous and when the whole enterprise was an experiment, assistance continued down through the experimental stage until the institution was opened for its benevolent activities, and continued thereafter through its many successes until it has become everywhere recognized as an institution dear to the sympathies of the whole population of our city. The ill health of Mr. Lawrence preventing his taking any further active part in the management of its affairs, he asks now that he may be succeeded by some one else with greater strength and energy so that the hospital may not suffer.

In granting his request that his successor be chosen today the corporation desires to put upon record a sense of high appreciation of his faithful labors extending now over a period of nearly fifteen years, and to express to him very sincere regrets that his illness prevents his having any longer the benefit of his counsels and efforts.

That he may be comforted by the consciousness that he has been successful in ministering to the needs of the suffering and that he has won the high esteem of his associates in this hospital work it is suggested that a copy of this paper be forwarded to him.

Committee, { Geo. W. Shinn, F. L. Thayer, CHAS. L. TRUVELL.

The report of the trustees was next in order. It was read by the clerk of the corporation, Mr. Charles L. Travelli and is given below:

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

The history of the hospital during the past year has been one of steady growth in a constantly widening field of usefulness. Aside from the Nurses' Home, the opening of which has been so fully dwelt upon in a previous report, this growth has not taken the form of enlargement, but has been rather in the direction of additional work performed, of increased efficiency and of that more perfect adaptation of means to ends which secures the best results by the most direct and inexpensive methods.

The report of the superintendent shows the number of cases treated to have been 504, an increase of 90, or 14 per cent over last year. It further shows the number of weeks of treatment to have been 1661, an increase of 324, or about 25 per cent over 1893.

The number of cases of diphtheria is reported at 43, an increase of 25 per cent, and of scarlet fever at 34 or more than double the number in 1893. This great increase in contagious forms of disease strongly emphasizes statements made in previous reports showing the extent to which the hospital guards the community from the dangers of contagion. Its value in this direction, even in times when only the usual amount of such disease prevails, is very great and it will prove incalculable in periods of general epidemic such as no community can hope to entirely escape.

It is most gratifying to note that there is no lack of evidence showing a growth corresponding to that of the hospital, in the esteem with which the institutions regarded by the community to which it owes its existence and support, and to the best service of which the efforts of its management are directed.

The closing of the yearly term at the Training school in June was marked by some very interesting features. The final examinations of the graduating class were pronounced exceptionally rigid by the staff physicians, but in spite of their severity, the class passed safely through the ordeal and proved themselves fully equipped with the knowledge required for the intelligent pursuit of their chosen calling. The graduating exercises, which followed the examinations, drew a large crowd of interested spectators and were most pleasing and appropriate. Dr. Scates delivered an able address to the graduates and President J. R. Leeson accompanied the conferring of the diplomas with brief, but pithy remarks, in his happiest vein. The remaining exercises, under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Shinn, were highly edifying and well suited to the occasion. Flowers and music lent grace and charm to the day and the graduates could not have desired a more delightful and promising entrance upon their new career of usefulness.

The Training school must always continue to be a most important branch of the hospital work. There are at present twenty-seven nurses receiving instruction, and the demand for them for outside service continues to greatly exceed the number that can be spared from regular hospital duty. This increasing demand affords convincing proof, if proof were needed, of the faithful performance of duty by nurses given charge of outside patients, and not only this, but it also shows how urgent was the need for just such an institution as the Training school in our midst. All who have been in any way instrumental in furthering this branch of the service, and more especially those to whose generosity the nurses owe their beautiful Home, have every reason to congratulate themselves upon the results already attained and the certainty of the future usefulness of the school.

In this connection it is gratifying to state that the health of the nurses has been greatly improved since their occupancy of the new Home, which, with its elevated location, its bright and airy apartments and its all pervading air of neatness and wholesome comfort, forms a fitting residence for the devoted women who have chosen for their life work the self-sacrificing calling of ministrations upon the sick.

The board of managers of the school, recognizing the great value of an additional year's experience at the hospital, have decided to lengthen their course of training to three years. In spite of this step there has been no decrease in the number of candidates for admission to the school.

Economy of expenditure wherever possible being urgedly called for at the present time, the management have undertaken, and in part carried out, changes in the appliances for heating, lighting and refrigeration which will insure a material saving on coal, gas and ice and by which they hope to take greater advantage of wholesale prices in the purchase of food supplies than has been possible in the past. While these are measures of no special moment in themselves, they are still worthy to be noted as indicating that careful attention to details without which waste is sure to occur.

In addition to legacies and other gifts of money received during the year, and which are noticed more fully in the report of the treasurer, may be mentioned the contributions of furniture, bedding, etc., by the Hospital Aid Association, the refurnishing of a room by Mrs. E. H. Mason, gifts of a wheel and stretcher from Mr. Edward W. Pope, an invalid's chair from Mrs. Wm. M. Bullivant, a quantity of linoleum from Mr. Wm. H. Blodgett, an oak dining table from Mrs. John Bailey and a large number of other articles from individuals and from the various ladies' benevolent organizations connected with our work.

The increase in Hospital Sunday collections and in the annual appropriation from the city government are most thankfully acknowledged. The board experiences a special satisfaction in receiving these proofs of public appreciation and feels warranted in assuring every contributor that his offering will be applied so as to do the greatest possible amount of good.

Attention is again called to the need of an endowment fund large enough to place the hospital upon a firm financial footing. It is confidently hoped that the gifts and legacies of the past year may be followed by many others in the future, and that in this way the hospital may soon become possessed of a fund that will place it on a financial level with older institutions, which, though richer, are no more useful than itself. While viewing with the utmost pride and satisfaction the notable work already accomplished, the hope is still entertained that the friends of the hospital may in no wise relax their efforts until the work of enlargement and improvement has been completed. A children's ward, surgical ward and operating room and separate cottages for consumptives and convalescents would be of great advantage; and it is the earnest hope of the board that before long the group of buildings on the hospital grounds may be rounded out to completeness by these additions. The present, with its cloud of business depression, is not a propitious time for undertaking such an enterprise; but with the return of prosperity they will become easily possible and, in the mean time, there is great satisfaction in knowing that the institution is already so well equipped for service.

By the death of Mr. George S. Harwood, which took place in the early part of the year, the board sustained the loss of a member who is sorely missed from among them. His genial, helpful presence, his wise counsel and conscientious fidelity to duty inspired others to emulate his virtues, and quickened the activities of all in the good work to which he so unselfishly devoted himself. Animated by his spirit, let us meet the labors of the present year with renewed zest and courage.

The treasurer's report, which follows, gives the financial condition of the hospital:

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The hospital trustees are to be congratulated on the continued interest which the people of Newton have shown during the financial depression of the past year and the outcome of the finances of this corporation.

We have received from all sources, including the balance on hand at the beginning of the year, $45,480.46 and the payment amounted to $1,797.87 leaving in the treasury $3,682.59 on hand for the new year with no debts. The contributions from the churches of this city, since the opening of the hospital, are as follows:

THE NEWTON HOSPITAL.

The annual meeting of the Newton Hospital was held on Monday and was a very interesting event. A full report will be found on another page. It will prove interesting reading to all who are interested in Newton and, we might say, to all who are interested in humanity. It will be seen that the work has been largely increased the past year, and that, notwithstanding the increase in accommodations, the hospital has not been able to admit all who have applied. The pressing need of such an institution in Newton is thus shown and also, as the president says in his address, the confidence that the people have in the management. Mr. Leeson presents very strongly the need which exists for the enlarged facilities, which he says "At the suitable juncture it is the intention of generous friends to provide." This is a very welcome announcement to all friends of the hospital, and will be apt to spur on other friends to do something for this institution, which is doing such a noble work in our midst.

No more deserving cause exists and in no other way can more good be done, than by helping along this institution which is caring for the sick and suffering throughout the city. It speaks well for the generosity of Newton people that they have helped so liberally in the building up of the hospital, and placed it in a position where it is able to do so much for the sick and suffering. The contributions grow larger every year and the appeals for help seem never to be made in vain.

The Training School for Nurses has long ago demonstrated its usefulness, and the president gives a very touching example of the devotion of the trained nurses, their heroism in the face of danger and their willingness to perform any labor that comes in their line of duty. The instance given is probably only one of many that might have been furnished and such a nurse is as surely a heroine as any of those whose deeds have been recounted in song or story. The usefulness of the school is shown by the fact that in spite of the increase in the number of nurses, the demand the past year has been far greater than the supply. The number is to be increased gradually, until it is hoped to be able to supply all the nurses that are needed in the city, under ordinary conditions.

It is gratifying to know that in spite of the great amount of extra work the hospital has done the past year, the treasurer is able to announce that he has been able to pay all bills and have a small balance left over. The hospital authorities seem full of hope for the coming year, and have faith that they will find just as generous friends in the future, but the very narrow margin between receipts and expenditures must sometimes put their faith to a severe test.

EQUAL RAILWAY RATES.

WHETHER railroads should practice wholesale and retail principles is a question that is now being discussed by some papers. The Boston Herald protests against the discrimination made by the railroad companies in favor of those who buy their tickets by wholesale, and against those who can only afford to buy single tickets, and it does seem to be an unjust discrimination against the poor man. The recent change made by furnishing 50 trip tickets has been a great help, but there seems to be no valid reason why ten-ride tickets should not be furnished at the same, or nearly the same rate. As, under the present rule, the purchaser of fifty tickets can ride to Boston for a little less than 9 cents a trip, while the purchaser of a single ticket has to pay 13 cents, and of a ten trip ticket, has to pay a little over 11 cents. The railroad is a common carrier, and as such should not discriminate against any class of its patrons.

The Springfield Republican takes the matter up and insists that the leading railroad in the state ought to come down at once to the rate of two cents a trip, whether for long or short rides, but this would not help suburbanites any, as they travel for less than that even when buying a single ticket.

The question has also been discussed by the Allston Improvement Association, which demands a five-cent rate from Boston to that station, the same as is charged by the street cars, and the railroad would probably find a profit in establishing such a rate.

Many have argued that all points in the suburban district should be treated alike, and a rate made of the same amount for all the stations in the district. There is a good deal to be said in favor of such a regulation, and if the Boston & Albany should establish a five-cent fare between any of the Newton stations, it would find a greatly increased revenue therefrom, and would no longer have to haul empty trains around the circuit. The present rates between Newton and Newton Centre are practically prohibitory, even to the buyers of a book of tickets, and it is for this reason that so much is being said of a street railway between Newton and Newton Centre. It would seem to outsiders that a more liberal policy on the part of the Boston & Albany would not only be profitable immediately, but would save a large loss of revenue in the future, when those prohibitive rates have led to the establishing of street car lines between the different villages of Newton.

The Newton Street Railway has a plan to extend its tracks from Washington street through Adams, Watertown and Bridge streets to Bemis, and thence to Waltham. There is said to be no opposition from any of the abutters on these streets, and Adams street is a wide thoroughfare while Bridge street is not an important street. The line would connect Nonantum with the railroad stations, and there is a demand for such a line from those wishing to get to the mills. Whether this demand is great enough to furnish a paying patronage is for the road to consider, but there would seem to be no objection to their taking the risk if they desire to do so. The case is different from former plans to lay tracks through the best residence sections of Newton, and through important connecting thoroughfares, which would necessitate expensive widenings. The present plan is free from these objections and the petition will without doubt be granted by the board of aldermen. The Waltham aldermen have also been petitioned for leave to lay tracks from Bemis to Waltham, but some of the streets are so narrow that the permission may not be granted.

An object lesson as to the working of the ordinance in regard to cleaning sidewalks in wards one, two and seven was furnished this week to any one who had occasion to go from those wards to any other part of the city, West Newton or Newton Centre, for instance. In the first named wards the walks were clear of ice and melting snow and it was possible to walk about with some degree of comfort, while in the latter places the walks were several inches deep in slush and it was almost impossible to avoid wet feet. The walks were in a disgraceful condition and the same was true of the other wards not affected by the ordinance. But if people like those kinds of sidewalks they are welcome to them. For people who always ride to and from the stations it does not matter whether walks are clean or not, but the majority have to walk, and we do not think that people in Newton or Newtonville would be willing to go back to the old unkempt condition of things. Probably in time people in the other wards will be educated to better things but until then those are good places to avoid in sloppy weather.

It is now Charlesback Road instead of Nonantum street, and the residents thereon are relieved of a great weight. The value of real estate has gone out of sight on account of the change.

The Biennial Issue.

Col. E. H. Haskell of Boston, who has made a thorough study of the biennial issue and devoted a great deal of time to its advocacy, recently addressed the business men of Watertown on the subject of biennial elections. If the republican party had listened to Col. Haskell Massachusetts would not now be lagging behind the other states of the Union. He recalled that the movement for biennial elections has extended over many years, and that Govs. Rice, Talbot, Claflin, Robinson and others preceded Gov. Greenhalge in recommending it. We have seen it recommended by one Legislature, when the people have been especially earnest in demanding the change, only to have the professional politicians and agitators rally the next winter and defeat it. Col. Haskell is right in saying that the general sentiment of the state is in favor of the movement and that the press is practically unanimous in the matter. This last statement was abundantly proved in a pamphlet which Col. Haskell compiled, some years ago, embodying the favorable comments of the newspapers, and since then newspaper advocacy of this reform has increased. We quote from a report of Col. Haskell's talk:—

"Every state in the Union except Massachusetts and Rhode Island elect their officials for more than one year, and I am told that Rhode Island will adopt the biennial plan this session of the Legislature. Some are of the opinion that yearly sessions of the Legislature are necessary on the ground that Massachusetts needs more legislation than any other state, but a great part of our legislative time is used up in special legislation, and no Legislature sits as long as ours does. The shirking of political duties is practiced largely, especially in old years, and I think if the biennial plan was adopted the voters would show more interest in the elections. Representatives of labor interests object to biennial elections on the ground that if their representatives do not suit them they can send others, but the man who does his duty is always elected. Gentlemen, if you make a study of the question, you will arrive at the conclusion that biennial election is a wise course to adopt and biennial sessions of the Legislature will surely follow.

KENILWORTH IVY.

If You Want the Real Thing, Never Go to Kenilworth Castle For It.

"Could I get some slips of Kenilworth ivy anywhere about the ruins?" I heard a woman ask of the lodgekeeper at Kenilworth castle one day," said a traveler.

"You are an American, aren't you, madam?" asked the keeper, with a smile. "Why, yes, but what of that?" responded the lady, with some slight embarrassment.

"All American ladies come and ask me for Kenilworth ivy after they have searched in every nook and corner of the ruins for it," explained the keeper. "They have told me how common it is in America and how much it is prized, and generally explained that they have promised to take some of the real thing back from Kenilworth ruins for friends at home. They tell me they expected to find the ruins of Kenilworth castle overgrown with the beautiful 'Kenilworth ivy,' and that it is generally supposed in America that such is the case, and that the ivy first came from here or is named after these ruins because of its abundance here."

"The woman nodded assent to all this, and the keeper continued:

"But what you know as 'Kenilworth ivy' doesn't grow in or about Kenilworth ruins, as you've no doubt discovered." And he smiled again, and the woman also smiled in an embarrassed way, for she had been hunting every inch of the ruins over, looking for the plant. "From the description of the plant which Americans give me I think it is what we call ground or wood ivy that you treasure so much. It has a small, bright green leaf and bears a tiny white flower. It grows on the ground in the thickets and under the hedges in cool places, but I never saw it growing on a wall as the common ivy does. I don't think there is much of it anywhere hereabouts, but it grows in abundance in some places farther south. The American ladies always seem very much disappointed when I tell them 'Kenilworth ivy' doesn't grow here in Kenilworth, and I'm very sorry I can't give you some, ma'am."

"And the woman turned away, with a little sigh, as she thought of the hanging basket at home which was to have been filled with 'real Kenilworth ivy' and of the many friends to whom she had promised slips of the 'real thing' when it had grown. The ruins of Kenilworth castle are covered with thick masses of ivy, but it isn't 'Kenilworth ivy,' but just the common kind."—New York Star.

A Fine Foot.

The elderly gentleman was getting a pair of shoes, and the clerk was striving to please.

"You have an elegant foot, sir," he said as he smoothed the leather down across the instep.

"Um," sniffed the old gent, eying him narrowly, "I guess you ain't the chap that was coming to see my daughter every other night till last week."—Detroit Free Press.

Shakespeare and Bacon.

A famous historian well known personally in Boston told the following story when he was asked what he thought of the Shakespeare-Bacon controversy: "I was once librarian in a small town, and it was my custom to catalogue books on the real meaning of Daniel, astrology, modern spiritualism, etc., under the general head 'Insane Literature.' When any volume written in support of the Baconian theory appeared, I catalogued it under the same head."—Boston Journal.

"Williams," said Mrs. Youngwife from the head of the stairs to her husband, who had come home at an early hour in the morning, "there is some of my home-made cake in the pantry, a new kind that I made today. I put it where you can easily find it."

"All right, dear," responded Mr. Youngwife. "How considerate of you! I might have eaten some of it without thinking." And the grateful husband made a supper of cold beef.—Philadelphia Times.

—Dr. Woodman, who has been seriously ill with peritonitis, is slowly improving.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Kimball have returned from a three weeks' western trip.

—Miss Parnham of Boston was the guest, last week, of Miss Alice Bridgman of Washington park.

—Mrs. D. W. Butler of Woods Hill is the guest of Mrs. Chas. W. Hamilton, Walnut street.

—Miss Linda Mabel Curtis will give a recital in the Universalist church, Monday evening, Feb. 4.

—At the meeting of Mt. Ida Council, R. A., next Monday evening, there will be an initiation ceremony.

—The Neighborhood Whist Club met with Mr. C. N. Sladen, Lowell street, Tuesday evening.

—Mr. Marcus Morton has been elected one of the executive committee of the Episcopal club of Boston.

—Mr. A. R. Mitchell purchased a fine stepper this week. It is a horse of choice breed and is said to be very fast.

—The date of the fourth in the series of the Newtonville Cycle Club's whist parties is set for Wednesday evening, Feb. 6.

—Newton Lodge 110, K. P., will meet in Tremont Hall this (Friday) evening. The degree staff will work the first rank.

—A subscription party, under the direction of Mrs. J. L. Atwood, will be given in Tremont Hall, Wednesday evening, Feb. 13.

—The Garden City Cycle Club bowling team will play a game Monday night with the Cambridgeport Cycling team in Waltham.

—There are letters in the postoffice for Mrs. Frances Bradley, Miss Edith A. Hall, Miss Hill, G. E. Hill, Patrick O'Callaghan and Michael O'Connell.

—Members of the Fleur de Lys club are making arrangements for a St. Valentine's whist, to be given at the home of Miss Morton, Court street, Feb. 14.

—Gethsemane commandery, K. T., held a regular meeting in Masonic Hall Tuesday evening. The red-cross degree was conferred upon four candidates.

—A party from this place will attend the Tuesday evening performance at the Tremont Theatre next week. The Kennedy in "Lady Macbeth" are the attractions.

—The N. H. S. polo team defeated the representatives of the Malden High school in the Intercollegiate league, at Crystal Lake, Newton Centre, Tuesday, by a score 3 to 0.

—The Y. P. Whist Club met with Mr. E. T. Trotter, Washington Park, Tuesday evening. Some pretty prizes were distributed and the usual social features enjoyed.

—A special meeting of the Newtonville Cycle Club was held Wednesday evening. Mr. Edward I. Kenney was elected lieutenant in place of S. W. Lyons, resigned. Several new members were voted in.

—The public declamation at the High school will probably take place some time in February, and Miss Ireson has about completed her selections of the seniors who are to take part.

—The music at the Universalist church, Sunday morning will be as follows:
Soprano solo, and quartet, "O, for a walk with God." M. B. Foster Soprano and Alto solos, and quartet, "As the heart panteth." A. J. Davis Alto Solo and quartet, "One Solemn Thought." S. A. Dow

—The Amphion Banjo, Mandolin and guitar Club of Boston, comprising Messrs. E. P. Small, E. S. Burns, F. H. Hersey, W. S. King and C. W. Robinson, is fast gaining in popularity and is fast gaining in popularity and is fast gaining in popularity.

—There has been some fine skating on Bullough's pond this week. It was flooded over the rough ice and the cold snap furnished the necessary freezing qualities for a smooth surface. Hundreds of ladies and gentlemen have taken advantage of the fine conditions presented for skating and the sport has been hugely enjoyed.

—Mr. A. A. Savage has declined the position of overseer of the poor to which he was chosen by vote of the city council Monday evening. Mr. Payne's father's re-election is a great surprise to his friends here who are at a loss to understand the reason for a change. There is some talk of naming a new man and Mr. H. E. Sisson has been mentioned in connection with the place.

—The election of poet, prophet, and statistician for the class of '95, N. H. S., was held the first of week. Several ballots were taken before the choice could be made. The result was as follows: poet, Miss Ethel Winward of Newtonville; prophet, William L. Barnard of West Newton; statistician, Charles F. Johnson of Newton Highlands.

—Methodist Episcopal church—The pastor, Rev. Franklin Hamilton, will preach both morning and evening. Morning topic, "As one that serveth." Sermon for Christians. Evening topic, "What the Strikers at Haverhill and Brooklyn teach," a sermon for everybody. In the evening, Mrs. Soden will sing "The Angels' Hallelujah," with violin obligato, by Miss Stella Carter. All seats free. All are welcome.

—A team representing the Newton Club will go to Providence, R. I., Saturday evening to play a friendly match with a team representing the West Side Club of that city. A good time is expected. The West Side Club is composed of representative Providence business men and among them, they say, there are some excellent bowlers. The party representing the Newton Club will include Messrs. Savage, Deane, Buntin, Kinsley, Shapleigh, Allen, Eaves and F. W. Pray.

—The ward lines, it seems, may be changed somewhat. There is, of course, considerable interest in the matter here, although no effort has been made up to date for the purpose of bringing about any revision. It is the only ward in the city with precincts nearly up to the full quota and it is, therefore, fair to presume that if there was any serious intention of forming a new ward, Newtonville would be the objective point for a split. If Ward Two is divided the change must be either made now or ten years later, the date of the next census. The very unexpected may happen, but the prospect of two wards in the Newtonville district at the present writing seems remote.

—Hon. Ella S. Yortcheff, the Bulgarian Refugee, will give an address before the West Newton Woman's Educational Club, Friday afternoon. His subject will be, "The Life of the Turks."

—A large delegation from this place will attend the meeting of the Newton Women's Suffrage League to be held at the residence of Mrs. George Crosby, Eldridge street, Newton, next Monday evening.

—Tickets for the opera of "Patience," which is to be given at City Hall on the evenings of February 13th and 14th, can be procured by sending name and address to Mrs. Philip Carter, Newtonville.

—Rev. J. C. Jaynes will reach the ten-year mark of service as pastor in February next. He will deliver his anniversary sermon prior to his departure for Europe. He leaves for his trip abroad accompanied by Mrs. Jaynes, March 23d.

—A social event of interest here Wednesday evening, was the second "At Home," given by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Harrington (nee Nickerson) of their residence on Elm street. It was largely attended, the young people of the society set being well represented.

—Loyalty Lodge, No. 154, L. O. G. T., celebrated their 7th anniversary, Wednesday evening. Among those present were Frank I. Jefferson, P. G. C. T. Joseph A. Frank, P. G. C. T. Willard O. Wiley, G. C. T. Frank Morton and A. J. Hoyer, P. G. C. T. representative of Home Circle Lodge of Jamaica Plain, Crystal River, Highlandville and Upper Falls Lodges visited in a body.

—The Brookline police believe that in Frank Clark, Monday convicted in Newton for larceny, they have identified the man Clark, alias Buehner, alias Charles Dehl, alias Boulanger, who is charged with the larceny of some workmen's clothing and a valise a few days ago. He formerly drove a street sprinkler, and has committed several petty thefts. He will have to serve out his sentence from the Newton court first, but the Brookline police are to interview him when that is completed.

—There is at least one church in Newton which appreciates its pastor. As a result of the meeting of the members of the Unitarian Society last Friday evening, Rev. J. C. Jaynes and his wife will be given a six months' trip to Europe. The meeting was so well attended and so enthusiastic that Mr. and Mrs. Jaynes to take the trip and continue his salary. The amount necessary for the expenses was very promptly pledged. Rev. Mr. Jaynes has been pastor of the First Unitarian church nearly ten years and its members believe that he has accomplished a great work in building up the society.

—A social supper and entertainment were given at the Second Congregational church, Thursday evening. After the tables were cleared a musical program was finely rendered by Mrs. Geo. H. Cate, Mrs. Morton and Mr. Walter Cleveland. Miss Florence C. Sherwood, a graduate of Eastern College of Oratory, gave several readings representing the strong, the humorous and the pathetic which were highly enjoyed by the large number present. Miss Sherwood showed in the rendering of the subjects great perfection in her chosen profession.

—The following officers of John Elliot Lodge, 139, A. O. V. W., were publicly installed by District Deputy Grand Master Workman Everett Clark and suite of Waltham last Friday evening: Charles F. Johnson, P. M. W.; F. M. Dutcher, W. A. Arthur Kimball, foreman; A. F. A. G. Libby, overseer; M. Beardsley, recorder; Samuel Langley, financier; F. K. Clark, secretary; W. A. Gates, guide; Carlo Fenderson, W. J. T. Treacy, O. W. W. Clark, trustee for three years. Addresses were given by District Deputy Clark, Past Master Workman John Alcorn of Waltham and Mr. C. H. Sprague of this place. A musical and literary entertainment was enjoyed and a collation served in the banquet hall.

—Garden City Lodge, 1901, Knights of Honor, held public installation of officers last Friday evening. Mr. Fred M. Hersey, D. D. G., assisted by George E. Richardson, D. D. P. G. D. and J. H. Cushing, D. D. G., installed the following officers: Geo. W. Simpson, dictator; H. E. D. Jefferson, vice dictator; G. E. Lane, assistant dictator; J. A. Bruce, past dictator; Geo. F. Williams, reporter; Chas. H. Stacy, financial reporter; Frank Linnell, treasurer; E. T. Wiswall, chaplain; Fred F. Burgess, clerk; Chas. E. Allen, guardian; F. E. Hunter, sentinel. The trustees are F. E. Hunter, Geo. F. Williams and E. T. Wiswall. A musical program was presented following which a collation was served.

—Twenty-five ladies and gentlemen from Needham Commandery enjoyed a barbeque ride to West Newton, Thursday evening to participate in the ceremonies connected with the installation of the officers of Crescent Council of the United Order of the Golden Cross. Dep. G. C. Whipple installed Mrs. N. B. Rand as N. C. Mr. S. N. Tourtelot as P. N. C., Mr. Ralph Davenport as V. C. as W. P., Mr. J. A. Symonds as F. K. of R. Mr. R. B. Barber as W. T. Mr. L. L. Barbour as K. of R. Mr. H. E. Bartlett of Concord, Mass., gave a pleasant lecture in the chapel, his subject being Personal Reminiscence of Concord authors. Mr. Bartlett spoke particularly of Miss Alcott and of Thoreau, finding in his personal collections of these famous writers, many entertaining stories to tell.

—Mrs. Butler, wife of Rev. William F. Butler of Newton Centre, one of the earliest missionaries to India, addressed the school on Sunday afternoon, talking for subject the mission work now being done in that interesting country, and the obstacles which those first in the field had to encounter. In the course of the talk she told the story of the memorable Sepoy Rebellion, during which so many deeds of horror were done, and in which her husband and so many others perished. Mrs. Butler was on that evening.

—Prof. H. W. Parker's family have returned to New Haven.

—There are letters in the postoffice for William Atkins, Barton & Brock, Dan McNeil, J. Stitt, Miss Goodwin, Mrs. Holmes

Charles W. Home, Miss Annie Nye, Miss Elizabeth Otter, Carrie Pickett.

—Mrs. Thomas Hill and Miss Lizzie Hill have gone to North Conway, N. H.

—Mr. W. P. Thorne and wife have been spending a few days with relatives in Lawrence.

—Mr. Howard Crandell and family are moving into the house corner of Melrose and Severn streets.

—Mr. Harry Swift has recovered from his recent illness and is able to be out again.

—Next Saturday evening occurs the assembly for young people at the Woodland Park Hotel. Cheney's orchestra will play.

A number of residents were notified on Beacon street, Wednesday, in a letter, trying the speed of some of our local "flyers."

—Mr. Elliot W. Keyes has made some extensive alterations and repairs in his store on Auburn street and it now presents quite an attractive appearance.

—Miss Nora Walsh of this place was married, Wednesday evening, to John Crafts of Watertown. Rev. Father O'Toole officiated.

—Arthur J. Reed of Ware road had a birthday party, Wednesday night. A number of friends and relatives were present. It was his twentieth anniversary.

—The choir of Trinity church, Boston, will sing at the Church of the Messiah next Sunday, at the 4 o'clock service, Mendelssohn's anthem, "O for the wings of a dove."

—Mr. W. P. Thorne, the druggist, was, this week, presented with an elegant cigar show-case, by his many friends. As an evidence of his appreciation of the gift all his patrons are smoking cigars.

—Mr. John Kenney stopped a runaway horse, Wednesday night on Auburn street, which proved to be the property of Mr. M. J. McDonald of Waltham, and was afterwards returned to its owner.

—Little Grace Floyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Floyd of Freeman street, while playing with some companions, was struck by a lump of ice, thrown by a boy, and so injured that she is unable to get up and is now lying in bed.

—Miss Gladys Chandler of Central street celebrated her eighth birthday, Wednesday. All her playmates and friends were present and a most enjoyable time was experienced by all. Games were played and a collation was served.

Much sympathy is expressed for Mr. Andrew Loken, West Newton, who lost his barn and all of his live stock by fire, Tuesday morning. Two years ago his house and barn, on his other farm were burned to the ground.

—Mrs. F. E. Williams of Fern street, who was taken so suddenly ill in the Tuesday afternoon, died last home Wednesday morning. The deceased was a widow and leaves a son and a daughter. The funeral was held from her late residence this afternoon at 2:15.

—Mr. Dennis J. O'Donnell was tendered a surprise party by his friends, Friday evening at his home on Lexington street. He was presented with a handsome armchair, Mr. Thomas Lyons making the presentation speech, to which Mr. O'Donnell feelingly responded. The party broke up with best wishes for their host.

—Mr. Chandler's horse ran away again Tuesday night. While being driven by Mr. Cowdrey, who was accompanied by two ladies, he started from the top of Central street hill, twisting and turning, and ran to the railroad track running as far as the West Newton depot, where he was frightened into heading back for Auburn street. He was afterwards captured by Mr. Cowdrey, but not until he had completely demolished the sleigh and harness.

—One of the most important of the mid-winter social events in Newton was the reception given yesterday afternoon and evening by Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Haskell to introduce their daughter, Miss Margaret Haskell, into society. The reception was held at the Haskell residence on Vista Hill. Nearly 1000 invitations were issued, and nearly 500 were present. The evening was a most enjoyable one, and the party broke up with best wishes for their host.

—Miss Agnes Blake was "introduced" by a dance given by her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Blake of Auburndale, at Pierce Hall last week. It was one of the prettiest parties of the season. B. the use of mirrors, the walls of the elegant saloon seemed opened up to the view of the guests of graceful maidens and cavaliers, repeating the gay scenes in the halls and reproducing the floral decorations and beautiful white and gold hangings.

—The floral decorations were superb, and called out much admiration, for Galvin had surpassed himself in the arrangement of the white and gold combinations. The walls and balcony were elegantly and gracefully decorated with white roses and asparagus, and distributed through the waiting rooms and corridors were large palms and other tropical plants. There were two orchestras, one in the temple and the other upon the platform, and the dancing went on uninterruptedly from 11 to 4, with an interval for supper at midnight. This was served at small tables, and the supper room, like the hall, was hung with surlux. Some elegant gold and silver ware was used on the tables. Miss Blake was in simple white, and carried white roses. —Boston Herald.

—On Thursday evening, Jan. 24, a number of the students were fortunate enough to be among those privileged to attend the Cecilia Club concert, in the city. Mr. Bragdon accompanied the party.

Saturday evening was rich in attractions, offering to the music lovers both the Symphony concert and that of the Slavayn. The usual number of the students attended the former, and another party heard the noted pianist.

On Monday, Jan. 21, the entertaining lecture of H. B. Rand as N. C. Mr. S. N. Tourtelot as P. N. C., Mr. Ralph Davenport as V. C. as W. P., Mr. J. A. Symonds as F. K. of R. Mr. R. B. Barber as W. T. ## ON MOUNTAIN TOP.

GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION OF THE VIEW FROM LONG'S PEAK.

A Landscape No Painter Can Put Upon Canvas, No Words Fully Express—Trembling With Fear at the Stupendous Scene—Anna Dickinson's Card.

All lovers of mountain scenery having a few days' time at their disposal must make a flying trip to Estes park, the most beautiful and inviting of all Colorado parks, but not the largest. It is only six miles wide by ten miles long, through which run several streams, filled with "speckled beauties," so much sought for by skilled anglers. At the south end of the park rises Long's peak in all its majesty and grandeur, with a sentinel on either side nearly equal its height. The altitude of the park is 7,500 feet.

We leave our wheels at the hotel and drive up to Lamb's ranch, where we spend the night at an elevation of 10,000 feet.

At sunrise the next morning, mounted on horseback, with an experienced guide in the lead, we ride up to timber line, where we picket our horses and commence the climb of the bowlder fields, necessitating much courage and determination, as these bowlders are angular rocks of solid granite and run in size from a chicken coop to a modern dwelling. In the center of this bowlder field was passed the slab recording the death of Carrie Welton of Connecticut, who a few years since unwisely insisted upon the guide accompanying her to the peak too late in the season. When returning, they were caught in a severe gale and blinding storm. After suffering as only one can suffer when surrounded by that intense loneliness, stung by the pangs of cold and cravings of hunger, her life was sacrificed. The trusty guide for hours made supernatural efforts to carry her over those almost impassable rocks until, at her request, he left her to bring a rescuing party from the ranch, which upon arrival found life extinct.

Following the guide, we pass through an opening called the "keyhole" and emerge beside an unweildy precipice. We carefully pick our way along the brink, which requires all our nerve and resolution, but yet is not as tiresome as the loose sand and broken rock, rising at an incline of 45 degrees, just beyond. By perseverance and an occasional rest we are enabled to reach that ugly precipice on our right, and by using both hands and feet we make the summit, where we stand speechless with wonder and admiration. Hard as it was, we would make the same heroic effort a hundred times were it necessary to witness the grand scene before us.

Nearly 8,000 feet below is Estes park, the sportsman's paradise; to the west is Middle Park and Hot Sulphur Springs; to the south South park. Beyond these peaks we see the range for a distance of over 200 miles. With the aid of our glasses we discern Gray's peak, Mount Lincoln, Mount Evans, Pike's peak and Old Ouray in Marshall pass, some of which are 200 miles distant. What a scene it is! What an ocean of mountain billows, in contrast to which we turn to the east and see an ocean of plains—the one as quiet as the peaceful sea in a calm, the other as tempestuous as the tossing billows.

Never was time more valuable than now. So much to be seen. Such a picture to paint in our minds so that it may never fade. Think of making this impression indelibly upon one's mind, covering this panoramic view of 200 miles in either direction of plains, valleys, parks and mountains, of growing fields of wheat and far distant cities, of snow capped mountains, of magnificent forests and crystal streams.

Again and again we sweep the horizon and study a landscape no painter can paint, no speech can express. Before returning we must look at the souvenir deposits of visitors. Here is a shingle by Major Powell, who, with William N. Byres, was the first to make the ascent in 1868. Here is Anna Dickinson's card, the first woman to ascend the peak, also of the party who climbed the peak in 1878 to witness the total eclipse, together with thousands of visitors' cards.

The top of the peak is level, covering a few acres, and we wonder that a house has not been built there for the accommodation of those who might wish to remain overnight and see the sun rise. Before returning we must take one look over the crater wall, which has a perpendicular descent of 3,000 feet. How nervously we approach the edge, step by step, until our strength fails us and we can go no farther.

Trembling with fear, we return from this stupendous scene, bewildered with mixed feelings of pleasure and fear. Before making the descent we take a final view, the like of which we shall never again see. We retrace our steps, and having passed the most dangerous places courage is restored, and we reach the park after nightfall so tired and with such a longing for our couch, but with the feeling that we would sacrifice anything reasonable rather than deny ourselves to Long's peak, but having once made it nothing would tempt us to climb it again.—Edward B. Light in Good Roads.

She Knew.
"Do be quiet, Johnny. Don't you know that there's a visitor in the next room?" said Frances to her little brother.
"How do you know? You haven't seen in."
"But," said Frances, "I hear mamma saying 'my dear' to papa."—Pick Me Up.

Remorse.
A chemist had made a mistake in his weights and poisoned a customer. When the fatal tidings were brought to him, he pulled out two handfuls of hair and exclaimed:
"Wretch that I am—and my best customer too!"—London Judy.

1889, 7,900.38,	1894, 20,930.96

The property is now insured for $50,000, as follows:

General Hospital,	$16,000
Furniture therein,	5,000
Contagious ward,	7,000
Furniture therein,	1,000
Smallpox ward,	800
Furniture therein,	200
Boiler house and contents,	1,500
Morgue,	500
Laundry and contents,	600
Training school for nurses,	15,000
Furniture therein,	3,000

Since my last annual report the building called the "Nurses Home," which was referred to in that report, has come into our possession and stands on the books at $18,000.

Our property now, consisting of land, buildings and furniture has cost to date, $76,176.66. We have to record another generous gift of Mrs. Elizabeth T. Eldridge made last April of $500 for the endowment of a free bed to be called the "Elizabeth T. Eldridge free bed," which money has been invested in a 5 per cent mortgage.

The money formerly invested in 10000 Acheson bonds has been invested in 100 shares, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R. stock. We were obliged temporarily to borrow $2000 to tide us over until the hospital Sunday contributions came in, and at the first opportunity the loan was paid off.

Since our last annual meeting one of our generous supporters from the beginning of this enterprise, Nathan P. Coburn, has departed this life. He was always interested in the welfare of the hospital which was shown by his generous gift of $15,000 to the endowment fund which will be available in a short time. I would suggest that the new private ward be called the "Nathan P. Coburn Ward" as he originally intended to give the money to build that ward. I also acknowledge the receipt of a legacy of $500 from the estate of Mrs. Mary L. Colby.

Thanking the trustees for their co-operation in financial matters and particularly Lucius G. Pratt, Esq., for valuable suggestions and financial help, I submit my accounts for the year 1894.

Newton, December 31, 1894.

The report of the Hospital Aid Association was read next. It is substantially as follows:

NEWTON HOSPITAL AID ASSOCIATION.

The quiet work of this association has continued during the past year as heretofore. The eight meetings of the directors were held monthly from October to May, for the most part in the parish house of Grace church, Newton. A standing invitation to meet there has been given to the directors. It seems not to occur to the rector of this church or to the kind sexton that it is a trouble to open their doors to the association.

The efforts to collect gifts have been made as in previous years, and if in some instances the returns have been smaller, none have regretted this more than those who have been unable to give freely, and the diminished gifts must not be interpreted as implying diminished interest in the hospital. All rejoice to observe that those who have the ability are helping to meet its annual needs.

The amount raised by the Aid Association this year is $854.25.

This is in addition to the many articles sent by individuals, and by the various women's relief societies and guilds of the city. These have included, among other things supplies of bedding, towels, table cloths and napkins, infants clothing and night and day gowns.

The association has sent as usual supplies of furnishings for wards and Nurses Home, of brooms, brushes, dust pans, baskets, soaps, cups, saucers, knives, forks, coffee pots, sugar bowls, creamers, tables, chairs, pillows and mattresses, besides many other items.

Pictures, books and magazines have been secured from thirty-six donors during the year. Special mention should be made of eight lithographs presented by Mr. Thompson, and of the number of one cent stamps added to those previously given by Mr. Klackner of New York City, all of which have been suitably framed by the association.

Twenty-five kind friends have sent old linen, old cotton and flannel. It is hoped that this number will be largely increased during the coming year. Mention should also be made of the kindness of Mr. Joseph Lee, proprietor of the Woodland Park Hotel, who has sent to the hospital a receipted bill for ice cream of $12.50, and more than sixty loaves of bread.

Fruit and flowers have been contributed by more than seventy donors, by some of them from five to eight times. The young people of the Universalist church, Newtonville, have carried flowers to the hospital every week during the entire season, that they could be gathered from field, wood, or garden. They propose during the coming season, to plant flower seeds in their own gardens in order to add to their supply for the hospital.

At Christmas, as usual, the ward supply committee was instructed to purchase some little gifts from the hospital for each patient and nurse. But their kind thought was more than equalled by one of the scarlet fever patients. Five sick patients were there, secluded from the festivities of the day. A woman, a girl, a boy, a child and a Wellesley College girl. When the matron, Christmas morning, saw what she could do for them, she found that the young lady from Wellesley had planned some bright and cheery entertainments for her fellow prisoners for the day, illustrating the beautiful motto of the College, "Not to be ministered unto, but to minister."

In the spirit of this motto the aid association desire to be of service to the hospital during the year, on which we now enter.

For the Association, AUGUSTA M. HOVEY, President.

The report of the chairman of the training school for nurses (Mr. Lucius G. Pratt), was presented by Clerk Travel, as follows:

THE TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES.

The past year has been notable, not only for the faithful work done by pupils and teachers, but especially by three distinct advances on the lines of equipment, tuition and administration. The dedication of the new home for nurses marked the completion of a work which the friends of the school had watched with great pleasure. This splendid building, with its accommodations for forty nurses, and its generous provision for their comfort and happiness, gives the Training School a home adequate for its needs and worthy the high standards of its students and instructors. It emphasizes the fact that the Training School is an important department of the hospital work.

The course of training has been lengthened to cover three years. It is believed that a shorter period is insufficient for the high grade of training which this school affords, and tends to an injurious pressure of work. The new schedule gives the pupil ample time for acquiring familiarity with her duties, before assuming the responsibility of private nursing.

Under the guidance of our accomplished superintendent, and her efficient head nurse, the pupils of this school receive an education the excellence of which is shown by their work in the hospital wards, and by the highly appreciative letters received from the homes to which they have been sent in response to calls for nurses. The number of these calls far exceeds our ability to supply them, and the amount earned in this way during the past year has been larger than ever before.

The third change noted is one of administration. The school is now under a Board of Managers which has special charge of its instruction, discipline, and general welfare, co-operating with the superintendent of nurses, who is ex-officio a member. The board includes the matron and the nurses, who are the matron's assistants, and the liberalities which prompted this noble gift.

The school is under the management of the Matron of the Hospital, who is also the superintendent of nurses, and she is assisted by the board of managers: Mrs. Wm. Allen, Miss Annie McDowell, Mrs. E. B. Haskell, Dr. F. Pratt, Drs. S. L. Easton and F. L. Thayer.

The school graduated 4 nurses in 1890, four in '91, four in '92, eight in '93, and ten in '94.

Candidates must be over 23 and under 35, must have received a good common school education, and have certificate of good health. During the matron's probation they are boarded and lodged in the Hospital, but receive no other compensation. If accepted they receive $10 per month for the three years of the course.

The statistics are full of interesting figures. Twenty-one pupils were admitted on probation in 1894, making a total of 40 in the school, 10 were graduated, and the number remaining Dec. 31st was 27. There were 156 applicants during the year, showing the high repute of the school; 202 calls for private nurses from outside were received, and of these 97 were supplied. 245 weeks of private nursing were done and the money earned by nurses amounted to $2934.71.

The committee on nominations presented its report and the following officers were elected for 1895: Clerk, Charles I. Travel; treasurer, Geo. S. Bullen; trustees, Mrs. M. L. Bacon, Mrs. J. N. Bacon, Mrs. J. M. Blake, Mrs. W. H. Gould, Mrs. E. B. Haskell, Mrs. Alvah Hovey, Charles C. Burr, Rev. Wolcott Calkins, D. D., A. Lawrence Edmunds, W. P. Ellison, Dr. R. Emerson, W. P. Tyler, Dr. F. E. Crockett, Dr. E. P. Scates, Mrs. C. W. Leonard, Mrs. John Lowell, Mrs. E. H. Mason, Mrs. Geo. W. Morse, Mrs. N. Emmons Paine, Miss Mary Shannon, Edward H. Haskell, J. R. Leeson, Charles S. Dennison, Otis Pettie, Lucius G. Pratt, Rev. Geo. W. Shinn, D. D., Dr. J. F. Frisbie, Dr. F. L. Thayer.

Following the election of officers, President Leeson made a few remarks. In behalf of the board of trustees, he said, he was glad to welcome Mayor Bothwell whose presence at the meeting testified his interest in the hospital.

It was voted to amend Article 10, paragraph 4 of the By-Laws, so as to read, "They shall appoint the Board of Managers of the Home and Training School for Nurses, the Matron, Superintendent of Hospital, nurses, pupil nurses, and all other persons employed by the Corporation, and fix all salaries except that of Matron, which shall be determined by the Trustees."

It was voted also to publish 2000 copies of the annual report of the institution, the same number issued for the year 1894.

Under the head of new business, it was unanimously voted to name the new private ward for the late Nathan P. Coburn.

At the annual meeting of the board of trustees following the annual meeting of the corporation, Hon. Joseph R. Leeson was re-elected president by unanimous consent. Mr. Leeson expressed his sense of appreciation of the honor and of the cordial cooperation which had been given him during his incumbency of the presidency. He said that he would endeavor in his humble way, to do what he could toward discharging the obligations of the very responsible position.

The choice of president settled, these additional officers were elected: Vice-president, Hon. William F. Ellison; executive committee, Rev. George W. Shinn, D. D., Mr. D. R. Emerson, Mr. C. S. Dennison, Dr. E. P. Scates, Dr. F. L. Thayer, Dr. J. F. Frisbie, Dr. F. E. Crockett; finance committee, Messrs. Lucius G. Pratt, A. Lawrence Edmunds, W. P. Tyler, W. P. Ellison, Edward H. Haskell, and auditing committee, Messrs. C. Burr and W. F. Ellison.

A committee was appointed to draw up resolutions on the retirement of Mr. Metcalf. A vote of thanks was passed expressing the trustees' appreciation of the services of Mr. Otis Pettie who retires from the chairmanship of the executive committee.

Mr. J. A. Soriven, a prominent manufacturer of 18 East 15th St., New York City, purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy from Druggist H. H. Lane, Peekskill, N. Y. Such good results followed its use that he sent back to Mr. Lane for two bottles more of the same remedy. Those who give this medicine a trial are seldom satisfied with any other when again in need of such a preparation. It is unequalled for coughs and colds. For sale by Arthur Hudson, Newton; E. W. Keyes, Auburn; B. B. Buck, Newton Centre; E. F. Partridge, Newtonville; B. Billings, Newton Upper Falls; and J. H. Green, Newton Highlands, Druggists.

THE NEWTON CAMERA CLUB.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC:

This organization of Newton amateurs in photography recently held its annual meeting and starts another year in pursuit of the pleasure and profit attainable in securing art gems by field and wayside, as leisure allows. Though very unpretentious in its claims and making little or no display of its progress and results, it has nevertheless proved its value as an association worthy a still larger membership. Its recent annual exhibition in Eliot block, of pictures representing landscape and marine views with several creditable efforts in portraiture and transparencies, called forth many pleasant compliments and friendly criticism and it is reasonable to suppose that the results will awaken an added interest during the current year.

Nothing but ill-health has held the writer from making more personal efforts in the way of solicitation for new and increased membership for we think it is a matter of some pride that we have such an organization in our city. As the expense is so little and the pleasure and pastime so great, to say nothing of the profit, we can but think many not yet induced to join the club, will soon inquire them out and join us.

It may not be generally known that we have a wide-awake industry in our city, engaged in the manufacture of gelatin or what are called dry-plates of all camera sizes and which are pronounced second to none in quality elsewhere produced. The Stanley Brothers have in the past year enlarged their plant and we learn are as busy as bees, though as they do not let daylight into their works, we cannot see "how they do it." With the new and novel inventions in the way of camera outfits and the extremely low prices which they are sold at, it is not strange that so many people, both old and young, are availing themselves of the pastime and pleasure which they afford. Apropos of hand cameras, we have just had our attention called to what purports to be the latest and best produced by the Rochester Optical Co., N. Y. It is not "a joy forever" it is in need of "a touch of beauty" in the most serviceable and compact form possible. It is christened the "Premo," whatever that may mean in camera vernacular, and is, no doubt, up to date, as the product of '95.

By the way, we learn as a matter of interest from the Hub, that a new Monthly is seriously talked of, devoted to photography and the allied arts. We think there is room for it as it ought to succeed.

Now about the Newton Camera Club, of which Dr. E. B. Hitchcock of Newton is president. The clubhouse is on Brookside avenue, Newtonville. Look it up ye lovers of the "art preservative."

DOES THIS SETTLE IT?

HAS THE SOURCE OF THE MISSISSIPPI BEEN POSITIVELY FIXED?

The Story of the Search for It During Two Centuries—Lake Itasca and the Little Stream That Nicotlet Christened the "Cradled Achilles."

"I have stepped across the Mississippi river," said Dr. Cones. "It was easy, for the stream was only about 8 inches wide and 2 inches deep. I have seen the Father of Waters where he rises literally out of the ground and starts as an infant rivulet, destined to cut the United States in twain with the mighty volume of his adult flood."

"The story of the search for the source of the Mississippi reads like a romance. After the discovery of the upper river in 1673 by Joliet and Marquette, and the discovery of the falls of St. Anthony in 1680, by Hennepin, little more was known of the Father of Waters for nearly a century. In 1766 Captain Jonathan Carver ascended the stream as far as the mouth of Rum river. In 1798 the famous English astronomer and surveyor, David Thompson, in the service of the Northwest company, reached Turtle Lake. This lake, which sends a tributary to the Mississippi, was for some time supposed to be the source.

"The first white man known to have visited the neighborhood of the actual source of the Mississippi was William Morrison, a fur trader, who was certainly at Lake Itasca in 1803 or 1804. He never published anything on the subject, and it is only very recently that his priority of discovery has been known. The next explorer of the sources of the river was Lieutenant Zebulon Montgomery Pike. He was the first American citizen to carry the flag of the United States into northern Minnesota. He was sent by the government to treat with the Indians and stop the sale of liquor in that region. Incidentally he purchased for $250 and some whisky a tract of land nine miles square, which included the present site of Minneapolis. Congress subsequently voted an additional payment to the Indians for this tract of $2,000.

"Lieutenant Pike proceeded by boat to the vicinity of the present Little Falls in Morrison county, Minn. He got no farther with boats, and so continued his journey through the winter of 1805-6 on snowshoes and with sledges northward. He finally reached Leech lake. This lake he mistook for the source of the Mississippi, and his report on this subject was held to be correct for some years afterward.

"In 1820 the Hon. Lewis Cass, accompanied by Henry R. Schoolcraft, the historian, went on an exploring expedition up the Mississippi as far as Cass lake, so named at the time by Schoolcraft. In 1823 an Italian traveler, J. C. Beltrami, went over David Thompson's route to Turtle lake and reported that lake to be the true source. Evidently, however, he heard from the Indians about Lake Itasca, for he mapped it with approximate accuracy, though he was never there and did not imagine that the Father of Waters sprang thence.

"Lake Itasca was rediscovered in 1832, when Schoolcraft, accompanied by Lieutenant Allen, United States army; the Rev. Mr. Bottwell and others, was guided to the lake by a Chippewa Indian, known as Yellow Head. On this occasion Lake Itasca received its present name, which was made up of parts of the words Veritas Caput, signifying the 'true head' of the river. The Latin was bad, for it ought to have been Verum Caput. The lake had previously been known by the French name of Lac la Biche, meaning Elk Lake. This was a translation of the Chippewa Omashkos Sogagion.

"Schoolcraft's party made an examination of Lake Itasca, being satisfied that they had found the true source of the Mississippi. Not again until 1836 did any scientific man visit the spot. This was a Frenchman, J. N. Nicollet, who tried to ascertain the source of the feeders of Lake Itasca. Exploring southward, he reached the springs from which the infant river takes its rise. It should be understood that the Mississippi runs from its source directly northward for a distance of 50 miles before turning about in a sort of fishhook bend and starting southward. To the baby stream, before it enters Lake Itasca, Nicollet gave the poetic name of "Cradled Achilles." He established its course in connection with three small lakes, since named Upper, Middle and Lower Nicollet lakes—that is to say, he found that the little river ran through two of these small lakes and connected with the third. This explorer mapped the whole of the Itasca basin and determined the latitude, longitude and altitude with such accuracy that subsequent surveys have only confirmed and amplified his observations.

"The whole subject of which I have been speaking was befogged and thrown into dispute recently by a certain Captain Glazier, who, apparently for no other purpose than to advertise himself, published his alleged discovery of a new and true source of the Mississippi. By reducing the size of Lake Itasca, ignoring Nicollet's Cradled Achilles, magnifying a small lake which he called Lake Glazier, and by stretching out one of the feeders of the latter, he produced a distorted map which actually imposed on the Royal Geographical society of Great Britain. Many of the errors thus originated have crept into the standard maps of the United States.

"It may be said that there is nothing further to be learned about the true source of the Father of Waters. As a matter of essential fact, the true Upper Mississippi is the river called the Misorri. The stream that flows from Lake Itasca is merely a tributary. I ought not to forget to mention that I walked along the bed of the stream termed by Captain Glazier the infant Mississippi for a considerable distance dry shod. The little brook was dried up. Late measurements have reduced the length of the Mississippi from 3,184 miles to 2,555 miles." street have been entertaining friends from out of town this week.

—The Newton Centre Woman's Club met with Mrs. Robert R. Bishop, Beacon street, yesterday afternoon.
—Mr. J. T. McKenzie, who was formerly in the employ of Mr. W. A. Parks here, has removed to Newton Highlands.
—Miss Clara Stanley, who has been quite ill at the Newton Hospital, returns home tomorrow, Saturday.
—Mr. George Brigham, one of Boston's eminent tenor vocalists, will sing at the evening service in the Methodist church, Sunday.
—A jug of rum was stolen from an express wagon here, Tuesday evening. The police were notified and have been conducting an investigation.
There are letters in the postoffice for Miss Annie Johnson, Miss Julia E. Ladd, Bessie
McDonald, Mrs. John D. Ryan and Mrs.
William Tucker.

—Mrs. C. W. Pierce and Miss E. F.
Pierce left town this week for New York City from which place, after a several days'
stay, they will journey on to Washington.
—The Epworth League meeting in the Methodist church last Sunday evening was led by Arthur Fowler. The topic was,
"The Christian's Patience."
—About that inquiry, where did the "rising sun" of newspaperdom get its experience, it seems to be a conundrum. One is all puffed up trying to unravel the mystery.

—Unitarian church parlor, Newton Centre—
Tuesday, 7.45 p. m., Mr. McDaniel will lecture on "The Rights of the Individual," and how they have been gained.
All welcome.
—An alarm was rung in for a fire Monday night at 10.45 o'clock in the house of Mr. Charles A. Clark on Cypress street.
It started from a kerosene stove. The damage was trifling.

—A stone thrown by a boy at a canine
this week missed its mark and struck one of the large plate glass windows in Cobb's drug store, Bray's block, cracking it badly.
The glass was valued at about $75.
—A party of young people from this place went on a sleigh ride to Belmont behind four horses this week. At Belmont a supper and dancing continued to its measure of pleasure to the evening's enjoyment.

—Alford Bros. & Co. have sold for Luther Paul to H. G. Chase, a lot of land containing 1500 square feet on Oxford road, for investment. This lot adjoins Mr.
Chase's estate on Parker street, and gives him a fine frontage on two streets.

—A whist party was given at the home of Mr. A. I. English, Centre street, Wednesday evening. Seven tables were occupied. At the close of the playing, the prizes were distributed and then followed the customary social features. A collation was served.

A. H. Roffe, treasurer; G. E. Gilbert, advisor; W. B. Samuel Ward, B. E. Taylor, Frank Edmonds, directors.

—Some excellent scores were made on Bray's alleys Monday. Warren Ellis put up a ten-frame total of 200, without a break. Philip Turner knocked down 192 pins in a single string with only one break.
Arthur Fowler made a ten-frame record of 225 and Aleck Derris contributed a single-string total of 163 at candles.

—Mr. Clinton Hunter, son of Mr. S. V.
A. Hunter, of Newton Centre, and Miss Fidelie Abigail Donlon of Chicago were married in the latter city Wednesday evening. The wedding was a very brilliant affair. Mr. and Mrs. S. V. A. Hunter and other relatives from this place were among those who witnessed the ceremony.

—Mr. Bertrand T. Wheeler, Boston's new superintendent of streets, is a nephew of Mr. Walter Thorpe of this place. He was born in Lempster, N. H., and is 31 years of age. Mr. Wheeler is a Cambridge boy and a Dartmouth college man graduating in '84. Since then he has followed engineering in the employ of the Old Colony railroad, now the N. Y. N. H. & C.

—Rev. Dr. S. F. Smith was tendered a reception by the Young Men's Baptist Social Union of Boston, Monday evening.
After the banquet, he made a speech,
thanking the union for its kindness in tendering him the reception and also for making him an honorary member. He said that he considered it a great honor to be allied with such a band of young men, and although much older in years his heart was just as young as any of theirs. Rev.
Francis E. Clarke and Rev. A. J. Gordon were present and addressed the meeting.
During the evening "America" was sung,
as also was "Auld Lang Syne" and "The one of Mr. Smith's more recent productions.

—One of the largest land transfers in this city for a long time has been consummated
in the sale of 500,000 square feet, situated on Commonwealth avenue, (Central boulevard). The purchaser is a well-known syndicate, represented by A. D. S. Bell, who is one of the leaders in the boulevard property. The property bought is in three lots, and was owned by Rose B. Rice, Harriet T. Rice and Robert Rodden. That owned by the first party is situated on the north side of the avenue, running through to Ward street, having large frontages on each street. The other two lots are on the avenue and Irving street, and all are finely situated, being near the proposed boulevard between Newton and Newton Centre.

The lots will contain about 10,000 square feet of land each.

—Mr. G. H. Ellis has 10,000 tons of ice housed, ready for his customers.
—Hon. J. B. Somers of Cranston, Pa., is in town this week visiting relatives.

—Mr. George Frost of Pleasant street, who has been ill, is convalescing.
—Dr. Banfield is out again after a short illness.

—Messrs. Temperly and Hurley of this place are away this week on a hunting and fishing expedition in the vicinity of Stodard, N. H.

—Mr. Henry Paul has made a trade by which he will get back, after awhile, a piece of land west of his house, while he sold without sufficient restrictions.

A special service of a very interesting character was held in the Congregational church here last Sunday evening. Men from the Kneeland Street Rescue Mission were present and an address was given by Rev. Mr. Coons, its assistant superintendent.

—The fact that a petition was in circulation here in the interests of establishing free delivery for the south side was announced exclusively in the GRAPHIC columns. It comes under the classification of news that people very naturally have a curiosity and desire to become acquainted with.

—The first of the four morning coteries,
to be given by Miss Clement in the Unitarian church parlors, occurred yesterday.
It was quite a unique affair and furnished for the ladies of Newton, what they may scarcely enjoy so near home—a musical treat of the first order. January 31st, February 21st and 28th are the dates of the three remaining coteries.

—The fifth annual coffee party of the Church Debt Society connected with the Newton Centre Catholic parish, will be held in Associates' Hall, Thursday evening next. A prize is offered for the lady and gentleman who appear in the most odd and striking costume. Pr. McDaniel has made great preparations for this annual event, and this year it promises to afford many features of pleasure and interest.

—Mrs. Adams Clafin of Grant avenue gave a tea Saturday afternoon and her guests through this very enjoyable social function were enabled to meet Mrs. William B. Phillips of Brookline. The latter's husband is building an elegant residence here adjoining the Clafin place and upon its completion will occupy it with his family. In the dining room of the new residence, Mrs. Phillips poured, assisted by Mrs. Norman George and Mrs. Irving Crowell. Mrs. Adams Clafin wore a gown of light pink and blue and Mrs. Phillips was dressed in white silk.

—Dr. Arthur G. Webster of Clark University has received notice that he has won the Elithu Thomson international prize of $500 for the best treatise on electricity.
The subject of Dr. Webster's thesis is "An Experimental Determination of the Period of Electrical Oscillations." The contest was originally instituted by the city of Paris for the best electric motor, and was awarded to Prof. Elithu Thomson. With the desire that this sum should be used for the development of theoretical knowledge in electricity, he requested the general manager for Europe to offer it as a prize for the best work on a theoretical question in electricity. Dr. Webster was a Newton Centre boy and fitted for college at the Newton High school. He is a son of Wm. E.
Webster.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—Mr. W. E. B. Ryder is at home ill with the grippe.
—Mr. E. J. Hyde has been very ill for several days with typhoid pneumonia.

—Next Sunday St. Paul's church will observe the 12th anniversary of its beginning. Special music. The rector will preach. Services at 9.45, 10.45 and 7.

—Mr. F. A. O'Connor has presented the High school with a portrait of Sumner
and it has been placed in the north room with the others. It is hoped the other rooms may be adorned.

—Mr. H. M. Beal, the well known builder, has another house under way on Harrison street, Eliot, and also has two more cellars started, and Mr. Beal is building a house well under way of Woodward street on the Weston land.

—A concert under the auspices of the Highlands Club was given in Lincoln Hall
Wednesday evening by the Apollo Male Quartet, assisted by Mr. M. E. Parker, violinist, and Miss Bertha C. Smith, soprano soloist. The quartet comprised Walter E. Paine, first tenor and accompanist; Thomas R. Williams, second tenor;
F. E. Woodward, baritone; George A.
Buntin, basso. Its numbers included
"Gay Hearts" (Macy) and "Tom, Tom, the Piper's Son" (Kendall), the recalls indicating the appreciation of the audience.
The vocal work of the quartet furnished opportunity for individual comparisons. The sweet notes of the high tenor and Mr. Woodward's rich baritone were especially noticeable in the song "In May" and in the number which initiated the second part of the program. The artistic work of Mr. Ladd and Miss Smith's fine zither playing won their deserved measure of recognition. From a musical and social standpoint, the concert was certainly a success.

—Amasa Crafts, who died here Jan.
18th, was one of the old residents of Newton, having been born in the old house on Boylston street, formerly the Worcester turnpike, on Nov. 30, 1815, and having lived with his father, Moses Crafts, until his marriage, Jan. 2nd, 1845, to Sarah Rebecca Paul of Newton Centre, when he moved to his late residence. His father, Moses, was born on what is now the Strong place at Waban, which was purchased by his grandfather in 1729. Amasa learned the trade of blacksmith of his father and worked at
it continuously at the blacksmith shop
smith shop at the corner of Woodward and Boylston streets, until he was obliged to give it up in 1857 on account of loss of sight. He was always a very active and industrious man, strictly honest and honorable in his acts and dealings and was loved and respected by all who knew him. On account of his affliction he could not take any active part in public matters, but he was always greatly interested in what was going on in the community. He leaves a wife, two sons and one daughter. The funeral took place from his late residence on Monday, Jan. 21, Rev. G. E. Harris and Rev. G. G. Phillips officiated. Interment in the family lot at Newton Centre.

—A smoke talk under the auspices of Oak Lodge 170, A. O. U. W., was given in its hall here Wednesday evening. It was well attended and a most interesting and affair. It ought to result in building up the membership for those present must have been impressed with the forceful address on the objects of the order given by Past Grand Master Wm. W. C. Ingalls, the clerk of the criminal court of Suffolk County. He pictured the benefits of fraternal organizations in eloquent language. "I care not its name," said he,
"order of United Workmen, Royal Arcanum, Knights of Honor, Odd Fellows or any other similar society, it is a man's duty to take advantage of the provisions which it always offers for aiding his family in the event of being taken from the ranks of the living." He gave some facts about the A. O. U. W. which is, perhaps, the best and cheapest fraternal insurance order in the world. The "smoke" was in charge of the entertainment committee of the Lodge, comprising Messrs. C. A. Peck, W. L.
Thompson and John H. Walton, A. O. U. W.
The "smoke" was a most interesting connection with the affair was the rendering of selections by the Aaron Male Quartet, comprising Edwin Cooper, first tenor; W. L.

Peck, second tenor; Horace Walton, baritone;
Fred M. Russell, basso. As a result of the meeting, several applications for membership were secured.

—Mr. W. H. Keating is confined to his home with the grippe.

—Mr. C. A. Guild of Woodward street is ill with rheumatism.
—The Unitarian services at Stevens Hall
next Sunday morning will be conducted by Mr. Hudson.

—The next meeting of the Chautauque Circle will be with Mrs. Ross, Hyde street.

—The next meeting of the Monday Club will be with Mrs. Durgin, Hyde street.
This will be "Thackeray" day.

—Mr. W. B. McMullin, the carpenter, is building a house for his own occupancy on his lot fronting on Cook street near the engine house.

—The entertainment given on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Methodist society, at the Methodist church, at which Miss Oliver, reader and impertorator, was the attraction, was a complete success in all respects.

—Mr. Elliott J. Hyde, who has been very ill the past week with typhoid pneumonia,
is today reported to be much more comfortable, the disease having taken a favorable turn, and is now considered to be out of danger. This will be good news to many who have felt very anxious the past week, and have made daily inquiries as to his condition.

—One of the notable affairs of the season
here was the assembly given in Lincoln Hall, Tuesday evening, by the choir of the south side was well represented and the assembly was in all respects a decided social success. The managers were Messrs.
Arthur W. Taylor, H. B. Forbes, W. H.
Nash, W. E. Ryder, the matrons, Mrs.
Parker, Mrs. Ryder and Mrs. F. E.
Masters.

—At the meeting of the Congregational Club held at West Newton on Monday evening, Mr. A. F. Hayward was elected president, Rev. C. B. Haven, chairman of the outlook committee, Mr. C. H. Guild a member of the committee on nominations.
Mr. G. W. Partridge on the reception committee and Mr. S. W. Jones was re-elected treasurer. The quartet from the Highlands church furnished the music.

—Mrs. Ananda Smith celebrated her 80th birthday at her home on Walnut street, Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs.
F. C. Perry, Mrs. A. C. Perry, Mrs. A. H.
Greenwood and many friends from Newtonville and this village were present.
During the evening Mrs. Smith was presented with an elegant banquet lamp and flowers. Recitations were also given by Walter and Elsie, Greenwood, the great-grandchildren of Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Smith is in the enjoyment of good health and her friends sincerely hope that she will live to see many more birthdays as pleasant as this.

—In the Highlands Club bowling tourney, matches were rolled Thursday last and on Friday evening, team three defeating four on the former night and team one winning from team five on the latter. Capt. Heik-man of team three put up the highest three-string total. The scores:

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Miss Mary Sullivan of Boylston street
is quite ill.

—Miss Nellie Crowley has recovered
from her recent serious illness.

—Mr. Adrian P. Espagnier has purchased a new horse.

—The Newton Rubber Works Co. has engaged a number of new employes on account of the increase in business.

—There are letters remaining in the Postoffice for Miss Lizzie Lowe and Julius Switzer.

—Mr. Frank Stiekney and family, former residents of this place, were entertained, the past week, by Mr. George Billings of Central avenue.

—Mr. Elmer Billings, Mr. Geo. Hill and Mr. Richard Worcester, all of this place, were accepted by the Newton and Union Cycling company of Highlandville.

—Mr. S. F. Cate announces that for the greater convenience of his patrons in Upper Falls, he has arranged with John W.
Howe of High street, to receive all orders for his services both day and night. Orders will be transmitted with all possible dispatch.

—While driving through here, Sunday evening, a horse attached to a double sleigh which contained six occupants, became frightened and, throwing the occupants out, dashed down Eliot street, completely wrecking the sleigh. The members of the party were each somewhat injured, but refused to give their names.

—Mr. Edgar Lambert met with a peculiar accident, Sunday evening. In getting from a train on the Providence railroad to one on the Albany, at the Huntington avenue crossing, Boston, he slipped and fell on the track. When he was picked up it was found that his shoulder was dislocated.

—At the Newton Upper Falls Methodist church on Sunday next, the pastor will preach at the morning service. Subject,
"Man shall not live by bread alone." At 6.30
p. m. Mrs. Harriet E. Carpenter, daughter of the late Marshall S. Rice, and during the year, missionary evangelist, will speak on the subject of Missions.

—Mr. and Mrs. Lewis P. Everett gave a delightful musicale at their home on High street, Friday evening, in honor of Miss Sawyer of Portland, Me. The invited guests were from Boston, Brookline and Newton. The artists of the evening were
Mr. Charles Schirmer, violinist; Mr. Geo.
Schirmer, pianist; and Miss Jennie Billing, accompanist.

The Fatal Word.

(From the New York World.)
"My darling," he exclaimed, raptur-ously, "how brilliant you are. You fairly—er—bristle with ideas."
The Chicago girl drew herself up to her full height, and brushed him haughtily
aside as she swept out of the room.
"You seem to forget," she turned on her heel at the door, and faced him—
"that I cannot brook any reference to my father's business."

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—Bishop's paper mills have resumed running after a two months shut down.

—Mr. F. C. Lyon has taken a position as bookkeeper for Mr. L. S. Cate, West Newton.

—The Concord street crossing is now protected by gates and a tender, the gates
having been put up this week.

—Mr. Geo. C. Folsom and family have closed their residence for a few weeks,
their headquarters while absent being in Boston.

—A decided change is being made about the grounds surrounding the elegant stone mansion, known as the Heekle house, since coming into new hands about two weeks ago.

—A testimonial to Mr. Chas. Harris of this place was tendered him by his professional friends of Boston, last week, Thursday evening, in Freeman Hall. The testimonial as it is termed, was in the shape of a variety and vaudeville performance. The entertainment progressed about 30 minutes after which time it concluded, leaving a rather indignant audience protesting to themselves as the program was but half rendered. The assigned reason for discontinuing the entertainment was on account of the scattered audience.

—The Roxbury Orchestral Club gave a very enjoyable concert at Freeman Hall, Wednesday evening, in the interests of the Choir Guild of St. Mary's church. The program was made up wholly of musical numbers, instrumental and vocal, and a good sized audience richly enjoyed a finely rendered musical treat. Mr. Howard as violin soloist and Mrs. Howard in vocal selections were deservedly encored, their parts being charmingly rendered with pleasing effect. The guild is deserving of special praise in arranging such an enjoyable program executed with such artistic taste.

—The residents have been complaining at intervals for some time, of an extremely disagreeable odor emanating from the Finley Paper Mill here, and they certainly have just reason for their complaints.
Mr. C. F. Finley, a member of the board of health, resides a short distance from the works and has in each instance called to his notice remedied the nuisance. It seems the trouble has been with the burning used in the manufacture of the paper. The parties supplying it are the ones, it seems,
who deserve to be prosecuted if this stench
is allowed to continue.
